WAR DEPARTMENT REFUSES CONSENT

Will Not Stand for National Guard Companies of Less Than One Hundred Men Each

Benedict Crowell, acting secretary of war, has communicated to Governor McKelvie the refusal of that department to consent to his suggestion that the national guard companies be cut from 100 to 65 men. The governor wrote it was practically impossible to find 100 young men in many towns who would join the militia, and that this would make more difficult the task of getting men to enlist therein.

Mr. Crowell says that a similar request has come to the department from several other states, but that there are several good reasons actuating the department in ruling against the request. The chief one is that the regular army requirement is 100 men and the national guard law is the same. This decision was the result of experience in the world war that justified the belief that future infantry regiments must have a maximum of 250 men.

It is held that it is impractical to have companies of 65 men, since, when the full war strength was demanded, this would mean too much of a strain upon the trained men and would greatly delay the getting ready for participation. Sixty-five men would be too small a nucleus, and as with this number the proportion of untrained men would be as three to one, making it practically a recruit company, whereas in the 100 standard is adhered to, the proportion would be only one and a half to one.

A ray of hope is found, however, in the suggestion that a chief of militia, designed to help out the states. He authorizes the division of a company into two platoons, to consist of from 40 to 60 men, stationed in adjoining towns. He thinks this will overcome most of the objections to the 100 minimum standard. He asks a trial of this method.

With respect to home guards he says that since the war is over their organization is illegal, and the equipment was furnished by the government will be called in.

Some time ago Glenn Atchison purchased a farm six miles east of town. This is a good farm and Glenn has decided to locate on this farm and will move there in March.

Mrs. Robb and two children arrived from Billings, Montana, Saturday on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Tyson and of course grandpa and grandma are enjoying the visit from their little grandchildren.

On Tuesday a number went to the Oral Cox farm and put in the day shucking corn. This was quite a help to Oral as he has been sick and unable to do any work. It was a great help and was greatly appreciated.

G. W. Worley passed the 85th year of his life's journey. He says that he enjoyed the day with his family and in reading the many fine post cards his many friends sent him. Mr. Worley is a man who gets around well for one of his years and enjoys the out doors as well as any one. May he celebrate many more birthdays.

On Tuesday afternoon a number espied a large balloon floating leisurely along some distance northeast of town. There was much speculation as to the balloon, some saying that they believed it to be a runaway and a long cable was hanging from it. Others say that men were in the basket. It was also reported that two balloons were seen. Anyway its appearance created quite a sensation.

Wm. Nienstiel, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Nienstiel, spent Saturday and Sunday here visiting with friends. He reports the Nienstiel family all doing well at Chappell. He left on Monday morning for Sioux City, Ia., where he will spend several months studying the electrical parts of tractors and also power machinery. He says it is up to a man to do this as nearly all the work is done with machinery in that country. The Nienstiels operate a Waterloo Boy and a Hart-Parr tractor on their lands.

Since Will Partridge has bought the home in Riverside addition he has been buying so many additional lots that people say he is buying everything adjoining him.

W. J. Phillip and family moved to South Omaha last week. It will be hard to keep Will away from the farm, but the family will probably be contented in the city until summer at least.

Oscar and Fred Zink were in town Tuesday morning and took their sister, Mrs. Herbert Ratnour and Clark Newlon over to the county seat. Their business there was the proving of the will of the Zink estate.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. McNurlin left Tuesday evening for Central City to spend Thanksgiving with their son, Osborn and wife. They would stay over night at Havelock with their daughter, Mrs. Bert Cogilzer and family.

Word has come to the Republican office telling of the death of Mr. S. R. Smith at his home in Orange, California on last Thursday, November 20, at the ripe old age of 83 years and 19 days. Mr. Smith was one of the pioneer settlers of this community, having homesteaded west of town where the family lived for many years. The family was well known in the county and most highly esteemed by all their acquaintances. Although Mr. and Mrs. Smith have lived in California for a number of years, they have not been forgotten by their many friends here.

What Weeping Water needs is a new high school as for instance when 16 to 18 girls try to get in a room 7x14 feet it is impossible for them to hurry. Then by being so crowded they are late to classes thus drawing the attention of the pupils from their lessons. While books have been added for their suits there is still much room for improvement, such as securing proper ventilation. Then if the gymnasium was enlarged it would have more room for people to watch basket ball games and more room for the players. Also the gymnasium could be improved by adding swings and dumb bells for the gym classes.

Charles Lau went to Plattsmouth Monday to call upon his cousin, Gustave Lau, who is ill with heart trouble. He found him feeling far from well and not quite as well as usual.

William Ossenkov has been in the woods south of town this week developing his muscles in that good old fashioned sport of wood cutting, and was ably assisted by his son, Marion. They should worry now about the shortage of coal.

S. W. Davis, of Scottsbluff, passed through Louisville on the Missouri Pacific last week on his way to Weeping Water to visit his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Davis. Mr. Davis had come to Omaha to bring his daughter, Gladys, to the hospital for an operation.

Mrs. Andrew Schepman was about the wealthiest woman in town last Saturday having just sold a bunch of her chickens that brought her the snug sum of $96.00. Mrs. Schoeman has had very good luck with her poultry and did not raise thorough-breds either, but she is going to have no other kind than Rhode Island Reds in the future as she considers that breed the best for all purposes on a farm.

Mr. and Mrs. George Franpton, of Cache, Oklahoma, have moved from their farm near that place to Lawton, Oklahoma. The change was made for the benefit of Mrs. Franpton's health, as she is recovering from a recent serious operation and was unable to attend to her duties on the farm. Her many Cass county friends will be pleased to know that she is gaining in strength every day and hope to hear soon of her entire recovery. Her mother, Mrs. A. Schoeman, is still with her and will remain for some time yet and when she returns to Nebraska, she will make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Adam Rentschler, down at Auburn.

Henry Pollard passed the printing office this morning carrying his fowling-piece on his shoulder (which resembled a bear gun) but was intended for rabbits. It wasn't more than two minutes till we saw Wes Magney chasing home after his gun (which by the way is his skunk gun) and looked to us as though it had as much action behind as it did in front. Well, these old pals met on the corner and the last we saw of them they were going down the road military style—left foot right foot, leaving the impressions of their feet in the snow. People who heard the guns say the rabbits were running in all directions and appeared to be all out of breath.

CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY.

Adam Fornoff, Old and Highly Respected Citizen of Near Cedar Creek Passes 79th Milestone.

A very pleasant birthday surprise was tendered to Adam Fornoff, one of the old citizens, on Thanksgiving day at his home near Cedar Creek, when the children of Mr. Fornoff, with the exception of a daughter, Mrs. George Miller, who resides in Oklahoma, were present to enjoy the day with the father. The members of the family had prepared a sumptuous dinner which they brought with them and which was one of the chief features of a very enjoyable day. The father and grandfather was showered with good wishes on his having passed the 79th milestone of life and that he would be able to enjoy many more was the wish of the many friends. There were 34 present, consisting of the sons, daughters and grandchildren.

RAISE IN RATES ON TRUCKING

State Railway Commission Finds the Old Schedule Low.

The state railway commission has announced a new schedule of rates to be charged by the trucking companies that come under its jurisdiction as common carriers for hire. In an order issued Friday the terminal or base rate is increased 5 cents a hundred, packing requirements are eliminated and the matter put up to the truckers themselves, and changes made in classifications that will result in increase in rates.

The matter came before the commission again as the result of a number of complaints as to the rates and classification in the original order. The class rates were said to be insufficient for short distances and the merchandise and single shipment rates for all distances. The classification was complained of as unsuitable to truck transportation and incapable of application by the majority of truckers on account of its complexity. The classification is the same as that used by the railroads and is very elaborate containing 10,000 items, and much of it is predicated upon the condition of shipment as to packing. The commission admits that considerable study is necessary to use it properly.

The commission had made a study of rates on trucks operating in and out of Omaha, and finds that actual experience shows its estimate as to cost per ton mile was 2 1/2 cents too low. It was found that live stock rates were not being adhered to. The commission says that it does not blame the small operators for their inability to apply the classifications even if they had a copy. The railroad classification was first suggested by the truckers, and now the commission finds itself, through experience, in proposing something more workable.

Where Increases Come.

The new classification will have the effect of increasing rates upon merchandise shipments, but the commission says this is fully justified by the record. Most of these were third class, and did not compensate the carriers, and they had to refuse it. The present rates begin with a terminal rate of 15 cents per hundred-weight, first class, and this is raised to 20 cents. Second will be 85 per cent of first, third, 70 per cent and fourth, 60 per cent, all according to distance of from one to 150 miles.

The commission says that it will require time and the keeping of cost data in order to arrive at a scientific system, but the past experience of five months warrants the hope that a sound foundation will be found in due time and that the temporary rates and rules established are indispensable to that end.

It was shown at the hearing that some of the carriers subject to the commission's orders had suffered some loss of business by the competition of carriers located beyond the zone established, particularly out of Kearney. As the conditions and circumstances surrounding truck transportation are substantially similar in those counties, Buffalo, Phelps and Harlan are added to the zone.

Cut Out Packing.

The exceptions to the classification, under which most of the business moves, govern the peculiar business of trucking. The requirements made by the railroads as to packing are entirely wiped out, and this will be left to the judgment and wisdom of the truckers. One reason why household goods are largely handled by the truckers is that they require no packing, save as in the case of glassware, pictures and the like.

FIGHTING IN CAPITAL; CARRANZA HAS FLED

Street Battle Between Factions of President and Obregon—Serious Situation Apparent

Washington, Nov. 28.—Reports that Carranza and Obregon forces in Mexico City had clashed were received with no surprise in official Washington. It was said, however, that if they were true the break had come a little earlier than expected.

San Antonio, Tex., Nov. 28.—Fighting in Mexico City between factions dominated by President Carranza and General Obregon was reported in apparently reliable advices received here today from the Mexican border.

Carranza is reported to have fled to Queretaro for safety. The chief executive only recently returned to Mexico City from Queretaro, where he had been during the fatal illness of his wife.

General Pablo Gonzales was reported at the head of the Carranza forces. Details of the reported fighting were not available.

Obregon, formerly minister of war, in the Carranza cabinet, resigned recently, after announcing himself a candidate for the presidency, to be voted upon next July. Carranza has stated he would not again seek election.

The report of the fighting came to San Antonio from persons on the border in close communication with the Mexican capital and there was good reason to believe the information authentic.

Information yesterday said that Obregon reached there Tuesday night and that there was a great demonstration in his honor. The demonstration included a parade, and much enthusiasm was said to have been shown for Obregon's candidacy for president. The arrival of Obregon caused display of much partisan feeling, it was said. Newspapers admittedly favorable to Obregon made the charge that the train on which he was journeying to the capital was purposely delayed by the Carranza officials so that Obregon could not reach there in time for the celebration.

Carranza newspapers were bitter in their comments on the incident and on the demonstration for Obregon and the capital was said to have been seething with excitement since Tuesday.
