HELD ANNUAL MEETING HERE

From Saturday's Daily. The Cass County Improved Live Stock Association held their annual meeting in Mogensen's Hall here Tuesday. Some twenty of the prominent breeders of the county were present which included some twelve of the president of the different organizations or auxiliaries of the association.

In the election of officers for the permanent organization all old officers were elected which were: Luke Wiles president; R. C. Pollard, secretary; Searle Davis treasurer. Some twelve other elections were made among the various auxiliaries.

It was decided at this meeting to hold a live stock exhibit this fall of the following lines of stock: Horses, jacks, mules, cattle, hogs, sheep and poultry, the date of which was to be announced later.

A board of managers was elected consisting of Luke Wiles, R. C. Pollard, Searle Davis and L. R. Snipes, who will work out the plans. The association plans to boost the boys and girls clubs. Prizes on the whole will be largely of ribbons and admission free.

When the place for holding the exhibit was discussed a committee of Weeping Water business men presented the association with a proposition which included the donation of Dunn's pavilion, lights, water and free local advertising, lots of good will and a welcome to our city. This proposition and the fact of our railroad facilities and central location brought forth a motion to hold the exhibit here which received a unanimous vote.

You too can try this fascinating REALISM TEST

Sketch from actual photograph showing the distinguished psychologists trying the Realism Test in the Edison Shop, New York.

We give it in our store. You can hear it exactly as did the noted psychologists who visited the Edison Shop on Fifth Avenue, New York.

You've been hearing about the astonishing realism of the New Edison.

Now you ask: "Is this realism so true that I feel the same emotions in listening to the New Edison as I feel in listening to the living singer?"

Our answer is—put the New Edison to the test!

Mr. Edison devised his unique Realism Test for this very purpose. Then he invited distinguished psychologists to try it out.

Each of the three men got sensations that were startlingly vivid.

"I could have sworn there was a living singer standing behind me," said Dr. W.

V. Bingham, Director of the Department of Applied Psychology, Carnegie Institute of Technology.

"I felt the presence of a living singer. The accompaniment seemed by a separate instrument," reported Prof. C. H. Farnsworth, Director of the Department of Music, Teachers' College, Columbia University.

"The music filled my mind with thoughts of peace and beauty," said Wilson Follett, Esq., noted music critic.

We'd like to have you come into our store and try this same test. See what sensations you get. The Realism Test is the conclusive way for judging the realism of the New Edison.

Ask about our Budget Plan. It shows you how to buy your New Edison through Thrift.

SCHOOL BOY HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Weeping Water Lad's Ford Plunges Off Bridge—Lands Safely in Deep Ditch Below.

From Friday's Daily. Elmer Kintner, one of our junior high school boys from the country, will no doubt long remember his experience Monday evening while driving a Ford car south over the west bridge. For some reason the car plunged through the railing on the bridge and landed right side up some twenty feet or more in the creek below with the driver still clinging to the steering wheel when the car landed.

The great speculation and wonder from the large crowd that gathered at the scene was how the boy could make the leap in the car so great a distance, and come out with only a few minor scratches of so little consequence that he assisted in removing the car from the creek and attended school next day.

In some way the car turned completely around and was headed back toward the bridge from whence it leaped. Some said the car turned over twice and a half while others said twice. The driver thought it turned three times during the descent. At any rate it was a miracle that the boy escaped serious injury or death.

As to what threw the car through the railing is not known, whether a broken radius or whether the rut in the bridge between the plank. The only eye witness, Louie Paulson, could not determine.—Weeping Water Republican.

WRITES INTERESTING LETTER FROM WEST

H. K. Wilson of Great Divide, Col., Tells of Conditions in Northwestern Portion of That State

From Thursday's Daily. A very interesting letter on conditions prevailing in northwestern Colorado, has been received here by Mrs. J. A. Wilson from her son, H. K. Wilson, who has for several years past been located in that state: Great Divide, Colo. April 23, 1920.

Dear Mother: I've worked hard today, and am awful tired tonight, but I want to have a little "chat" with you before I go to bed.

Have put a concrete platform around my pump today. Getting ready to supply summer water for the stock.

Have I told you that I bought some cattle? I've got eight high grade Guernsey cows and a pure bred bull. Will try the dairy business for a while. Butter fat is 73 cents per pound, so expect a neat income this summer.

We've had a long winter, but are ready for farming now and I never saw the soil in better condition. We've had about 36 inches of snow and its all gone into the ground. You know just what that means for us.

Have just finished the house and will put down a silo this summer. But I think the land is well worth the improvement.

I can't keep from thinking of the change in the country since I came here. It was October, 1916. The population of Moffat, Colorado, at that time was 2,500. Now it's 9,000.

We had two neighbors, one 6 miles, the other 12 miles. Think of us now with three neighbors in less than 1/4 mile, (and one of them is a first class doctor and surgeon).

Land is raising in price too. Three years ago $8 or $10 per acre was considered a good price. A place not far from here sold last week for $11,000, and another for $7,000, and this land will produce just as much wheat, oats, or any small grain, as the higher priced northern land will.

But a few places were filed on for speculation. These can be had reasonable or cheap. Do you know of anyone interested in this country? If so, give them my name and address and I will be glad to answer any questions, concerning the land, location, etc.

Uncle Sam surely picked an ideal home making country when he threw northwestern Colorado open for homesteaders. And his land is getting scarce, too.

Well mother its almost bed time, so I will quit for this time. Write me when you can. I'm expecting to see you and the boys out her this summer. Your son,

H. K. Wilson.

GLENN PERRY RETURNS HOME

Mr. Perry has been in serious condition and his friends will be pleased to know that he is now so much better that he is able to return home, but it will be some time before he is entirely recovered from the effects of the accident.
