POLITICIANS ARE CAMPING ON THE GOVERNOR'S TRAIL

Movement to Defeat Him for Renomination Started—Several Names Are Being Considered.

The movement to bring out a candidate in the republican primaries that was talked of when at the end of the legislative session the governor refused to submit anti-profiteering legislation at the request of the house majority is now assuming form.

Several names are being suggested. While nobody assumes to speak with authority, it is known that Judge A. L. Sutton of Omaha has been considering entering the race. Judge Sutton won over McKelvie in the 1916 primaries, but was defeated at the polls by Neville. Don A. Love, a one-time progressive leader, is also mentioned as a possibility. The name of John Henry of Fairbury is also suggested. Somebody has also proposed Mayor Steiner of Hastings as good timber. There was talk during the legislative session of bringing out Representative McLaughlin of Hall, who had a run-in with the governor early in the session. A meeting of legislators was held last August during the special session, supposed to be in McLaughlin's interest, but no names were mentioned.

There are a number of reasons advanced as to why the governor should not be renominated by those who are opposed to him. They assume as their premise that he can't be re-elected if nominated, and therefore, they are doing the party a service by bringing out a man who can. The principal reason assigned is that the governor doesn't take anybody's advice as to his official actions or policies. Another is that he absents himself away from the state and his office too much. Then there are some who have not eliminated from their system some of the bitterness that arose over the code bill, when it was going through the legislative machine. There are others who, while admitting that McKelvie is three years older than Neville, say he is too young, and that he hasn't grown up. Appointments are responsible.

JUDGE SEDGWICK DIES AT HOME IN THE CAPITAL CITY

Prominent Jurist Expires Christmas Afternoon—Spent Long Time on Supreme Bench.

Judge Samuel Hopkins Sedgwick of the Nebraska supreme court died suddenly at 3:30 p. m. Christmas day, at his home, 1727 South Twenty-second street, Lincoln. Funeral arrangements have not been made. The body will be taken to his former home at York for burial.

Besides his wife Judge Sedgwick leaves two daughters, Miss Myrna at home and Miss Catherine, who at present is employed in governmental work at Beirut, Syria, and one brother, T. E., of York.

Judge Sedgwick at no time had expressed any feeling of illness. He had been working hard for the past month but had shown no symptoms of breakdown. Tuesday he, with the other judges, heard a special argument. The family had eaten a luncheon Thursday afternoon, after which Judge Sedgwick had seated himself in a chair and lighted a cigar. A few minutes later he leaned his head back against the back of the chair and dropped his cigar. Members of the family summoned an Omaha physician who was visiting at a neighbor's. The judge expired soon after the doctor arrived. The latter attributed it to heart failure.

Judge Sedgwick was born at Bloomfield, Ill., in the year 1848. He was a law student at the University of Michigan from 1871 to 1872, and practiced law at Kewanee, Wis. He had previously received a degree from the Wheaton (Ill.) college. In 1878 he came to York, Neb., where he practiced law until elected judge of the district court in 1896. This office he held for four years. He was appointed supreme court commissioner in 1901 and served the court in that capacity two years when he was elected judge of the supreme court. He has served continuously with the exception of two years in the office of judge of the supreme court of Nebraska, or a period of 15 years. His term of office does not expire until 1922. Recently he had been quoted as having said he did not intend to become a candidate for reelection.

He was a republican in politics and before judges were required to discard party names on the ballot he used the name of the republican party as the party he represented. He was defeated for nomination many years ago by Judge M. B. Reese, but was renominated two years later and was again elected to the supreme bench.

Judge Sedgwick's last public appearance on the supreme bench was last Tuesday when he sat with the other judges to hear a special argument. He appeared then to be in his usual good health. Later in the day he participated in a consultation between all the judges upon opinions which the court is preparing to make public. He was of a retiring disposition by nature, and was known better as a judge than as a man among the people of the state. Of late years he spent the greater portion of his summer vacations in motoring, a pastime in which he found much pleasure.

REDISTRICTING MAPS OUT

The new maps of the re-districting of Cass county school districts have been completed and are being sent out today by County Superintendent Miss Alpha Peterson to the various boards over the county and will be in the hands of the parties interested in a few days.

The commission on re-districting consisting of J. M. Teegarden, of Weeping Water, J. G. Gustin of Murdock and Miss Peterson, has spent the past two months in arranging the districts so as to be as compact and convenient as possible and the result of their labors will now be submitted to the people of the county.

The commission has set January 12, 13 and 14 as days on which to hear any objections that may be made to the districts and these objections must be filed in writing with the members of the commission.

Before the districts, as outlined, are adopted, they must be voted on by the several school districts.

TWO GOOD MEN FOR THEIR POSITIONS

District Judge J. T. Begley and
County Judge Allen J. Beeson
Prove Good Men on Bench.

From Saturday's Daily.

The nearing approach of the primary election is a forewarning of the election time that will soon be upon the people of the state of Nebraska. In Cass county the members of the judiciary to have their terms expire are District Judge James T. Begley and County Judge Allen J. Beeson. In both cases the gentlemen have during their term of service given the greatest satisfaction to the people of the district and county and that they will be asked to continue their good work there is little doubt. The judicial elections are non-partisan as they should be and the worth of the candidate is not measured by his party affiliations, which insures a high type of men for the bench of the county and district courts. Both of our judges are personally of a most genial temper and those who have come in contact with them have received the most courteous treatment. That the two judges will decide to once more serve the best interests of the taxpayers and citizens of Cass county is certainly to be hoped as their loss would remove very able figures from the bench of the state.

BOYCOTT RESUMED AS PRICE OF EGGS SOARS

Lincoln, Dec. 25.—The ban on the purchase of eggs by Lincoln women will go into effect again next Saturday.

Recently Mrs. N. E. Hildreth, head of the civics department of the local Woman's club, announced prices for eggs had tumbled from 85 to 55 cents a dozen, following a two weeks' boycott on them, and that the ban had been lifted. But removal of the boycott was followed by price increases, and some retailers, it is said, asking as high as 90 cents a dozen. So the women have decided to eliminate eggs from their daily purchases until prices take a drop. Sixty-five cents a dozen is considered by them to be a fair price.

DOINGS IN COUNTY COURT

From Saturday's Daily.

Yesterday afternoon a marriage license was issued by County Judge Beeson to Mr. Carl Bruckmuller, of Waverly, Nebraska, and Miss Martha Timm, of Murdock. The young people are to be married at the home of the bride near Murdock.

This morning in county court, H. M. Soennichsen, through his attorney, A. L. Tidd, filed a suit against Joseph C. Wheeler, in which the plaintiff seeks to recover the sum of $913.81. In his petition the plaintiff states that on March 21, 1918, the plaintiff went as surety on a note made to the Bank of Cass County with the defendant as principal in the sum of $808.46. It is further alleged that on April 19, 1918, the defendant paid the sum of $10 on the note and has since failed to pay any further amount. The note became due on September 21, 1918, and on March 8, 1919, plaintiff was compelled to pay the amount of the note to the bank. The plaintiff therefore asks judgment in the sum of $913.81 as amount of note and interest.

DROVE WRONG HOGS HOME

From Saturday's Daily.

George Brown, one of our substantial farmers east of town, came very near being accused of driving hogs home that did not belong to him last week. It was only George's good reputation as a citizen that prevented him from being accused of the above charge, but when all was over a good hearty laugh was enjoyed.

George is quite a fancier of good hogs and had purchased a couple of fine thoroughbred porkers from Iowa. While he was in town a neighbor told him that his two porkers were running at large out on Eldora avenue and he at once hastened to drive the porkers home and when reaching there he found his two Iowa thoroughbreds safely in their pen. There remained only one thing to do and that was to drive the supposed Iowans back to Eldora avenue, where they immediately hunted their comfortable quarters at the Jake Domingo barnyard as their stroll had been sufficient to give them an appetite and a needed rest.—Weeping Water Republican.

CANNOT MOVE PRISONER

From Saturday's Daily.

When Sheriff C. D. Quinton reached Omaha yesterday to secure the person of C. G. Thompson, the Louisville robber, who has been at the hospital for several weeks past, he found that the man was in such condition that it was impossible to move him and accordingly the sheriff was compelled to return home without him. The limb upon which an amputation was performed several weeks ago is still in such shape that it was thought best by the attending surgeons not to move the man and accordingly he will be left at the hospital until a later date.
