Even the pessimist can see the bright side of a silver dollar.

It will be a lucky man this winter who finds himself between two fires.

If only the cheaper shoes lasted longer, as do the cheaper cuts of meat.

The chorus of presidential outcries is beginning to betray a discord here and there.

The immigrants to this country are never popular until they become democrats or republicans.

Holding up the millions for the benefit of the few is not a healthful sport for profiteers of either capital or labor.

The price of brooms is coming down, but you have to raise more "dust" to get a hired girl to sweep the room.

Gas strong enough to run an auto is being made from straw. There's nothing they make a liquid from corn strong enough to run a locomotive.

It must give the tightwad a lot of pleasure to look about and notice what a fine time people are having spending the money of some other tightwad who has gone before.

The eighth wife of Kid McCoy, the pugilist, is suing him for divorce, after a matrimonial experience of four months. Perhaps Kid uses his fists as sparring partners, and they don't like the rough treatment.

The national prohibition commissioner admits that some of the country's big cities are still pretty wet. Ultimately it may occur to the national prohibition commissioner or somebody that prohibition is not self-enforcing.

It is said that Germany is dumping inferior goods into the United States and labeling them "Made in America." If Germany can do this, the clothing manufacturers of the United States in using shoddy material, she's the champion adulterer of the ages.

The question of maintaining our public utilities is too large to be marred by political palvering. The company is either entitled to higher rates, or it is not entitled to higher rates, and that is the question that can be easily settled through a board of arbitration consisting of fair-minded experts.

Concerning Barney Baruch, the Wall street financier who came out to Kansas to find "the cat that gets the cream" of the nation's production, many Kansas editors are amazed that such a wise old dog as Barney should have gone such a long way from the cat center of the country in his search.

We've just got through reading what Harding said, what Cox said, what Barney Baruch said, what Coolidge said, what Franklin Roosevelt said, what Teddy Jr. said, what some of the labor leaders said, what capital said, what the lady who killed her husband said, what the railroad said, what Babe Ruth said, what MacSwiney's wife said, what the neighbor said her neighbor said, and were leaning back in the comfortable old arm chair to hear what the wild waves said, when the telephone rang, and we heard what our wife said. We've forgotten what the other said, but we're going to get some meat and bread and butter and get home p. d. q.

WHY
Some Women dress better

SOME women have learned that there are two ways to care for clothes. They are learning to take care of them.

It is quite a mannerly thing to take care of your clothes investment and protect it up to the limit. Having your clothes carefully dry cleaned will improve their wear and help to prolong the life of their stylish lines.

Debs probably hopes there is no truth in that Salvation Army Slogan, "A man may be down, but he is never out."

So long as Miss Alice Paul cannot vote in November election, why not make her the stake-holder for all campaign bets?

The exact age of the woman voter may not be vital, but most folks will agree in the conclusion that a woman who is reluctant about telling her age hasn't sense enough to be a voter.

Political observers are wondering whether husbands and wives will vote alike in the coming election. Well the old saying is, "Coincidences" will happen in the best regulated families.

A California scientist and slave to the interest of truth and accuracy, says that Eve was really Adam's second wife, an unpedigreed woman, Lilith, having preceded her. And isn't it just like a man, not to say anything about the previous affair?

If the republic leaders are telling the truth when they say that they knew nothing whatever about the enormous slush fund, then who is getting the big wads of cash that are being mulched from the people, and under whose direction is it being expended?

"LaFayette, we have quit," has become the republican slogan. And under that slogan the republican party purposes not only to win the election, but to deprive of their title of loyal citizenship all Americans whose conscience and judgment impel them to vote as their sons should.

MR. M'SWINEY'S TIGHT PLACE

It is difficult at this distance to size up the case of Mr. MacSwiney, the lord mayor of Cork, who decided to commit suicide by starvation rather than undergo a two year sentence in an English prison.

The Irish mayor could not be nearer starvation and death than if he had been living in a third class boarding house, and getting late to his meals every day. And yet he lives.

More than that one day he is reported to have rallied and to have passed a good night and the next day to be dying.

Every day when the Associated Press wires close we are certain we are going to find Mr. MacSwiney dead at his morning meal, and the first thing we do when we come down now is to ask the telegraph operator how Mr. MacSwiney is, and we always get one of two answers—he is improved, or near death's door.

Suspicious persons insist that MacSwiney is taking great notice of the fact that he is not in the hospital. We don't believe this. We don't believe MacSwiney would feign weakness to his Irish constituents, and take a couple of raw eggs and whisky today between times.

But there is one thing certain, if MacSwiney is going to get the British government to release him before his two year sentence is up, it is plainly to his advantage to hang on as long as he possibly can. If he passes out what interest the British government takes in his case after that if of no importance to him.

It may be the purpose of the government to let Mr. MacSwiney commit suicide if he wants to. There is where the uncertainty comes in for Mr. MacSwiney. If the Lord Mayor just knew whether or not the British government was bluffing, he would have an easy task, but not knowing, Mr. MacSwiney has a difficult road, and one that might prove fatal to him in end.

A hunger strike is all right if it is going to secure your release, but if you are going to commit suicide by not eating there are certain very obvious disadvantages.

THE MAKING OF MEN.

Are the children of today being consigned to places of littleness?

Will the efforts being made in some quarters to destroy American ideals, and enthroned radicalism, affect their thinking and their lives?

These boys and girls have a right to the best; the best homes, the best educational advantages, the best moral training, the best social atmosphere, the best civilization. They not only have a right to be born well, but to be reared well, to be trained well, both in their thinking and in their acting.

Many a boy starts life with a handicap too great for him to overcome and after a period of struggle against seeming insurmountable difficulties he submits to the inevitable and sinks into the commonplace.

It is tragic because the poor fellow seems to be but a flicker of life in the midst of intangible forces over which he has no control and all of which seems to be conspiring to thwart his development.

It ought not to be so. Civilization owes the coming generation the proper environment in which to live and the proper training and equipment for life.

The making of the men of the future is in the hands of the men and women whose hands now guide the movements of civilization. It is theirs to organize and direct the forces which imping upon the lives of the rising generation so that these forces will make for and not against soul development.

There can be no civilization worthy the name that is not based on education and culture.

But the growing life needs something more than intellectual training, it needs that which religion has, a heritage of ideals, expressed in the eloquence of the soul and enshrined in great lives.

Religion alone can give the sufficient motive, spiritual motive, the motive of self-giving love and sacrificial service, the motive that has moved every great soul throughout all the ages.

Character grows in the soil of human conditions. What we are, does not depend on what we wish we might be, but on what we are set in to, our social, physical and moral environment. Grapes are not grown on thistles, or water lilies on asphalt, neither do men and women of the right type grow in an environment of ignorance, physical squalor, or moral pollution.

To make the world safe for democracy, was a slogan which marshaled a nation and hurled its forces into the maelstrom of war. But more important than any system of government is the intellectual, moral, spiritual atmosphere of the nation. Standards of life and living are vital.

A bench does not need atmosphere, but a boy does. It is not the air he breathes alone that enables him to live, the soul within him must inhale the breath of heaven. Aspirations, ideals, moral standards, spiritual impulses, hopes and beliefs, all are packed into the compound that makes the man.

Progress is not inherent in the race, it is an achievement. The tendency is to retrogress. Each generation must fight its way to the goal of success. The achievements of the past, the benefits of an advanced civilization, all facilities for education and established ideals in morals are helps but not guarantees of a higher type of life.

It is just here that the coming generation encounters its greatest handicap.

The heritage which weighs the heaviest is social. There is not much difference in the brain-weight of boys, but there is a tremendous difference in their social heritage.

One boy has a social heritage where every outlook on life is pessimistic and discouraging. The father has narrow and cramped conceptions. He is little in his opinions, pessimistic in his attitude, bolshevistic in his currents of thoughts. He has soured on the world and has stewed for years in his own vinegar until he is vitriolic. Around the bedside he talks about the inequality of things, pours out his disfigured feelings and creates an atmosphere destructive to every budding hope in the minds of his children.

Such a home atmosphere is a handicap to any boy.

There is another social heritage which is also a handicap. It is the heritage of extravagance and dissipation, unbridled self-gratification and mental oscillation.

There is but one salvation for the rising generation, and that is religion. Where the atmosphere is sweetened by prayer and Godliness in the daily life the souls of boys and girls flower into beauty.

Geo. R. Sayles, county clerk, was out in Plattsmouth this morning, delivering the balls for the election which occurs next week on the constitutional amendment.

Phillip Joltz of near Elmwood, was a visitor in Plattsmouth for the day having some business matters to look after at the court house.

C. M. Read and family of Murray, were in the city this morning, driving up in their car to look after some matters of business.

Misses Nora and Anna Snyder, Esther Larson and Crete Briggs, who are teaching in Omaha, came down last Friday for the week end at home.

Henry Rice of Murray, was a visitor in Plattsmouth this morning, driving up in his car to look after some matters of business for a short time.

Misses Alice Louise Wescott and Grace Beeson were passengers this morning for Camp Gretna, near Omaha where they will spend the week end.

THE BEST PROOF

Given by a Plattsmouth Citizen
Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they brought relief.

The story was told to Plattsmouth residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence.

Has proven the result lasting. The testimony is home testimony. The proof convincing.

It can be investigated by Plattsmouth residents.

Mrs. S. L. Cotner, Marble street, gave the following statement Feb. 23, 1916: "I am glad to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for I know from personal experience they are a remedy of merit. I have taken Doan's on several occasions for backache and kidney trouble and they have always done me good. Doan's have been used in our family for a long time and the results have been very satisfactory."

On May 13, 1920, Mrs. Cotner said: "The cure Doan's Kidney Pills made for me a few years ago has lasted. I still have good faith in Doan's and am glad to recommend them to my friends."

Price 60¢, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Cotner had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.
