Waste not your hour—especially when any employer will give you a dollar for it.

True principles are as enduring as the throne of God, and don't you forget it, either.

A general strike is threatened in Mexico. But what difference, if any, will that make?

No, Roscoe, a toggle joint is not a dark, disreputable place where awful examples congregate to drink toggles.

One difference between the pauper and the plutocrat is that the former is killed by a motor car and the latter in one.

A man has been found in Texas who is believed to be 127 years old. He can remember when the pie was five cents a cut.

Another reason why so many people are interested in transcontinental airplane flights is curiosity to know what such a trip would be like without a Pullman porter.

It is believed that a lot of miners would like to go back to work with things as they were, but probably some of the agitators wouldn't go to work even if work were made illegal.

"Noted forger a pauper," says a headline. Evidently he kept on forging capitalist's names, when he should have learned from the signs of the times to forge the names of skilled laborers.

There is no escaping the fact that most of our industrial troubles come from places where foreigners are the most numerous, whether the trouble be in the steel mills, coal mines or symphony orchestra.

Prof. W. H. Pickering, of Harvard, announces his discovery that the moon is inhabited, and by a very superior race. Well, it must be admitted they have been very exclusive all these years.

A convention of magicians in Chicago last week discussed with considerable anxiety the mounting cost of living. They, too, have discovered that the outgo of income is quicker than the eye.

A Chicago physician warns that if women don't quit wearing narrow shoes, we may become a one-toed race. Are there any other arguments in favor of narrow shoes worth considering at this time.

When the coal miners announced their intention to go back to work a certain Plattsmouth man telephoned his wife that she could shove in a little coal now if she wished, and save the rest of the lace curtains for the next strike. And it now begins to look like the finish of the curtains may be not far delayed.

A good many of us will forego the pleasure of turkey this year.

We always did wonder just what is an "Ole banjo." Now we know.

There is this about sugar wasted in cranberry concoctions—it lasts a long time.

Advice is like snow, the softer it falls, the longer it dwells upon and the deeper it sinks into the mind.

Even the autumn leaves are taking a sudden tumble to the rapid approach of winter. Also the coal man.

Fixing a low price on sugar would have been all right if they had also fixed it so we could get the sugar.

Wouldn't you hate to take a chance on eggs bought from a farmer for 30 cents a dozen. Well, neither would we.

If some fellows fought as hard for the right to work as for the right to strike the country wouldn't be so bad off.

Strikes may have been invented to lower the cost of living, but they've certainly worked just the opposite in this country.

Converse with a woman who has just declared against polygamy, and you will generally find that she has men in mind, not divorce.

There is now in our great country no North, no South, no East, no West. That is why so many of us do not know where we are at.

Among the missing is the old fashioned table that, according to the country correspondents, used to groan 'neath bountiful repasts.

There are in America nearly 400,000 women wearing overalls. Seven or eight of them probably have not yet posed for photographs.

Of all the contortionists, the lad who played the piano with the Jazz Philands last night takes the cakes. He literally "walked" all over the piano.

You will not wonder that it is so hard to get school teachers to unionize when you remember that a great majority of them have country school boards to deal with.

The part that women will take in city politics in the next election is a wholesome prospect, providing they put more importance upon organizing for a nonpartisan city government than they do on the mere act of voting.

The Chicago News sends out an inquiry for the old-fashioned wartime girl who was always knitting a sock. Well, quite a number of them out this way entered on sock darning contracts a few days after the boys got home.

Several cases have recently been opened in the Douglas county court room. But they originated for the most part in Milwaukee, and were filled with contraband goods—realized through several years slough-foot work on the part of the Omaha police force.

Wyoming has a blizzard with the thermometer at 20 below. There is no coal. Lots of people and a lot more cattle live in Wyoming. People are always sorry for cattle that are caught out in a blizzard so just this once we're going to feel sorry for the people.

DELCO-LIGHT

"Electricity for every Farm"

The Delco-Light engine is the valve-in-the-head type—used in the best and most powerful airplane engines and in hundreds of thousands of automobiles.

It is air-cooled—runs on kerosene in any climate—has only one place to oil and has a simple mixing valve in place of carburetor.

The storage battery is exclusively designed and built for Delco-Light with thick plates, wood and rubber separators and many improvements that insure long life.

Delco-Light long ago passed the experimental stage and has gone through the refining influence of three and one-half years of production and usage by 75,000 customers.

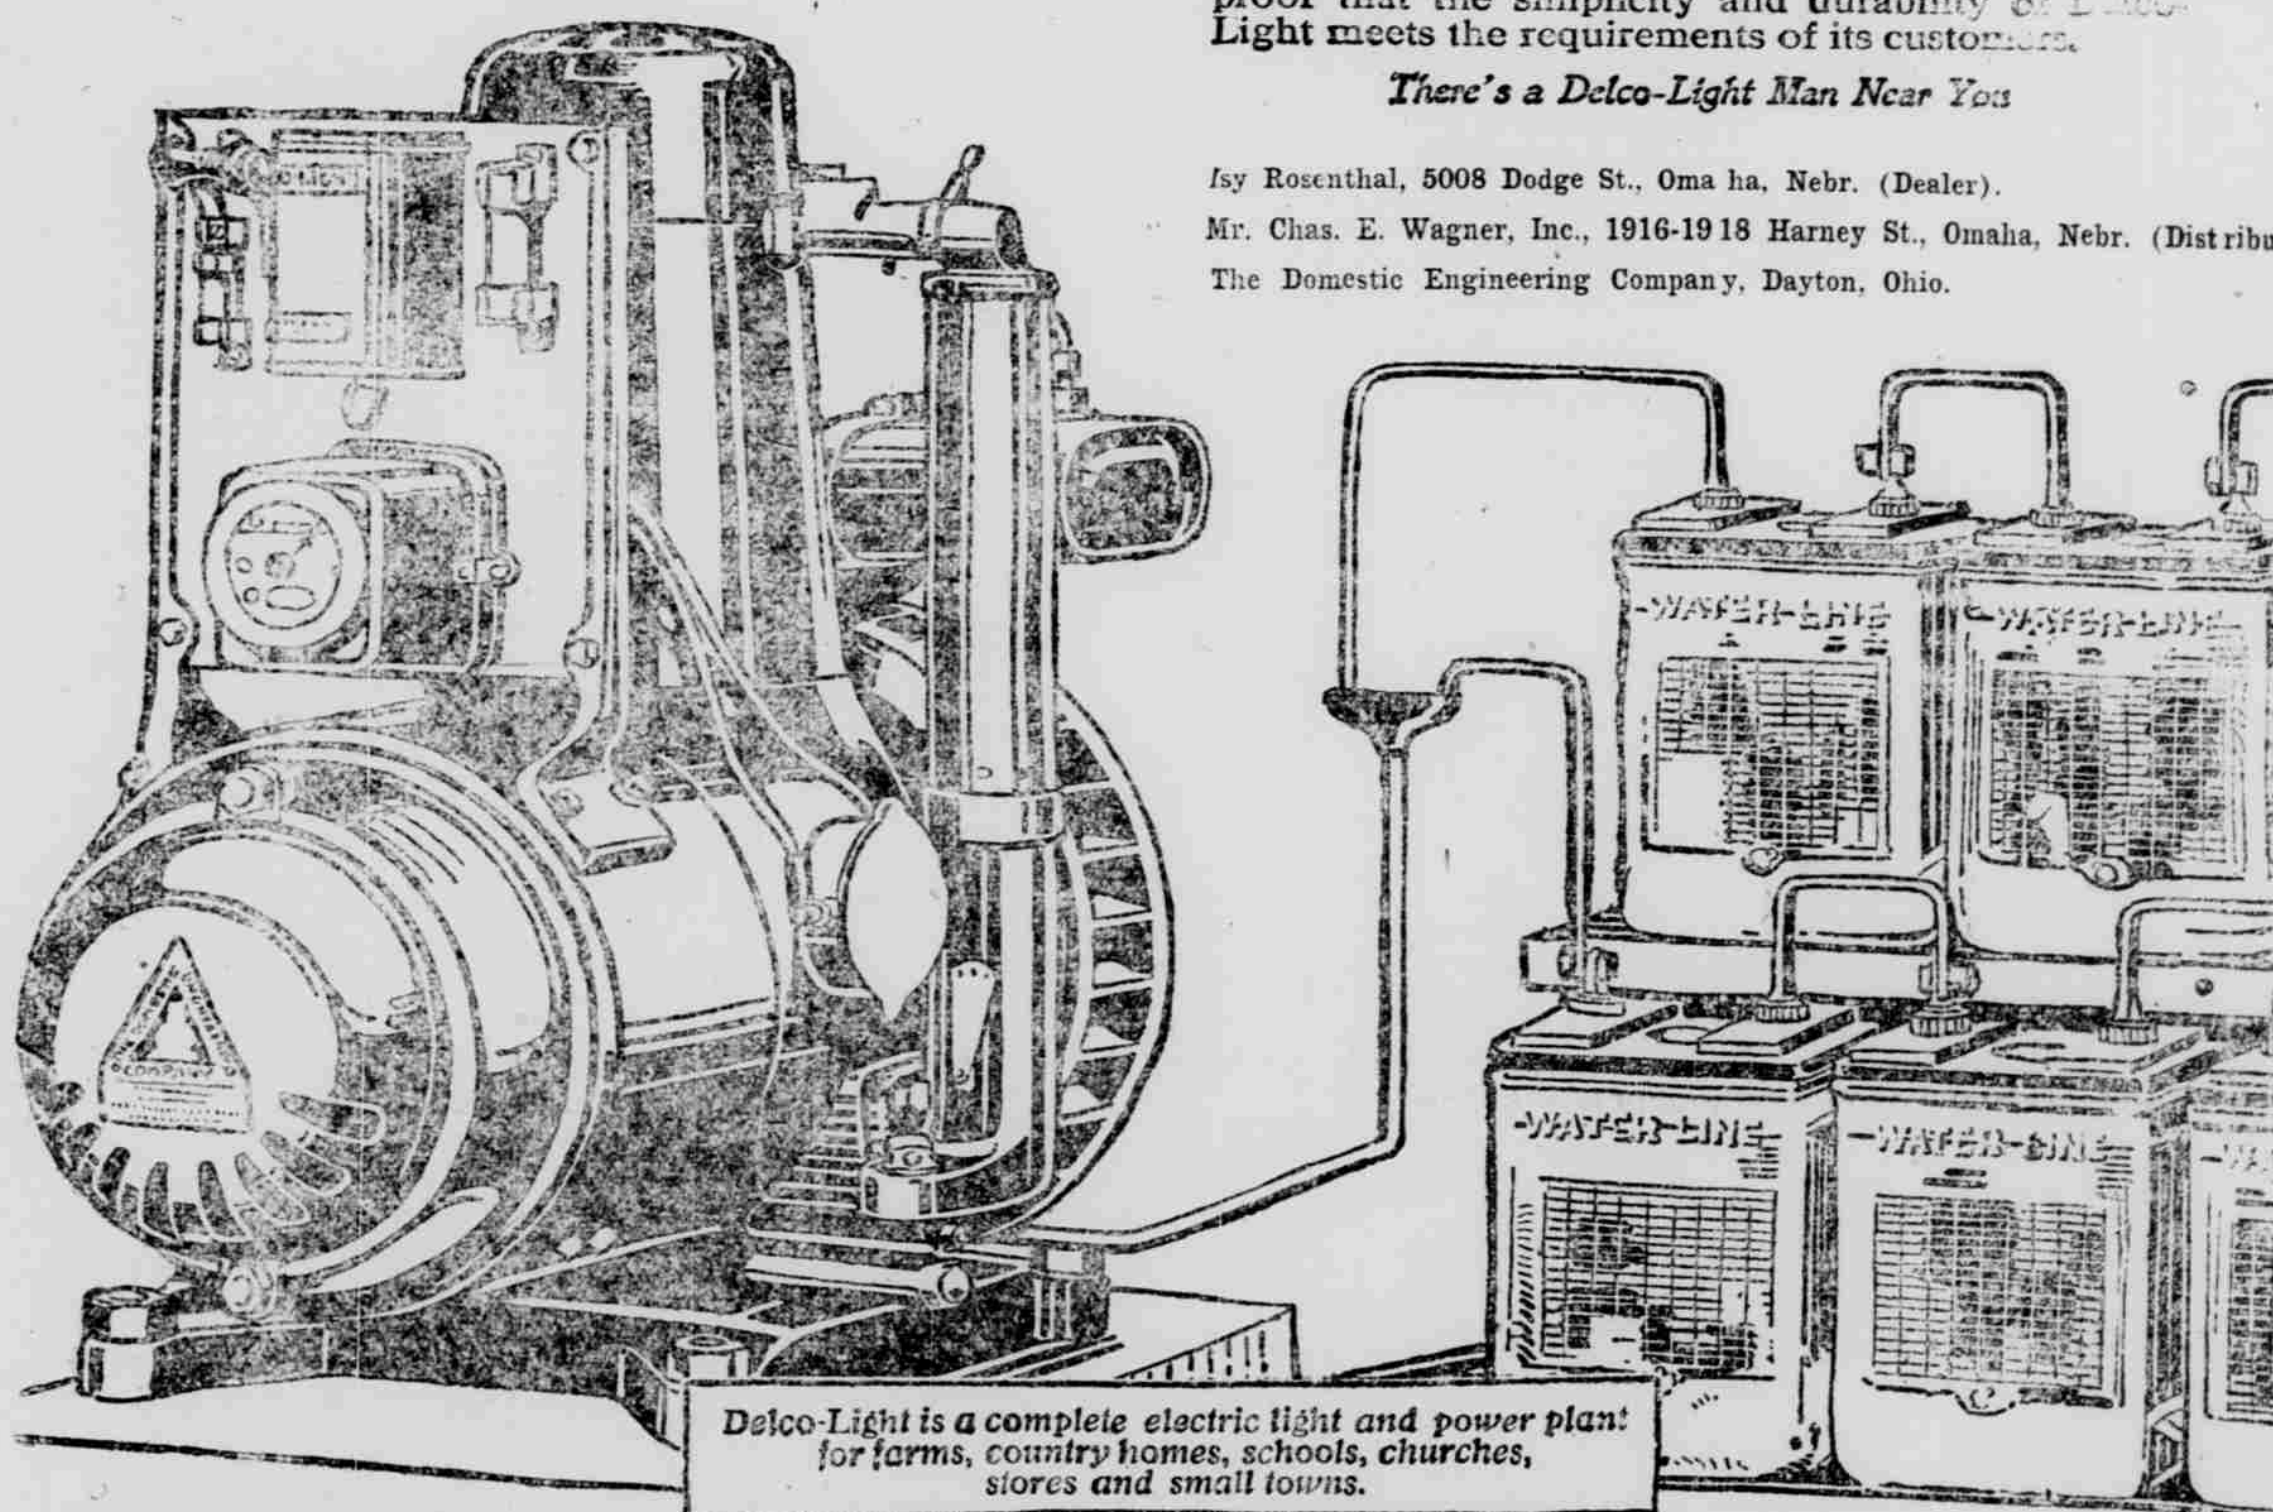

You will find plants in the homes of your community. Just ask your neighbor about his Delco-Light plant.

Delco-Light makes happy homes; it saves time and labor, taking away lots of hard, unpleasant tasks. It "Pays for Itself" by the work it does and the time it saves.

Of the more than 75,000 Satisfied Users of Delco-Light, the first are among the most enthusiastic—proof that the simplicity and durability of Delco-Light meets the requirements of its customers.

WHO IS YOUR NEIGHBOR

Has old-fashioned neighborliness among people been stifled by the crowded conditions in cities and the multiplicity of demands made upon one's time and effort by modern business and social life?

Americanization propaganda tells us that the lack of neighborliness seriously interferes with the progress of making Americans but of foreigners.

Religious leaders impress us with the fact that our lives are too impersonal in relation to the welfare of our fellow-beings.

Physicians, nurses, social workers and labor leaders point to the selfishness and social isolation of the masses as evils that do not make for the greatest health, happiness and prosperity of all the people.

There is a call for a new social order that will not stratify our citizenship and will give us a common ground upon which to stand democratically and from which we may co-operate harmoniously as neighbors.

But how are we to find our neighbors and who are they?

That question has been put to the people of a small community in the city of Cincinnati, where an experiment in neighborhood democracy has been in progress during the past three years. An area of approximately thirty-one city blocks with a population of 12,000 people was organized under a plan which is promoted by the National Social Unit organization. In this experiment thirty-one women, elected leaders of their respective "blocks" are beginning to learn that neighborliness means more than mere acquaintanceship. For them it has come to mean acquaintance plus understanding, plus sympathy, plus unselfishness, plus co-operation. And through this knowledge has come stimulated interest in community affairs—efficient democracy.

It was made plain at the recent Social Unit convention in Cincinnati that the workers in the Mohawk-Brighton experimental district have learned how to answer the question: "Who is my neighbor?" and are putting their knowledge to work in a way that points a definite path for community effort through the nation.

Constipation. Most laxatives and cathartics afford only temporary relief and should be used only for that purpose. When you want permanent relief take Chamberlain's Tablets and be careful to observe the directions with each package. These tablets not only move the bowels, but improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion.
