Very few men are so absent-minded that they go around paying their bills before they are due.

Congress refuses to save an hour of daylight—and we all thought this was to be an economical Congress, too!

Gen. Leonard Wood, while encouraging ambitions for better things in life, also says keep your feet on the ground.

Some men appear to be living in hope that a way will be discovered before they die whereby they can take their money along with them.

It must keep the profiteers of this country awfully busy thinking up good reasons for raising prices, now that they can't blame it on the war.

After June 30 the skeptics who have doubted just how much golf was played for the game's sake will have a chance to prove their point or remain forever silent.

When you hear any man saying that the peace terms imposed on Germany are too hard, ask him if he ever heard of the sinking of the Lusitania or of mustard gas.

Some one has received a vision on this road and transportation matter at Elmwood, and are acting thereon. What's the matter with Plattsmouth on this matter of transportation. We are only an hour or two from a central market.

Chairman Henry P. Davidson of the Red Cross, just returned from Europe, says: "I would not give a damn for all the peace treaties in the world if something was not done to relieve the incredible, the unbelievable distress that exists in the world today."

Dallying with the peace terms and a neglect to sign them by the Germans is putting off the starting of the giant dirigible R-34 for America as she has concluded not to start on the journey until there is something definitely known what Germany will do.

Henry B. Endicott, the well known Bostonian, said at a patriotic meeting in Tremont Temple: "The plain nuts are not the most dangerous. The most dangerous ones are the people with plenty of time, plenty of money and nothing above the collar. They are the faddists."

The president of the Democratic clubs of Massachusetts and 26 democratic members of the legislature sent the following message to President Wilson: "The citizens of the United States want you home to help reduce the high cost of living, which we consider far more important than the League of Nations." Let the people think!

Thrift means simply getting your money's worth and your time's worth. It means disposing of your energy and your income with intelligent regard as to how you can get the most long-run satisfaction out of them. A young gentleman of our acquaintance bought an overcoat. To go without would have been wasteful.

A South Bend mother, who has a popular and charming daughter, is not without her fine points. The boys insist on hanging around the place and, as all are zealous in their efforts to please "mother," not a cent has been spent on the yard or about the place, which is in splendid condition. Next week spring house-cleaning begins and the boys will do the job.

We have noticed that very few women criticize the judgment of the man who pays them a compliment.

Most fathers know a lot about life and its temptations, but he finds it hard to make his children believe he does.

If the Germans had used the Bible for something else besides a medium for spies, this war would never have been fought.

Mexico might do well to remember, too, that there are a lot of American officers just itching to learn how an American tank behaves in action.

The mayor of Contreras, Mexico, has issued a public order making it obligatory for male residents and visitors to wear pants. He specifies that the use of underwear will not be in compliance with the order.

Twenty-five bakers in a congested district of New York were recently boycotted by women who demanded that the price of bread be reduced from 9 cents to 8 cents a loaf and rolls from 20 to 18 cents a dozen.

Chinese students in Tokio signed with their own blood a petition calling upon Chinese students in Europe to return to China to protest against the peace conference decision granting Shantung to Japan.

Congressman Julius Kahn of California, just returned from the battlefields of France, says: "I do not see why American soldiers should be kept in the occupied area to serve as collection agents for Europe."

Five hundred leading women of Tampa, Florida, have organized a protective league to operate a bureau to stamp out vice, and give any young girl information about the behavior of the young man of her choice.

Claims for damages against Germany have been filed in the State department at Washington, aggregating $800,000,000, but it is said that we will ask no money indemnity from Germany, and that our tax-payers will have to foot the bill.

A Massachusetts soldier killed in France made his will on two sheets of Y. M. C. A. paper two days before his death and mailed it to his mother, writing "If I do not come back then you will get $5,000." The court disallowed the will because of a technicality.

"About the most effective way to commit suicide is to try to kindle the fire in the range with gasoline. A pistol may miss the mark, the doctor may pump poison out of you, someone may rescue you from drowning, or the rope may break, but it is seldom, if ever, that gasoline fails to finish the job."

According to the Brookfield Gazette, the only controversy now between veterans of the civil war who wore the blue and gray is as to which shall show the most comradely feeling toward the other. And as an evidence that all the veterans of the '60s were warm friends and admirers of the young American soldiers in the last war, the Gazette points to a recent memorial day order of Capt. Louis Beneke, commander of the Grand Army Post at Brunswick, which directs that a special mound be erected on the G. A. R. block to represent the graves of all the boys, children and grandchildren of all civil war veterans now sleeping in France or other foreign lands.

ARE WE READY FOR BUSINESS.

How can business help being good—meaning by "business" all the activities by which men gain a livelihood? Business, first and last, is the production and distribution of goods. Never—possibly barring the height of the war period with its abnormal demands for specialties—was there in the bulk such an obvious demand for goods. About half of Europe is to be more or less rebuilt, stocked up with materials, furnished with machinery. You hear it nearly everywhere, from Havre to Vladivostok: "We need rails, locomotives, cars, machines, houses, wool, leather, cotton, steel, food."

Good business requires not only the demand for goods but means of paying for them. There is no inherent difficulty there. Europe, once settled down to sanity and reasonable security and engaged in orderly production, would create means of payment as it went along. Rationally at work its credit would be good for all its needs. This seethe and ferment of the great war will subside. Finally Europe must come back to the fundamental problem of getting a living, which means sane, orderly production. That is the key to its future and the solvent of its difficulties. Finally, Europe will need our goods.

But there is huge demand for goods in the United States also—building deferred, road making, railroad betterments and the hundred million individual needs. This year's crops promise to put a vast sum into the hands of farmers. Labor is well employed at record wages. Financially the country is tremendously strong. Somewhat like Europe, but in less degree, we have gratuitously made ourselves some difficulties. The faint-hearted and the numerous friends of disorder naturally emphasize them.

With smoked glasses the bluest sky looks threatening. Smoked-glass peddlers were never busier than now, but you do not really need them.

BRING ON THE PEN!

It seems time enough. The Germans ought to be made to understand eventually that the rather elaborate establishment the Allies are maintaining at Paris is not for the purpose of exchanging notes with Count Von Brockdorff-Rantzau, charming as that occupation is. The governments contributing to the support of that establishment don't want to deprive themselves permanently of the talents that go to make it up, but would like to direct them to tasks waiting at home as soon as the Germans feel themselves sufficiently convinced to allow the correspondence to be wound up.

We take it that the conference wanted to be polite and to allow the Berlin visitors a fair chance to find out what was in the treaty before accepting it. The Germans ought to be willing to admit that in this respect they haven't anything like the grounds of complaint that the United States Senate seems to have. They were allowed to read the treaty at least, and having done so, and having been permitted to scream at the top of their voices at everything in it that seemed to call for such screams as could be properly heard in Berlin, the time now has come to go through with the remaining formality. The Germans ought not to be selfish and keep the Austrians and Turks and Bulgarians waiting in line any longer. They should sign and pass the pen along to the next customer. Then everybody can go home and face the music, for if it will do the Germans any good to know it they are not the only ones who will have to do some tall talking to the home folks when they get back.

IT IS NOW AN AIR-PLANE FACTORY

That gracious writer and efficient philosopher, which made Alexander Selkirk say "How swift is a glance of the mind compared with the speed of its flight" did not know at that time how rapidly business may change. The J. T. Stewart Motor company of Omaha, has turned to making airplanes. They promise to have one on their sales floors early next week, and will make the machines for sale. The Omaha Flying company has already given orders for two of the machines which will be used for passenger traffic and for exhibition flying. The slow transport of large volumes of money, which causes such a loss of interest in the year, is actuating people to use the airplane for the transportation of money to save interest while in transit. It is estimated and correctly so too, that there is in interest on the money transported between New York and Chicago, a loss during the year of $850,000, while the loss between New York and Liverpool is $1,800,000.00. The motor company has secured the services of J. B. Caldwell who was one of Uncle Sam's flyers in France, for an instructor.

LITTLE CONVINCING ARGUMENT

There are things which work just as well and some times better than other things. It had been planned to bring the giant dirigible R-34 of England to America, and for that purpose a special number of large concrete blocks have been cast for the holding of the monster down while here. When the last treaty was ready for delivery to Germany, instead of coming to America, the giant was sent for a trip over Berlin, to see how the country looks, and how the people fared. It was the intention to have the dirigible land, but the conditions were not the best as there was a fog, and after circling around over the city, the aircraft returned. The visit was worth considerable to the stiff-necked people of the fatherland, the government was soon overturned, a new cabinet was created, and the word comes through Denmark that the treaty will be signed, and unless we are wrong in our guess not only the signing will be done but in the main the terms will be lived up to.

AMERICA'S CHALLENGE.

Republicans and democrats differ sharply as to public policy, but both accept the principles of the Constitution and endeavor to apply and improve them each in their own way. Neither republicans nor democrats would change the form of government under which we live. The socialist party, on the other hand, openly declares its purpose to wreck the present form of government, to undo all the work that has been accomplished for a hundred and fifty years, and to bring to an end the greatest experiment in republicanism and the greatest achievement in social and political organization that the world has ever seen. Let there be no mistake about the definiteness of this issue. America's existence is challenged.

BETTER THAN NOTHING.

John McCormack can tell stories as well as sing, it seems. "Here is one of his after-dinner anecdotes: Two Irishmen were at work when the whir of an airplane was heard. One of the men stopped work and gazed up at the machine. Then he said: "O'd no' loike to be up there in that thing, now." Said the other also gazing: "Well, O'd no' loike to be up there miss' without it." From the Outlook.

"A church supper given for the children has the same effects upon grown people as does the circus. The older people always go along just to see that the children do not eat too much."

The thrift campaign means just getting the most in long-run satisfaction out of your time and money. "Don't waste" is the whole of it. We need to press that campaign year in and year out.
