PLATTSMOUTH LOSES FIRST GAME OF YEAR

LOOKED GOOD AT THE BEGINNING, BUT WAS LOST IN THE FINAL WIND UP.

WAS TIE IN THE NINTH INNING

Tenth Inning Gives The Omaha Team the Game, Seven To Three.

From Monday's Daily.

The first ball game of the season has been played, and the prospect during the former portion of the game was that we should win. Nothing was done by either team until the third inning, when the Red Sox made a run, and the visitors only had a man on third. It was not until the fifth that the visitors saw the home plate, where two tallies were recorded to their credit. Again in the seventh, they secured a run, making them three to the Red Sox one, and things did not look so well for the Plattsmouth team, but when they go their half of the inning the matters were evened up for Mason who had made a run in the third recorded one again, and Mayfield added one, making the runs even.

The eighth and ninth showed no change on the status, and when the nominal game had been played it was a tie, and in the first portion of the tenth inning, the Omaha Power men shelled out four runs, and were pretty hilarious, while we were not able to secure any in our half. The game went to them at the tune of seven to three.

Carl Stimpson who was in the box, did some very fine work, and during the game struck out seventeen men, and but for a few very gross errors we would have been able to have won the game. There were a number of very fine plays on both sides, and also some which could not well be praised very highly, as good ball. Dr. Sandin was the umpire, while the batteries for the home team were Stimpson and Herold, for the visitors were Mogensson and Yost.

The runs by innings being:
Red Sox... 0 0 1 0 0 0 2 0 0 6—3
Omaha... 0 0 0 0 2 0 1 0 0 4—7

WERE MARRIED BY THE JUDGE.

From Monday's Daily.

A soldier just from across, living at Nebraska City, and whose name is George R. Fields, a manly handsome young man, the picture of good health and looking like a true American, and a bonnie lassie of just turned eighteen years, fair to look upon, and with an open womanly countenance, bearing the names of Miss Thelma Giles of Omaha, appeared at the office of the county judge, and were furnished with a marriage license, and the kind hearted judge was impressed into the service, to perform the ceremony, which made these two excellent young people, husband and wife. They departed for Omaha on an afternoon train, after having spent the time viewing the city, until the train departed. A very beautiful wedding ring was purchased from one of the local jewelers. We with their many friends extend to them congratulations and best wishes for a happy life.

GEORGE WASHINGTON IS SOME FINE BOAT

From Monday's Daily.

Sunday morning as Thomas Short was departing for Omaha, where he went to spend Sunday, he remarked as to how the George Washington, the boat which carried the president to and fro from America to Europe, was outfitted. Mr. Short who has been on the boat, tells of it all being painted white, and with much brass work, in railings and trimmings, and a veritable thing of beauty. But he said, "How those boys in the navy have to work to keep the ship in shape, with decks immaculate and the brass trimming shining, not like a silver dollar, but like a diamond. Mr. Short says she sure looks pretty."

WILL CONSULT A SPECIALIST.

From Monday's Daily.

Charles E. Martin, who has been at his home for the past ten days sick, and not able to get out, only at rare intervals, is so he can be down town again, and this afternoon departed for Omaha, where he goes to consult with the eminent specialist Dr. Kennedy with the hope of securing some relief from the troubles which he has been having in his health. We are in hopes that Mr. Martin will speedily return to his accustomed health.

HOSPITAL TRAIN IN OMAHA YESTERDAY

Carried 134 Wounded Soldiers En Route to Camp Lewis—Stopped in City 2 Hours.

From Monday's Daily.

A model hospital train, carrying 134 wounded soldiers to Camp Lewis, Washington, stopped off a couple of hours in Omaha yesterday morning and during its stay in the city, the train was visited by a number of Plattsmouth people who happened to be at the station. The men were showered with flowers and cigars by Omaha canteen workers and also taken for a short tour of the city in private cars.

With few exceptions every man on the train fought in at least one of the great battles of the world war. A majority of the heroes were wounded in the Argonne forest fight although men wounded at Cantigny, Chateau Thierry and St. Mihiel were among the group.

With the exception of Sergt. John Cook and Private John Sande, both wounded at Argonne forest, all of the men were in convalescent stages and able to care for themselves.

Shrapnel and gunshot wounds, with an occasional gas case, predominated.

They were a happy bunch of men—these heroes of the great war, in spite of hardships and wounds suffered during the struggle. No harrowing tales of death and bloodshed were told, and no complaints were voiced.

"We're on our way home," smiled one round faced youth, "so, what more could we ask."

HAVE A LITTLE DIS-AGREEMENT IN ALVO

From Tuesday's Daily.

Harvey Toland and little daughter Edna, from Alvo was in the city, for a short time today, coming to consult with the county attorney, and to make complaint against Mrs. Allen Meyers, of his town whom he is accusing of assaulting his daughter Miss Edna Toland and Laurine Stromer yesterday evening as they returned from school. From the testimony given by the little girl, the children had been quarreling and had a fight last Friday, which engendered bad feeling.

Who is to blame in the case will probably come out in the trial as Mr. Toland is preferring charges against Mrs. Meyers. Both families have lived in Alvo for some time. Mr. Allen Meyers is the barber at the village, and has three sons ranging from twelve to eighteen, while Mr. Toland is a mason, and has a son and daughter.

22 CASS COUNTY BOYS DIED IN SERVICE

Some from Flu and Other Diseases; Others Facing the Enemy on Battlefields of France.

LIST OF THE DECEASED ONES

Shows Four Plattsmouth Boys Were Killed in Action and Three Died of Disease.

From Monday's Daily.

Lieut. D. L. Beal, who is located in Omaha at the Rome hotel, and who has in hand the matter of compiling a list of names of all Nebraska soldiers, sailors and marines who were killed or died during the war, has written to the Red Cross chapters in each of the counties over the state for a list of all those from the county who gave their lives while in hie service, either through disease or from the shells of the enemy.

As a member of the local chapter of Red Cross, Mrs. C. A. Rosencrans has furnished Lieut. Beal with the desired list for Cass county, which shows that a total of twenty-two of our fair youths paid the exacting price of warfare—some through illness while in cantonments, some in overseas camps and others who laid down their lives while facing the terrific gun fire of the enemy.

Plattsmouth contributed seven of her youths to this list of twenty-two within the confines of the county. Four of these seven, Edward C. Ripple, Henry Hrz, Hugh Kearnes and Robert Jacks, were killed in action, while the remaining three, Matt A. Jirousek, George Kopischka and August Hesse succumbed to the ravages of disease.

Herman Furrer, a former resident of Eagle died of influenza.

Edward M. Heeneey, of Manley, died of pneumonia.

Guy Frisbe, while on a furlough in California near the station where he was located, was struck by a taxicab and killed. Mr. Frisbe was a former Elmwood resident.

Jack Idemiller, also of Elmwood, died in camp from spinal meningitis. Herold Marshall, of Weeping Water was killed in action, while Van Crew and Harold Hitchman, both of whom were from the same place, died of disease.

Harry E. Johnson, of Murray, died of influenza.
Bernard Roddy, one of the old-time scholars of Mrs. Lottie Rosencrans, died of tuberculosis of the bowels.

Paul Spence Ingram, of Louisville, died of lobar pneumonia.

Claude and Frank Riggs and Albert W. Vallery, all of Mynard, died of influenza.

Ralph Parcell and Archer Trudeau of Alvo also succumbed to the same disease.

This makes a total of twenty-two, only five of whom, it will be noted, were killed in combat.

SUPREME COURT HANDS DOWN FINDINGS

ON THE CASE OF GEORGE E. DOVEY ADMINISTRATOR OF ESTATE OF E. G. DOVEY, AND

SCHLATER IS ADMINISTRATOR

With Will Annexed. Of The Estate Of Jane A. Dovey, H. N. Dovey and O. C. Dovey et al.

From Tuesday's Daily.

The long drawn out and bitterly contested case of Geo. E. Dovey, Administrator of the estate of E. G. Dovey, deceased; E. G. Dovey & Son, Plaintiffs vs. Frank E. Schlater Administrator with the will annexed of the estate of Jane A. Dovey, deceased; Horatio N. Dovey, Oliver C. Dovey and C. D. Quinton, Sheriff of Cass County. Defendants, has finally found a decision at the hands of Judge Good of Wahoo, sitting in the case, in the room of Judge Begley.

In this controversy, the contest really was on the equity of Jane A. Dovey on the estate of E. G. Dovey & Son, which formerly included, E. G. Dovey, and son Geo. E. Dovey, from February 1st, 1876, to July 25th, 1881 at which time the firm became composed of Jane A. Dovey widow of E. G. Dovey, and three sons, George E. Dovey, Oliver C. Dovey and Horatio N. Dovey, as the only heirs at law of the late E. G. Dovey. That Geo. E. Dovey was appointed administrator at the time of the death of his father, and on June 20th, 1914 made first inventory of property.

In the year 1885, a new partnership was formed, which consisted of the old partners with the exception of Jane A. Dovey, and the business continued until September 22nd, 1909, when Oliver C. Dovey retired selling his interest for $50,000.00. The new partnership now formed consisted of Geo. E. Dovey owning three-fifths and H. N. Dovey owning two-fifths of the business, but still continuing the name of the firm E. G. Dovey & Son.

The interest of Jane A. Dovey remained in the estate, and was not accounted for, other than to keep same as loan to the firm, which was to have interest paid thereon, she still continuing to hold a one-fourth interest in the firm.

The court finds that for the interest of Jane A. Dovey as shown by the facts per the testimony, from all sources, which had accumulated from July 25th, 1881, to the time of her death November 20th, 1913, the total was $113,076.39 and that she had withdrawn during her lifetime from July 25th, 1881, to the time of her death $29,403.97 with interest thereon, making in all $57,712.24 thus left in the firm the interest of Jane A. Dovey at her death, her estate, with interest at the rate of 7 per cent which makes on the handing down of this decision May 5th, 1919, the sum of $76,520.62, for which judgment is rendered in favor of Frank E. Schlater administrator with the will annexed of the estate of Jane A. Dovey, deceased; Horatio N. Dovey, Oliver C. Dovey, and C. D. Quinton, Sheriff of Cass County, Defendants. Also showing a judgment in favor of Oliver C. Dovey for the sum of $816.82, and that he be released, while the cost of the suit are to be taxed up against the present firm of E. G. Dovey & Son, allowing them forty days in which to perfect an appeal.

In this case attorney C. A. Rawls appeared for the defendants, while for the plaintiffs there appeared Attorneys John L. Webster and Mr. Burbank of Omaha, and D. O. Dwyer of this city. In the matter of work and ability, no one questions the three legal lights, who looked after the affairs of the plaintiffs and of their earnestness and hard work to win for their clients, the decision in the plaintiffs favor, and with this as a fact, Attorney C. A. Rawls alone single handed, won over this combination of talent which speaks for Mr. Rawls' ability, integrity and a persistency of watching all legal aspects and phases of the case, from the three points of the other side. Mr. Rawls is one of the most reliable practitioners at the bar of Cass county, and in winning this the largest judgment ever given a party in this court is evidence of his ability and integrity as a lawyer.

Mothers' Day!

Next Saturday—May 10th—sons and daughters who are away from home will write letters to their mothers. Those who are close at hand will send them tokens of affection and regard—perhaps flowers—a book—something.

Mothers are so familiar to us that in the rush of things we sometimes forget that they are our mothers, our wisest counsellors and our dearest, sincerest friends.

But next Saturday we shan't forget. It is their day to be remembered—ours not to forget.

SLASHED WITH RAZOR BY THE STAR BOARDER

ED BRANTNER, OF PENDER, A SON-IN-LAW OF JOHN CORY AND WIFE, INJURED.

MAN MAKES HIS GET-AWAY

Brantner Had Asked Him for the $18 Board Bill He Owed, Which Started the Trouble.

From Tuesday's Daily.

Even being landlord of a hotel is not without its dangers in these days of the H. C. of L., for one can never tell when some itinerant boarder may feel himself insulted when asked to pay his board and proceed to start a rough house.

Last Wednesday Ed Brantner of Pender had a narrow escape from death when he asked a barber by the name of Johnson for a board bill which he was owing, when he attempted to go away without paying same. Johnson, who had money was attempting to get by without liquidating, but owing to villence of Mr. Brantner was caught at the livery stable just across the street from the hotel. When Mr. Brantner asked Johnson for the money he owed, they became involved in a wordy confab, when the barber struck at Mr. Brantner, who threw up his arm to ward off the blow, when the barber drew a razor across Mr. Brantner's waist band, cutting the clothing and the fleshy portion of the abdomen, for a space of eight inches along the waistline. Mr. Brantner struck the man, knocking him down, and with such force that he broke the bones in his own hand. With the left hand he then gave the man a good pummelling.

The man got away and escaped, while Mr. Brantner went after a gun, but the man was gone when he got back. The following day a friend of Johnson brought the amount of the board bill and secured the man's clothes, who said that the letter had been sent from Bancroft. Mr. Brantner had the wound sewed up, which required a large number of stitches to close it. The physician said that another quarter of an inch would have proven fatal. Mr. Brantner is getting along nicely at last reports.
