DISAPPEARANCE OF COL. HYATT

Former Commander of 2nd Iowa Infantry and Well Known to a Large Number of Residents of This City in Spotlight.

From Tuesday's Daily.

The press dispatches of the past few days have been filled with stories of the disappearance of Col. Norman P. Hyatt, formerly the commander of the 2nd Iowa infantry and later in charge of the 16th M. P. Ammunition and Sanitary trains at Camp Cody, New Mexico.

The Hyatt family at Webster City, Iowa, are in the midst of a great deal of marital trouble, and dispatches from Webster City state that the wife of the former military officer is to seek relief from the courts.

A sensational airing was given the private life of Col. Hyatt following his discharge from the army at Camp Upton, by the New York newspapers and was followed by his disappearance. The colonel has been reported as living at Des Moines and the latest rumor in Webster City is that he has come to Omaha to reside.

During his stay in the south Col. Hyatt was a prominent figure in Camp Cody as commander of the military police forces having the regulation of the camp and the town of Deming under his command and while in that capacity became well known to many of the Cass county men serving in the different organizations in the camp.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE MARRIED.

From Tuesday's Daily.

The cold and stormy weather of yesterday failed to daunt the spirits of those seeking the joys of connubial bliss as Judge Beeson enjoyed an unexpected run of business in the matrimonial line at his office in the court house and as the result of his ministrations four hearts now beat as two.

Edwin Mayer and Miss Birdella Timm, both of Omaha were first united by the genial judge in the bonds of wedlock, the ceremony being witnessed by Mrs. W. M. Anderson, a friend of the contracting parties.

Mr. William D. Harris of Pacific Junction and Miss Alzina Harrington of Council Bluffs, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and sought the aid of the county judge in consummating their life's happiness and the ceremony was performed at the court house. The bridal couple were accompanied by Mr. Elmer Huey and Miss Orida Larson of Council Bluffs.

ANOTHER EXTRA SESSION OF LEGISLATURE

COMMITTEE LIKELY TO PETITION GOV. MCKELVIE TO ISSUE THE CALL

PLAN TO CURB PROFITEERING

But Committee Says Public Hearing on Remedies Does Not Represent General Sentiment

The legislative committee appointed to investigate and if desirable, petition Governor McKelvie to call a special session of the legislature to attempt to curb profiteering by passing state laws is seriously contemplating a recommendation for the calling of such a session of Nebraska lawmakers. The committee held a public hearing in representative hall Friday.

Invitations were publicly extended to all who had remedies which the legislature might enact into laws, to appear before the committee or send in suggestions in writing. At the meeting only a few persons appeared, not to exceed thirty-five or forty, and out of that number none positively recommended a special session of the legislature. It was believed by some connected with the meeting that the farmers packed the meeting and that others stayed away. Most of those who spoke were connected with the farmers' union, the state grange or other organizations such as poultry and stock feeders or were engaged in actual farming, and none of them demanded a special session for the enactment of laws. Some farmers expressed the opposition to state or federal fixing of prices of food in the hands of producers, and one expressed fear that any legislation that might be enacted might affect the price of products in the hands of producers.

Secretary E. R. Purcell, a member of the legislature from Custer county, publisher of a newspaper, said Saturday that Chairman Neal of Nemaha county authorized him to say that the committee has completed its public meeting and would consider the question of making further investigation before filing a recommendation with the governor.

"The public hearing Friday," said Secretary Purcell, "did not represent sentiment as the committee finds it over the state and as represented by written suggestion received. These are as yet considered confidential. The committee will continue its inquiry. It believes it is finding some feasible suggestions that may be used as a remedy against profiteering. It may be some time before the committee is ready to report."

Taylor Not Present.

The legislative committee is made up of Senators Neal of Nemaha, Taylor of Custer and Cooper of Douglas, Representatives Hardin of Harlin, Purcell of Custer and McLaughlin of Hall. At the public hearing Senators Taylor and Cooper were absent. The latter had been enthusiastic over the work of the committee and met with it at the first meeting, but on account of business was prevented from attending the public hearing.

The absence of Taylor, of Custer from the public meeting caused considerable comment. The plan of an extra session to cope with high prices was sprung by Taylor in the state senate at the recent extra session. It was his idea to have the legislature in special session ask the governor to call another immediately for passage of laws to curb profiteering.

The senate did not see fit to make this demand upon the governor, but adopted a substitute resolution for the appointment clothed with power to investigate whether or not a remedy could be had by passing laws, and if so to recommend to the governor the calling of an extra session. Taylor's resolution also denounced the state and federal administration for doing nothing to curb the high price and took a slap at the code bill introduced by Governor McKelvie.

As the legislature did not adopt Taylor's original resolution it is said he lost interest in the curbing of high prices to the extent that he said he did not know whether he would be present at the committee's public hearing, that he had not yet made up his mind. Later he made up his mind to stay away, although conditions as to profiteering are said not to have changed materially since he first asked for a special session of the legislature.
