REGIMENT IS COMPLIMENTED FOR WORK

ADDRESS CIRCULATED AMONG MEN WHILE ON TRANSPORT ENROUTE HOME.

FRANK KINNAMON—A MEMBER

Tribute Paid Efficient Work in Review of Exploits of 119th Field Artillery.

From Thursday's Daily. While enroute home aboard the U. S. S. Frederick, a communication was issued to the officers and men of the 119th Field Artillery, by Col. Chester B. McCormick, commanding, in which he reviewed the exploits of the 119th's battle activities in recent military operations on the western front and paid tribute to the gallant performances of the unit.

Among the men of the 119th was Frank Kinnamon, who was discharged a few days ago and arrived home from intensive service overseas.

The communication issued to the men comprises three printed pages and is too long to permit of publication complete, but below we give parts of it, selected from the paragraphs comprising the text of the message:

"Submitting conscientiously to the hard routine training in the United States, you were rushed to France in February, 1918, with the first few hundred thousand—arriving with the fifth American division.

"On June 11th our batteries sent forth their first ultimatum to the enemy. We suffered our first casualties in this (Toul) sector.

"The latter part of July, you were rushed into the Second Battle of the Marne, referred to as the Marne-Airne offensive. You were suddenly confronted with one of the most severe tests of your career. With new animals and inexperienced drivers, you were forced to march for five days to the vicinity of Chateau-Thierry. On account of the shortage of artillery horses, the regiment was compelled to drag 16 American caissons loaded with ammunition the entire distance. To save the animals, everyone, except drivers, were compelled to walk and carry full pack, for which you had no previous training.

"Entering the lines July 30th, in support of the 32nd Division, by rapid advances August 2d and 3d, the Division forced the enemy from the Ourcq to the Vesle. This was the first rigorous and reliable test of the ability of the regiment in open warfare. The 32nd Division was relieved on the 6th and you were left in support of the 28th Division, and by the dogged support of your guns promptly assisted their infantry in the capture of Chateau de Auble and crossing the Vesle and capturing Fismettes. Here the gallant and courageous conduct of your gun crews which time and again were totally wiped out and the guns destroyed by enemy shell fire, demonstrated that the rigid discipline and details of your early training had not been without avail.

"Beginning September 16th, there followed seven nights of exhausting forced marches in mud and rain, entering the Meuse-Argonne offensive. Not only was this a severe test upon the morale of your organization, but the many hard marches began to tell upon the animals that by this time were weak and exhausted.

"On the night of the 24th the regiment entered the lines in support of the 79th Division. On the morning of the 26th, after a tremendous artillery preparation, the infantry went over the top on the same ground where a half a million perished on either side in the operations about Verdun in 1916. After many hours delay in the preparation of roads across 'No Man's Land' you succeeded in reaching positions near Montfaucou, being the first of the divisional artillery over.

"You may well feel proud of the distinguished service you have rendered. The record of the regiment stands out brilliantly, equalled by few if any. Although our casualties have been heavy as compared with other regiments of artillery, considering the hazardous service rendered I consider we have been extremely fortunate, but more so to good discipline and judgment of both officers and men.

"The missions entrusted to you have been ably performed with a spirit of cheerfulness and steadfast self sacrifice and devotion to duty, serving under conditions of extreme hardship and danger, you have acquitted yourselves in a highly gratifying and satisfactory manner. During the long marches covering one thousand kilometers, and periods of exposure and hunger, you have accepted all as a matter of duty, even to your conduct and behavior in the rear areas after the armistice, when the mental stress was worse than front line combat, you seemed always imbued with that indomitable spirit of 'Let's Go.'

"Let us pause in reverence to our immortal dead, who by their courageous sacrifice have permitted us to return victorious in honor. May their souls rest in peace.

"It has indeed been an honor to command you. I thank you for your loyal support and congratulate you upon your success. CHESTER B. MCCORMICK, Colonel, 119th F. A."

ENJOYED DELIGHTFUL TIME YESTERDAY

From Saturday's Daily. Yesterday at the Christian church was had a very pleasant afternoon by the primary department of the Sunday School of that church, which is under the direction of Mrs. Inez Stenner the superintendent of that department. The mothers and the babies on the roll were in attendance as well as the other members of the department. An address was made by Mrs. Stenner and also one by Mrs. Scott, which was directed to the mothers and little ones while Miss Thelma Hudson gave a special number in song which pleased all. The other numbers of the program was the singing by the children, who did it very nicely. This was followed by a very appetizing lunch which was surely enjoyed by all. The primary department by the report read by its superintendent Mrs. Stenner is shown to be in a very healthy condition and doing excellent work.

DISCHARGED FROM SERVICE.

From Thursday's Daily. This morning Merl Lanning, who has just returned from overseas, and was discharged from El Paso, Texas, on the 20th, arrived here to join Mrs. Lanning, formerly Miss Mae Glenn, who has been visiting at the home of her parents for some time. Mr. Lanning is looking fine and healthy and was glad to get home again, he having gone to the service from here more than a year ago. His home being in Eagle prior to his departure for the army. Together with Mrs. Lanning, and Mrs. Thomas Glen, mother of Mrs. Lanning, he departed on the Burlington train this morning for Hamburg, Iowa, where they will all visit at the home of Leon Glen and family for a short time.

VISITS BROTHER AT HOSPITAL.

From Thursday's Daily. Will G. Meisinger and wife departed this afternoon for Omaha, where they go to the hospital to visit with Mrs. Meisinger's brother George Shoeman, who has been in the hospital there for some time, receiving treatment. He was first taken with the influenza and later was in such a condition of health, that it was found better to take him to the hospital for treatment, as stomach trouble developed and his condition has remained rather serious. He is showing but little improvement, though it is hoped he will soon be well again.

LOOKED LIKE OLD TIMES.

From Thursday's Daily. This morning we stepped into the jewelry emporium of J. W. Crabill, the proprietor was not in, but the smiling face of "Brownie" Maldon Brown, in citizen's attire looked over the show cases with a pleasant greeting. This looked pretty good to us, as this young American, who has given the two years of his life and with a prospect of giving it all for his country, when the difficulty which called him from his daily avocation to the sterner realities of grim visaged war, he did his full duty. We are glad to see him home again and in his old place.

SEATTLE PRIEST ELECTED BISHOP OF THIS DIOCESE

EPISCOPALIANS IN CONVENTION IN OMAHA SELECT FATHER ERNEST V. SHALER

To Become Successor to the Late Bishop Williams—Chosen on the Second Ballot.

From Friday's Daily. Although unaware of the fact that he was being considered as a candidate for the Nebraska diocese, Father Ernest V. Shaler, of Seattle, was nominated by 16 of the 23 Episcopal delegates in session at the Trinity cathedral in Omaha yesterday, as bishop of the Nebraska diocese to succeed Bishop A. L. Williams, who died recently.

After more than two hours' deliberation, a majority of the 43 lay delegates ratified the action of the clerical delegates.

A telegram has been sent to the clergyman notifying him of his choice as bishop of the Nebraska diocese.

Two ballots were necessary before the choice of the priests was made known. On the first ballot Rev. Mr. Shaler received nine votes.

The newly elected bishop has been actively identified with the Episcopalian church for more than a quarter of a century. He graduated from Kenyon university, Ohio, in 1886. For several years he was in charge of the parish at Sandusky, Ohio. His work in the Grace church, at Oak Park, Chicago, made him nationally known. He established one of the largest churches in the country in Oak Park after assuming the parish there.

For the past nine years Rev. Mr. Shaler has been in Seattle. The government, recognizing his ability, appointed him on several committees aiding the government in its various war time undertakings. He was one of the mediators between the employers and men in the recent general strike in Seattle.

PROMINENT STATE OFFICIAL SPEAKS

WIFE'S RECOVERY ON TANLAC PROVED A GRAND SURPRISE TO HIM.

"I was somewhat sceptical when my wife started taking Tanlac, so her remarkable recovery was a complete surprise to me," said James Taylor, 517 Bigelow street, Peoria. There are few men in Illinois so well-known as Mr. Taylor, who for thirty-two years has continually held responsible positions in the state government. In 1887 Governor Oglesby appointed him State Mine Inspector for Illinois, a position which he held for eight years. He was then appointed Special Investigator of Mines and Minerals. He has discharged the duties of this position with such fidelity and distinction that each successive governor since 1895 has reappointed him, his latest commission being issued by the present governor.

"About twenty-five years ago Mrs. Taylor's health began to break down," he continued, "and the first manifestations were impaired digestion and headaches. Even the lightest kind of breakfast foods and toast and milk disagreed with her, and she received very little nourishment from what little she did eat, and became very weak. At nights her rest was badly disturbed because of nervousness, and many a night she would not get more than an hour's sleep. She had nervous rigors, also, and I have seen her tremble when she had one of these attacks, just as if she had a chill. During any excitement, she would become cold and clammy, and her vitality would get so low that she would almost faint away. Sometimes for a week at a time she would be unable to get around the house. I did everything within my power to help her, and consulted some of the best specialists in the state of Illinois, but without meeting with any success. She kept on getting worse until I had about arrived at the conclusion that there was no hope for her. Then I heard so much about Tanlac helping people that I decided to get her a bottle, even if I didn't think it would do her much good. Before she had finished the third bottle she was able to sleep much better and could get up, in the morning and eat a little breakfast which showed a vast improvement for her. She continued the treatment, and to give the facts briefly, she is now as strong and well and free from pain

HOME AGAIN FROM SERVICE. This afternoon Otto Rothley who has been at Camp Dodge since last July in training all the time, returned home after having been discharged at that place yesterday. Otto went with a quota of the Cass county boys and was detailed for service there, where he was kept for training others and has remained, having since the signing of the armistice been kept busy with the routine work at the camp. He arrived on the noon train of the Burlington and went to Murray this afternoon, where he made his home for some time.
