HALLOWE'EN, WITH ITS MYSTIC
TOKENS AND SIGNS A SEA-SON OF PLEASURE.

GENERAL OBSERVANCE OF DAY

By Both Young and Old—Comes on Friday Evening of This Week
—Many Parties.

From Wednesday's Daily.

The festival of All Saints day is drawing near that is better known as that of Hallowe'en to the majority of the people of the nation and is one of the most delightful and probably best observed of the fall festivities. The festival of Hallowe'en is the evening before the 1st of November which is designated as All Saints day, and comes down to us from the old festivals of England where the Hallowe'en was observed by home gatherings and old time festivities. It is on this mystic occasion as the dawn of the All Saint's day is fast approaching that the mystic signs and omens are followed out to learn what the future might hold in store for maid or man and still this feature of the Hallowe'en is followed by many altho the belief in the potency of the charms and omens have dimmed in the ages that they have been transmitted to us from our ancestors. As a general thing the evening is given over to social gatherings where the young people enjoy the passing hours with the brightness of youth ere they gather on the All Saint's day to pray for those who have gone before into the unknown realms of the hereafter.

The occasion is also observed by some of the young people in a manner far different from that of the old English holiday but in this age of flats, steam heat, electric light and fenceless yards the youngsters are deprived of much of the enjoyment that was formerly their's in arousing the ire of the old and crusty neighbor by taking off his gate or other acts of youthful sport.

STILL AFTER INCREASE

Pittsburg, Pa., Oct. 28.—Plans for obtaining original demands of 85 cents an hour for craftsmen and 60 cents an hour for helpers will be submitted tomorrow to delegates representing railroad shopmen in convention here, it was announced tonight. A committee of five was appointed to draw up an ultimatum, which, if approved, will be submitted to the railway employes department at Washington.

Opinions among the delegates on a method of securing their demands were divided, some advocating discontinuance of per capita tax to the international unions and without further ado declaring a strike to take effect December 1. Others denounced such methods as against the best interests of labor at large. A few of the delegates were in favor of withdrawing all support from the international unions which they declared had betrayed them into postponing a strike called for September.
