lish? Because these people were those who knew best how to do things. Why is China lying supinely on her back while all the other strong nations of the world are able to treat her as they please? It is because she has no control or mastery of herself; for she knows no better. The last war was a war of brains against brains.

Christ knew enough law at twelve to stump the authorities in the law; Roosevelt at twenty-four was a leader in the New York state legislature. But it was because they had studied and learned.

Our public schools form one of the greatest national springs from which our people quench their intellectual thirst and gain both contentment and power. Of our land the poet speaks:

"Yet on her rocks and on her sands,
And watery hills the school house
stands,
And what her rugged soil denies,
The harvest of the commonwealth,
The riches of the commonwealth,
Are free strong minds and hearts of health.

Another virtue very necessary for life's mastery is a knowledge of the truth. It is one thing to know things, but it is another thing to know the truth about things. It is necessary to know how to interpret a knowledge of things rightly. A person may know all about flour, baking powder, lard, salt, etc., but he may not know the combination that will make biscuits. The truth is a higher knowledge that tells when an action is right or wrong. Christ said, "Know the truth and the truth will make you free." That word free means independent, so to know the truth means to put yourself in control of yourself.

Pilot was a wise ruler and lawyer, but he made a failure of himself because he did not know the truth to act accordingly. He admitted it when he asked Christ, "What is the truth?" The world has yet to see any brainier men than Socrates, Plato or Euclid. They knew much about the aspirations of the soul, and mathematical construction, but they did not know the truth that would assuage the longing soul or build into heaven. Jesus said: "If you drink of the water I give you, you will never thirst," and "If you come unto me all ye that labor and are heavy laden; I will give you rest." You can gain knowledge in any part of the earth, among any people, but truth can be found in only one source, from one teacher, and that is Christ. "I am the way, the truth, and the life."

Truth is the key that gives one possession of the vast storehouse of knowledge. Truth is the plan that shows one how to put knowledge together so that it makes a structure of power. Truth is the price list that gives one the value of knowledge.

If one has graduated from high school, college, university, or post graduate school, and has acquired his A. B., A. M., Ph. D. and LL. D., but in all that has not learned the truth, he is to be pitied greatly. It was such men as these who wrecked and ruined the German nation. Solomon said, "Buy the truth and sell it not," but both he and Germany after having brought the truth went and sold it. No man who has not applied the truth to his knowledge of his business has ever succeeded. The world has never honored a man who gained wealth untruthfully. The honored have rightly divided the word of truth.

In the great triumvirate of virtues that give the mastery in life, the third to be found is love. Knowledge gives the material; truth gives the plan and love gives the incentive. There is a profane love and a divine love. One is of the devil and the other is of God. The Greek has a word for both kinds, eros for the profane and agape for the divine.

So many murders have been committed in the name of love, but it was a selfish, worldly love which springs from an evil heart. But he who has a spirit that will sacrifice his own good before he will injure the right of even an enemy, he has the true element of love. "While we were yet sinners, Christ died for us." When they crucified Christ on the cross, he said of his persecutors: "Father forgive them for they know not what they do." That was divine love.

We secure knowledge from books and experience; we gain truth from the teachings of Christ, but we can find love only at the throne of God in repentance through the spirit of God. It is the spirit that respects the rights of others; it is the spirit that protects the rights of others; it reverses the teachings of Christ; it never climbs at the expense of others; it never depreciates one of God's humblest creatures; it never hesitates to lend needed aid and does not count the cost—at length it is a continual fervor of admiration for God's creation, and is the only foundation upon which every constructive idea, plan or action has ever been completed.

What innumerable instances of it were seen during the war, but since what a dearth of its manifestation among the leaders of industry, the capitalists, the senators, the legislators, the labor leaders, the diplomats, the statesmen, the governors and the rulers of the nations of the world. Because of its lack, what turmoil, what fears, what uncertainties, what hunger, what distrust and suffering has been the world's lot thru these last few years when this principle of love among Christian nations, so called, could have avoided it all, did they but love each other as they loved themselves. What we really need now is—

Patience to drudge in obscurity.
Patience to smile in adversity.
Patience to wait for prosperity.
Courage to do what you think you can.
Courage to use eye the better plan.
Courage to yield to a better man.
Love for the work you attempt to do.
Love for the weak ones that cling to you.
Love for the kind that is ever true—
Patience, and courage and love.

These virtues are the virtues of the Christian. In them is found success, happiness and life. In them one is master of himself and is more than a conqueror. He then can do all things. "What the world needs today more than anything else is Christian leaders. We need men like Gladstone, who missing a woman street sweeper, visited her home and administered to her needs in sickness; men like Lincoln, whose heart bubbled over in love for friend and foe; men like Lloyd George, who loves his Bible as he loves his meals; men such as Hay, McKinley, Cleveland, Roosevelt—men of honor, integrity and above all Christian love for the most humble service. It is such constructive statesmanship as this that we need. And any one who plans to be a leader without the virtues we have named, but for selfish motives, we do not want him. We are overloaded and water-logged from such leadership. But virtuous, masterful Christian men and women only will be able to solve the many knotty problems that will free this world today and permit it to live in the freedom which it desires.

To attain the mastery of self and become a master man, requires diligence and patience. "Ask and ye shall receive, seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you." Rubinstein, the great pianist, having electrified his audience with the rendition of the "Elf King," was asked how he was able to do it, and replied, "It is only by steady." The movies and auto addicts are not making master leaders today. It requires years of a buried life amidst books, nature study, and good physical development all regulated by a strict adherence to Christ's teachings and leadership. But it pays, and he who does will be resurrected out of such burial—a person of power and life.

Let me urge you, young people, to use the fine start you have made for the very best advantage. Do not aim at anything low, but at the very highest mark. We need your courage, your hope. Seek for the kingdom of God to come on earth. Never was there a better opportunity for your success. I know you can then say—

"I ain't been along th' road as Far as some;
But she's kep' a gittin' better
As I come.
'Twill be better still next year,
Sure as I'm a settin' here—
Lookin' back I see some mountains
I have clumb'."

Remember, to be big and noble, you cannot stoop to the petty things of life. When Lincoln was called a liar by Secretary Seward, he replied, to the secretary's surprise, "Perhaps I am." You must not—

"If the world don't do exactly as you think it ought to do—
Get mad
If you meet with opposition, go and get a rag to chew—
Get mad
Get as mad as hops, and show it;
Feed your anger, tan it, blow it;
Pout and let the whole world know
it—
Get mad
If you step on a banana peel and
stand upon your skull,
Get mad
Never smile and make a joke of it,
or folks will think you dull;
Get mad
Turn and say things to the spot,
Where the pavement quickly shot
Up and gave you such a swat—
Get mad
If you want to be a comfort to the world we're livin' in,
Get mad
If you want to keep folk's faces
lighted always with a grin,
Get mad
For there's nothing else so funny,
In the whole wide world, my honey,
As the man that's never sunny—
Get mad."

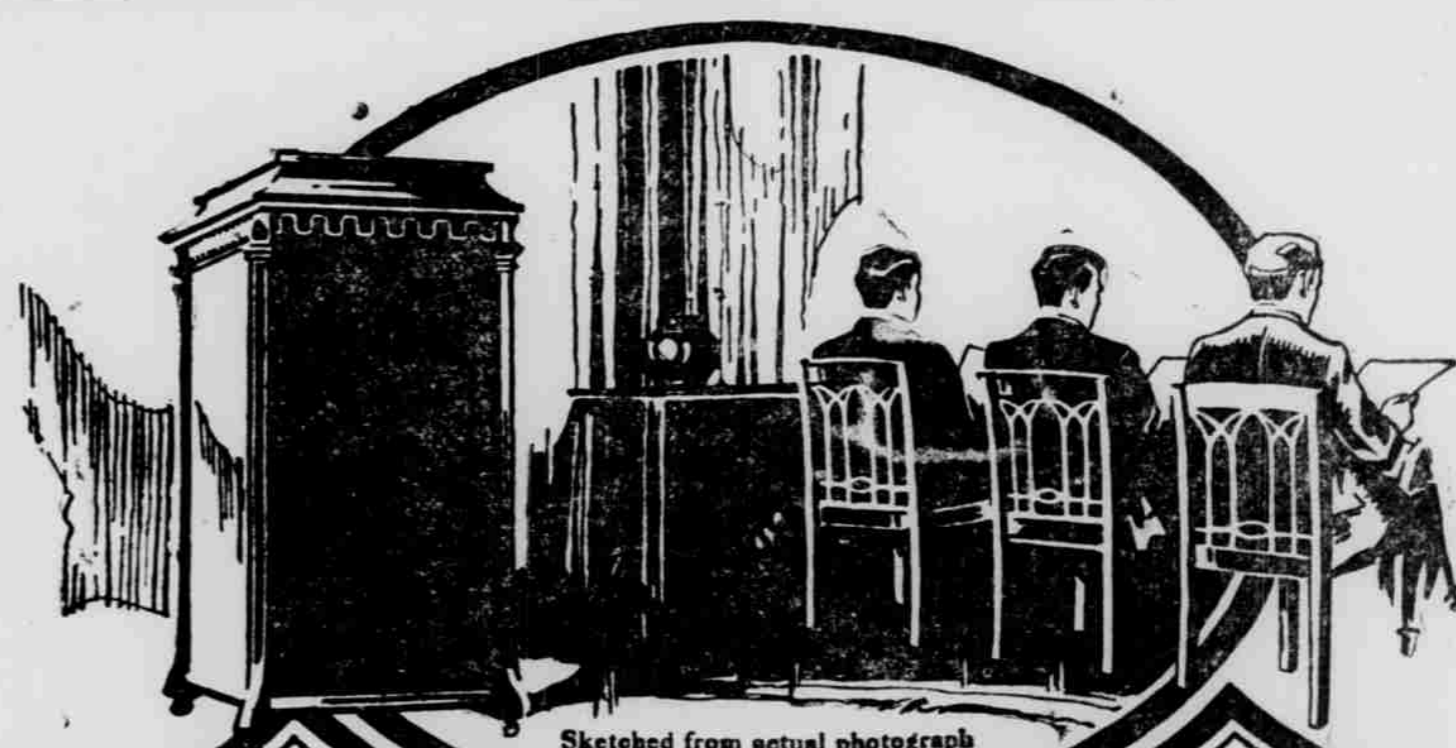

Finally, let me advise you never to lose sight of God, the almighty Father. He said, "Without Me, ye can do nothing," and Paul said, "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me." Peter tried to walk on the water but sank as soon as he took his eyes off Christ. Napoleon and William tried to rule the world in spite of God, but you know their end. Without Him you will fail and come to the end of your life with nothing but leaves in your hands and He will say to you: "Depart from Me; I know you not."

To make a little golden grain,
Requires the sunshine and the rain,
The hoarded richness of the sod,
And God.
To form and tint one dainty flower,
That blossoms to bless one fleeting
hour,
Both need the clouds, the skies above
and good—
—And love.
To make one life that's white and
good,
Fit for this human brotherhood,
Demands the toil of weary years,
—And love."

The fact that President Deschanel, of France, has toured France officially, appearing in a lounging suit, and has come out boldly and declared for the abolition of strong drink is one of the brightest lights in the history of France and shows that President Deschanel has placed his hand in the hand of God and is leading thru Him. You, too, may lead a multitude to the light of power, happiness and life, if you will place your hand in the hand of God, and labor for the meat the perisheth not and people will arise and call you blessed and strong and a master man.

"They call me strong because my tears I shed where none may see;
Because I smile, tell me my tales,
and win the crowd to me;
They call me strong because I laugh
to ease an aching heart;
Because I keep the sweet side out
and hide the bitter part.
But, Oh, could they who call me
strong, live but an hour with me,
When I am wrung with awful grief
in my Gethsemane.

"They call me strong because I toil
from early morn till late,
Well knowing there will be no smile
to ease me when I get to bed;
They call me strong because I hide
an inward pain with jest,
And give away the care that comes unbidden to my breast.

"What's behind Us —Living singer or NEW EDISON?"

Don't you want to try this fascinating test of the New Edison's realism,—which caused distinguished psychologists to ask in amazement: "What's behind us, living singer or New Edison?"

Come in and hear Mr. Edison's Realism Test. See what sensations you'll get,—and determine for yourself whether listening to the New Edison produces the same emotions as listening to the living singer.

The three distinguished men of art and science in the picture are Dr. W. V. Bingham, Director of the Department of Applied Psychology, Carnegie Institute of Technology; Prof. C. H. Farnsworth, Director of the Department of Music, Teachers' College, Columbia University, and Wilson Follett, Esq., noted author and music critic. They tried the Realism Test at the Edison Shop, New York. They found that it brought into play their whole capacity to feel and to enjoy. They got sensations that were vivid and unique.

The REALISM TEST

proved in this vital demonstration, before scientists of international repute, that it is an ideal way for you to judge the New Edison.

It tells you precisely how effective is the New Edison's realism,—and what this realism means in terms of your own musical enjoyment.

Please feel free to come in at any time, and make this unique experiment for yourself.

THE BUDGET PLAN regulates your "pleasure" expenditures so that you can buy your New Edison without expending your income. Ask about it.

Perhaps 'tis strength; God knoweth best He sent the cares to me,
And His—not mine—the strength that keeps thru my Gethsemane."

"Wall-Surface Satisfaction"

DRESSING the walls is one of the arts of today. More money is being put into it by the average family than, say for pictures or other wall decoration. From the mere covering of an unsightly wall surface, it has grown to the dignity of a decorative art.

Can there be any surprise, therefore, in the fact that the public is evincing a greater interest in better wall decoration?

And having helped to lift wall decoration to its proper place in home beautification, we feel this concerns the interest of every home owner who feels justly satisfied with only the best in home decoration.
