

YOUTH MAKES ESCAPE FROM COUNTY JAIL

ERNEST VERHULE MADE GET-AWAY LAST NIGHT UNDER COVER OF DARKNESS

HIS WHEREABOUTS UNKNOWN

Although It's Presumed He Went to Omaha—Was In on a Minor Charge—Not in the Cell.

From Wednesday's Daily. Yesterday afternoon Ernest Verhule, the young lad taken in by Officer Henry Trout on Monday night for stealing a shotgun belonging to Ed Lynch, was transferred from the city jail, where he had been placed, to the county jail and a few hours later he was at liberty. As the offense of the young man was such as to give him only a reformatory sentence, he was not locked in the cell in the main portion of the jail, but was confined in the room on the top floor of the jail and when placed there was apparently in a very docile condition. Later in the evening when Sheriff Quinton made an inspection of the jail it was found that the bird had flown and the manner of his exit from the county bastille was made through one of the windows, the bars of which yielded to pressure and allowed the lad to gain his liberty. Getting through the window, the young man dropped to a small projecting roof beneath and from there reached the ground and vanished into the darkness and to his freedom. As soon as the escape was discovered a search was made for the boy, but without success as he had failed to visit his home and from all indications had made his way toward Omaha, where he has made his home a part of the time. This is the third escape made in a similar manner from the jail and its holding power does not seem to be very great judging from the ease with which the offenders get their freedom.

LAD MEETS WITH ACCIDENT

From Wednesday's Daily. Yesterday afternoon as Myron Connors was engaged in playing on a swing at the E. H. Westcott home on high school hill in company with his playmates, he was unfortunately enough to fall and severely fracture the left wrist. The little boy had stopped on his way from school and was swinging on a rope swing and when he let go of the rope he fell in such a manner as to light on his left wrist fracturing it quite badly. The members of the Westcott household at once called medical assistance for the boy and Dr. H. C. Leopold set the injured wrist and while the little lad is suffering some from the injured arm it is thought that he will be able to use the member in a few weeks.

ROBBERS GET AWAY WITH A GOOD HAUL

ENTER STORE OF W. F. DIERS AT LOUISVILLE AND TAKE A LOT OF MERCHANDISE

TRACED TO SPRINGFIELD DEPOT

By Beatrice Bloodhounds—Station Agent There Sheds Light on Identity of the Men.

From Wednesday's Daily. The town of Louisville received an unexpected and unwelcome call from some midnight visitors on Monday night, who succeeded in getting a good haul from the store of W. F. Diers, which will amount to several hundred dollars. The robbers secured entrance to the store from the rear portion by breaking a window and from traces found on the front door of the store had evidently attempted to force the door as the wood-work was scarred and splintered as if from the effects of a pry. The visitors made a careful selection from the stock in the store, securing twenty-two pairs of shoes, two suit cases and a number of pieces of woolen underwear as well as a few suits of clothing. Sheriff C. D. Quinton was notified early Tuesday morning and hastened to the scene via auto, but was delayed a short time by a blowout which necessitated repairing and on his arrival the trained bloodhounds from Beatrice were on the scene and ready to take up the chase for the robbers. The hounds, securing a fresh scent, followed it closely and led the sheriff and members of the party to the town of Springfield, across the Platte river in Sarpy county and at once followed the trail to the Missouri Pacific depot where they made a great demonstration as the traces of the robbers seemed to end at that place. The station agent was interviewed and stated that early in the morning two strangers had appeared at the depot with two brand new suit cases and well dressed appearance, and had inquired as to the time of the first train into Omaha and upon learning they would have a short stay had slept in the depot until the arrival of the train and then boarded it for the metropolis. The description given of them tallied closely with that of two strangers seen in Louisville Monday and was apparently that of the parties who pulled off the robbery at the Diers store. The end of the trail was at Springfield as far as the direct pursuit of the robbers was concerned, and it will be necessary to comb the underworld of Omaha in an effort to secure the trace of the robbers or the stolen property, and with the present demoralized condition of the police force in Omaha it will be a job that will be hard to carry out.

OLD RESIDENT PAYS FRIEND A BRIEF VISIT

JAMES BUSTER, WHO LIVED IN NORTHERN OTOE COUNTY CALLS ON JOHN CORY

HAD NOT MET FOR YEARS PAST

Although They Were Neighbor Boys Together Nearly Half Century Ago—Pleasant Visit.

From Wednesday's Daily. Yesterday, John Cory, the proprietor of the Perkins house, received a very pleasant visit from one of his old friends, with whom he chummed some forty-five years ago when they were both boys here in Nebraska. This gentleman was James Buster, who now resides in the great oil fields of Oklahoma, and who, while in this section of Nebraska, decided to drop in and visit with his old friend, and the occasion proved one that both of the old friends will long remember. Mr. Buster was a mere boy in 1862 when he located in Nebraska and made his home down in the northern portion of Otoe county where he became acquainted with Mr. Cory and where they spent their boyhood days together in farm work, as Mr. Cory was at that time a resident of the southern part of Cass county. It was while living in this locality that Mr. Buster was married to Miss Maggie Austin, who resided near where the town of Union is now located and shortly after that the family removed from Cass county and finally located in Oklahoma. Fortune has smiled on Mr. Buster in his new home and he has just refused a lease on his farm for $35,000 on the oil rights. There are oil wells on the land surrounding Mr. Buster's farm and he has been besieged to lease the land by the large oil syndicates of the east. After his visit for the day here with Mr. Cory, Mr. Buster departed for Union last evening to visit there at the home of his brother-in-law, A. H. Austin and family.

HAD A PLEASANT VISIT

From Wednesday's Daily. F. J. Hennings was in the city yesterday afternoon for a few hours accompanied by his son, Albert. Mr. Hennings has just returned from a visit of a few weeks through Wisconsin and northern Illinois in company with his son, Herman, and reports a most delightful time. They visited for a time near Beloit and at Milwaukee and Chicago, taking in the sights of the big cities. It was the first time in many years that Mr. Hennings has visited the old home and the first time Herman has ever had an opportunity of enjoying a visit among the scenes where his father and grandfather resided, and some time was spent in looking over the old scenes.

RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

From Wednesday's Daily. There was much rejoicing last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Halstead when their little son, Byron, was brought home from the Ford hospital at Omaha, where he has been for the past few weeks recovering from an operation for a very severe case of appendicitis. Byron has had a very serious time for the past month as he was first unfortunate enough to cut his foot very severely and receive a case of blood poisoning and this was followed in a few days by an acute case of appendicitis, which necessitated an operation and which for a time made the condition of the patient very serious. The friends of the family certainly are pleased to learn that the little man is doing so nicely.

IMPROVEMENTS IN ELMWOOD THEATRE

New Management Announces Will Show Nothing but the Best Pictures Obtainable. From Wednesday's Daily. Under the direction of Roy Foss, formerly of Grand Island, the moving picture theatre at Elmwood has been entirely changed, a stage being added for the purpose of accommodating good vaudeville acts. The new arrangements promise to add much to the service given patrons of the amusement house and Mr. Foss does not propose to book anything but the best pictures and acts obtainable. On Friday and Saturday, October 10th and 11th he will show the "Auction of Souls" picture, a fine production and one that has been shown at much higher prices of admission than will be charged in Elmwood despite the size of the town. It is seldom such productions are even shown in towns of the size and more seldom at prices which compare with those charged in the city where the greater drawing power reduces the individual charge.

MIGHTY HUNTERS ARE THESE BUSINESS MEN

From Wednesday's Daily. Yesterday afternoon three of our business men, Fred P. Busch, Guy W. Morgan and Roy W. Knorr armed themselves with a number of high powered rifles and embarking in an auto drove out to the farm of Rex Young, near Murray, to play havoc with the squirrels. The members of the party through their representative, Mr. Busch, complain that the leaves prevented them getting as many squirrels as they intended to, as it was difficult to detect the clever little animals amid the leaves, but nevertheless eighteen were secured by the party—that is Busch and Knorr secured this many as the marksmanship of Guy was not sufficient to award him any sharpshooter's medal. Lost: On Oct. 1 between Weeping Water and Murdock auto casing, 36x 4 1/2 and rim. Reward, E. L. Hunter, Weeping Water. Phone No. 9. The wedding was one of charm and beauty and a large number of the relatives and friends of the contracting parties were in attendance. Preceding the entrance of the bridal party, Mrs. Vincent Slatinsky played in a very artistic manner the Mendelssohn wedding march, to which the bridal party entered the church. The bride made a most charming picture, gowned in the bridal robes of white, her costume being of white georgette crepe over white satin with the flowing veil. The bride carried a shower bouquet of white roses, with streamers of white chiffon. The bridesmaid, Miss Pauline Svoboda, sister of the
