WHO PROFITEERS!

An apple grower whose orchard is just across Lake Michigan from Chicago picked Red Astrakans and shipped them to a reputable Chicago commission house the other day at a total cost to himself of 36 cents per bushel. His return from the shipment was 35 cents per bushel. Less one cent per bushel. At the same time Red Astrakans were selling in the retail grocery stores of Chicago at the rate of $5 a bushel.

What's the answer? The American system of passing food from the grower to the consumer is bad beyond words and a source of danger to existing institutions.

Incidentally, city folks who denounce the farmer as a profiteer forgetfully condemn the tendency on the part of some Legionnaires and some Legion Posts to adopt "direct action" methods of curbing free speech and free assembly.

DISCUSSING A RECENT EDITORIAL IN THE AMERICAN LEGION WEEKLY, THE FARGO, NORTH DAKOTA, COURIER-NEWS COMMENTED AS FOLLOWS:

The American Legion Weekly, in behalf of the Legion as a body, editorially condemns the tendency on the part of some Legionnaires and some Legion Posts to adopt "direct action" methods of curbing free speech and free assembly.

The Weekly is correct in saying the Legion as a whole cannot justify the use of force by the mob in a comparatively few men or Posts.

Where the official organ of the Legion falls short in our opinion is in not also condemning the reactionary press for laying the blame for almost every case of mob action at the door of the American Legion.

In Kansas, Nebraska, Minnesota, Montana and elsewhere, whenever a Nonpartisan League speaker or some other believer in true democracy is mobbed or driven from town, the reactionary newspapers take special pains to say that the mob is composed of, or led by, Legionnaires.

Many newspapers in their desire to try to show that some person is what they call "disloyal" use the name of American Legion to bolster up their charge.

That is unfair to the Legion. It causes people to believe that the American Legion is responsible for many cases of mob action, when the truth is that the Legion as a body had nothing to do with the outrages.

In commenting thus the Courier-News is dealing with an important problem facing the American Legion—the problem of clarifying and driving home more clearly to the public the aims, purposes and ideals of the organization. The American Legion Weekly does not share the belief of many of its readers that it calls the "reactionary press" is designedly and deliberately misrepresenting the Legion and coloring news concerning it. Rather it lays the blame for the many ill-advised newspaper stories which have placed the Legion in a wrong light on misunderstanding and misapprehension.

Several months ago wide circulation was given news dispatches chronicling the activities of a few scattered Legion Posts, or groups of men acting in the name of the Legion, which had overstepped the grounds of proper conduct in the treatment of so-called radicals. There were a scant half score of Posts involved, yet for the time being they commanded as much space in the newspapers, probably, and attracted as much attention as all the rest of the 9,000 odd Posts of the Legion combined. It was inevitable that the circulation of these dispatches should lead in the minds of the public, and in the minds of some newspaper editors, the impression that the American Legion was an organization which had taken upon itself the responsibility of the entire Legion and that these acts were disapproved and regretted by the organization as a whole. But explanations never entirely accomplish their purpose. The harm had been done, and it could not be immediately repaired. Since then the Legion has been doing penance for the many-times-magnified sins of a few of its members.

More recently newspapers have printed stories emanating from various parts of the country on the participation of the Legion in labor disputes, and troubles and disorders which have accompanied labor disputes, which have again placed the Legion in a wrong light. The latest instance is that of a widely printed news dispatch telling of Legion activity in Denver, Col., during the riots which followed the recent street car workers' strike in that city. The fault of this dispatch was ambiguity, the sin of it rather one of omission. It stated briefly that the American Legion of Denver had volunteered to assist the regularly constituted authorities in restoring order. What it did not explain was that the Legion—or such of its members as volunteered to assist in putting down the riots which had already cost several lives and threatened to exact many more—answered an urgent appeal from the governor of the state and the mayor of the city, that they acted only after the spokesmen of the strikers had approved their activity and that they took extraordinary precautions to uphold the Legion's rule of non-participatory and strict neutrality in labor disputes.

How effective these precautions were is a matter about which there still exists doubt. After the settlement of the disorders the strikers did not unqualifiedly endorse the activity of the Legion. Elsewhere in this issue is printed the report of the adjutant of Colorado upon the affair. A statement of the street car men's union will be printed subsequently.

However, the instance of Denver is only one of several and if it ultimately develops that news dispatches from Denver have left an erroneous impression in the minds of many persons it is not because of a deliberate attempt on the part of newspapers to misrepresent the Legion. It is a consequence of a misconception of Legion purposes and ideals. It was too much to hope, probably, that in a short time the aims and purposes of such an organization as the American Legion could be transmitted the length and breadth of this country and be digested by the entire public—even in these modern days of the telegraph and the printing press. Only time will eventually overcome the misapprehension which exists. Only time will cure the sceptics and allay the suspicions. But the attainment of the purpose might be materially speeded if members and officers of the Legion took active steps to explain and elucidate the viewpoint of the Legion to the residents of their communities, enlisting the assistance and support of the newspapers.—American Legion Weekly.

DO NOT LET IT DISCONCERT YOU.

Many people are staring in astonishment when the "Bitter Wine" remedies spring up like mushrooms in various states of our country. Do not let this discomfort you! Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine is the only genuine Bitter Wine remedy, from 1890 in the American market, and he who suffers from constipation, poor appetite, headaches, nervousness or other stomach ailments has only to buy this remedy, if he wants to get rid of those troubles. Mr. Louis Jacyna, 1337 Jos. Campau Ave., Detroit, Mich., wrote us a few months ago: "Triner's American Elixir of Bitter Wine made me like new-born and ask you kindly to publish my words, because I want to recommend it to all sufferers." Other Triner's remedies, like Triner's Liniment for rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sprains, swellings, etc., or Triner's Antiputrin, an excellent gargle for sore throat, inflammation, are also very reliable, ask your druggist or dealer in medicines for them!—Joseph Triner Company, 1333-45 S. AMERICAN LEGION NEWS

By the POST ADJUTANT

A large majority of the ex-service men of this community are members of the Legion. The few who do not belong, should make haste to join.

Visitors to the state fair next week are invited to make their headquarters at the club house of Lincoln post No. 3, where every convenience will be placed at their disposal.

Plans have been laid for a Legion smoker and luncheon the night of September 30th. Additional information will be given from time to time as the arrangements progress.

The Overseas edition of the Stars and Stripes has been committed to the custody of Dr. Caldwell. Comrades may visit his office at any time and peruse it to their hearts content.

State headquarters for the Legion has been given a new and more attractive plan that has already passed the house, but was filibustered out of the senate in the closing days.

The state convention went on record as favoring the legalizing of boxing exhibitions up to and including ten rounds. Boxing was also favored for cantonment and overseas sport and bids fair to come into general favor with the public once they understand it is not the brutal exhibition many believe it to be.

The proposition of acquiring club rooms in the business section seems to meet with general favor among the members. The cost of furnishings there would amount to no small sum, but the furnishings would be usable in the new community building which will be erected when financial conditions warrant such a move.

W. F. Leidig and wife, George Reitter and Fred H. Wolf and wife, all of near Eagle were in the city yesterday afternoon for a few hours looking after some matters at the court house for a few hours.

"GRANDEST IN THE WORLD," HE SAYS

Des Moines Man Improved So Fast on Tanlac He Could Hardly Believe Himself.

"Tanlac" to my mind, is the grandest medicine in the world," declared Harry Baker, R. F. D. 3, Box 151, Des Moines, Iowa, machinist at the Union shops.

"I have actually gained twenty pounds in weight since I started taking Tanlac and feel as well as I ever did in my life. For five years I suffered terribly from indigestion. I had very little appetite, and the little I did manage to eat always hurt me. After every meal I would become badly nauseated and bloated up something awful with gas. I was subject to severe spells of headaches, and often became so dizzy I could hardly stand up. My kidneys also worried me a great deal, and there was always such an intense pain across the small of my back I could hardly do my work.

"When I began taking Tanlac, I commenced feeling so fast I could hardly believe it. I kept getting better until now I have a splendid appetite and can eat anything I want without having a sign of indigestion. My kidneys never bother me any more, the pains have entirely gone out of my back, and I can bend around and do my work as good as new. I never have a headache, ache or become dizzy, feel good all the time, and in fact, am a well man in every respect. I am glad of the opportunity to tell others what Tanlac has done for me, as I hope it may be the means of helping some one else, who may be suffering as I was."

Tanlac is sold in Plattsmouth by E. G. Fricke and Company; in Murray by the Murray Drug company, and the leading druggist in every town.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HOLD ELECTION

Officers Chosen Last Evening and Members Enjoy a Fine Social Time.

From Friday's Daily.

Last evening the members of Fr. Juan duPadilla, council, Knights of Columbus enjoyed a very fine meeting in their hall on Chicago avenue and the meeting was very largely attended by the membership of the order.

The main feature of the business session was the election of the officers for the ensuing year and the following were chosen: Grand Knight, Frank M. Bester; Deputy Grand Knight, John J. Clout; Chancellor, Robert M. Waring; Recording Secretary, Frank J. Libershal; Financial Secretary, W. A. Swatek; Treasurer, John F. Weber; Advocate, Joe Wooster; Warden, T. M. Searbrough; Inside Guard, Tim H. Kahoutek; Outside Guard, Con Gillespie; Trustees, three years, Philip A. Horn.

The remainder of the evening was spent very pleasantly in an informal manner with short addresses by the membership in the good of the order and for the future plans of the organization in their membership movements and the social activities that will be carried out during the winter months. Plenty of the fragrant Havana had been provided for the occasion and the smoker was one thoroughly enjoyed by the members of the order.

At a suitable hour the committee in charge produced the array of dainty refreshments that had been provided and the members of the council proceeded to make short work of the good things provided for their enjoyment.

The local council have enjoyed much success since their founding and now have a large and very active membership in this city and vicinity and this spring under the leadership of Dr. J. F. Forgerty, the retiring grand knight, a large class of the young Catholic men of the community was received in the order. It is the intention to have another class received this winter and the drive for the members will be launched at once by the new officers and will be brought to a successful conclusion. Within the past year the local have secured their own quarters by purchasing the A. O. U. W. building on Chicago avenue and have had it redecorated and equipped in the finest style for the lodge work and it is now one of the most pleasant lodge rooms in this city.

ENTERTAINS FOR GUESTS

From Friday's Daily.

Mrs. E. H. Vescott and daughter, Mrs. Helen, are entertaining at a house party in honor of Miss Dorothy Grey, who is in the city a guest of Miss Clara Mae Morgan, with whom she has been spending the summer at Camp Brewster, near Omaha. The guests of the Vescott home are Miss Grey, Miss Morgan and Misses Grace and Virginia Beeson.

Last evening in honor of the birthday anniversary of Miss Clara Mae, Mrs. Vescott entertained the Wah-tah-tasse cantinette girls. The evening was very delightfully spent in games and music until a late hour. At a suitable time dainty light refreshments were served adding to the enjoyment of the young ladies.

The afternoon social was being entertained at "Clover Lodge" the country home of Judge and Misses A. J. Beeson, by Misses Grace and Virginia Beeson, and this evening the members of the house party will be the guests of the Vescotts at a theater party at the Parmele.
