CURFEW WILL BE ENFORCED HERE

Chief of Police Manspeaker to See That Young Folks Under Eighteen Retire From Streets at 9 O'Clock

From Saturday's Daily "Curfew shall not ring tonight" will probably be the slogan of the young people of the city after the opening of school on Tuesday, September 7th, as Chief of Police Manspeaker has announced that on the day the public schools reopen for the fall term, the curfew ordinance will be enforced and the young people under eighteen, both girls and boys will be required to get off the streets or show good and sufficient reason why they are out after 9 o'clock, or have an order from their parents.

During the summer vacation the police have allowed the young people to be on the street until late without any question but such will not be the case when the long period of school work is taken up this fall.

While this will be irksome to a great many, it is a measure that will meet with the approval of the instructors in the schools and the parents who find it difficult to keep the young folks at home in the evening and will undoubtedly be of benefit to the youngsters themselves.

The chief of police desires to have the order understood as applying to both the girls and boys and while many have considered that it was covering merely the boys, they are mistaken and the girls as well will be required to answer the curfew call.

THINK THEY WILL SAVE LEG

From Saturday's Daily Roy Wright, the young lad who was injured so badly yesterday morning near Bartlett, Ia., and who is being treated in this city for temporary treatment, is now doing very nicely at the Immanuel hospital in Omaha, where he was taken yesterday noon. It was found that the wound was one very difficult to treat and a portion of the leg was badly shredded by the knives of the moving machine and the operation and dressing was performed by Dr. Hull, one of the leading surgeons of Omaha. It was the opinion of the surgeon that the leg could be saved and that the lad would suffer very little effect of the injury although the case was a very serious one.

READY TO ACCEPT 25 PER CENT BOOST

Union Stock Yards of Omaha Willing to Accept Twenty-five Per Cent Increase in Switching Rates

From Saturday's Daily E. Buckingham, vice president and general manager of the Union Stock yards of Omaha, let no grass grow under his corporation feet in the matter of complying with the order of the state railway commission to raise switching charges 25 per cent and no more. Mr. Buckingham as the general manager of a railway, or that part of the Union Stock yards company that switches cars to livestock to and fro in the largest stock yards in the west, has filed with the state railway commission a tariff sheet in conformity with the order of the commission which increases freight rates and switching charges 25 per cent.

The stock yards is the first railroad company to comply with the state commission's order. Its new tariff was filed to become effective August 27. The stock yards company is willing to accept the 25 per cent increase. Other railroad companies operating in Nebraska asked for an increase of 35 per cent. The stock yards company, by its officers and attorney, Norris Brown, joined in the request for a 35 per cent raise, but it is now willing to accept what the state commission offered. There is no change in stock yards charges for weighing and unloading of cars of live stock. The former charge was 25 cents per car for weighing and 50 cents for loading and unloading.

The railroads in Nebraska have filed petitions in federal court for an injunction to prevent the railway commission and attorney general from enforcing the two cent fare law. Commissioners Hall and Browne went to Omaha Friday to be present at the hearing of the application.

URGE A STATE BOXING BILL

Convention Also Favors Compulsory Military Training—Election of New Officers Today.

From Saturday's Daily The state convention of the American Legion at Hastings occupied a very busy session yesterday and took up the important matter of the stand of the state organization on many matters of importance. The resolution passed strongly endorsed the four-fold compensation plan and the support of the measure known as the bonus bill and which is intended to give to the service men some measure of return for their time of service and is based on the length of service.

The convention also re-affirmed its stand in favor of the compulsory military training as expressed by the last state convention, as the means of making the country better prepared for any emergency that might arise and save the unnecessary loss of life due to the use of untrained men in time of war.

Boxing under state regulation was also favored by the convention, to follow the plan advocated by the army and navy boxing commission. This is to cover ten round bouts.

The convention was addressed by Governor S. R. McKelvie along patriotic lines as well as by Mrs. Chas. H. Dietrich, president of the League of Women Voters and Mrs. W. A. Prince of Grand Island, who spoke of the work of the Woman's Auxiliary.

The contest for the next meeting place of the Legion was pressed by Lincoln, Scottsbluff, Grand Island and Fremont, and in the result the convention voted to come to Fremont for the next state meeting.

The election of officers for the ensuing year will be the chief business of the convention today.

National Commander Speaks National Commander Franklin D'Olier addressed the convention at yesterday's session and received a great ovation.

"The American Legion," he declared, "is the only organization in America in which all the elements in the country are represented. The more each member realizes that every element is represented, the better will he understand the American Legion and its ideals. Tolerance is necessary in order to maintain an organization like this. And the development of tolerance, which can be observed in the legion, is one of the finest things in it."

"When men from the Atlantic to the Pacific are members of a great organization, they must compromise on the unessentials that they may unite in agreement upon the fundamentals."

Will Run the Country "If you look forward a few years," the speaker continued, "you will realize that the ex-service men will run this country. They will run it not because they are ex-service men, but because they are picked men. They were picked because they were physically, morally and mentally fit. And these are the qualities of leadership."

They were successful in the war because of the support they received from 100,000,000 at home. In civil life they will be successful in proportion that they are able to enlist the support of the public by deserving it. "Unselfish leadership," the commander emphasized, "is the quality that the American Legion should display in its community." Briefly the commander recalled the beginning of the American Legion in France. It was the dream of about twenty men of which D'Olier was one. Then there followed in Paris a convention of 1,000 delegates from the divisions in France, and later the movement was started in this country. "Its object," Mr. D'Olier said, "is to keep alive the spirit of service that animates the army, the navy and the marines, to give to citizenship that same unselfish service."

"It is the high ideals of the American Legion that has caused it to grow in a little over a year to the present stage where there are 9,700 posts with a membership of more than a million and a half."

Accomplishments of the Year Sketching some of the accomplishments of the Legion the commander reminded the convention that through their activity the Sweet bill was passed, which added $100,000,000 to be used for the benefit of disabled soldiers, increasing their compensation from $30 to $80 per month. The care of disabled soldiers will, he said, always be one of the first cares of the legion.

The American Legion, he declared, has been the most potent factor in curbing the radical element in this country during the last year. "It was realized," he said, "that here was a large group of men used to force. They were trained in meeting force with force, and the radicals knew that at the drop of the hat the American Legion was ready to combat with force any movement which threatened the institutions of this country."
