LIVESTOCK PRICES SHOW A BIG SLUMP

Decrease in Movement Not Sufficient to Check a Decline That Spelled Disaster to Western Feeders

A slump in prices of cattle and hogs—almost without precedent in the extent of decline—occurred last month in the face of a large decrease in supplies compared with the movement a year ago.

Five markets received 418,000 fewer cattle than in November last year, yet prices declined more than a dollar a hundred pounds, and on some classes, notably corn fed steers, the decline was as much as $3 a hundred. Cattle are $3 to $5 a hundred pounds cheaper than a year ago, despite the reduced supplies.

There is a similar situation in the hog market. Five principal centers received 377,000 fewer hogs last month than a year ago, yet hogs are $5 a hundred pounds lower than at this time last year and the decline in November was about $3 a hundred pounds.

Aside from the influence of the general downward movement in prices of all commodities, packers attribute the slump in livestock to some special reasons, among which are the big corn crop which is expected to make liberal winter supplies of fat animals. Diminished foreign demand is another factor, and a third is the extreme depression in the market for by-products, especially hides, for which there is little demand, even though prices are down 66 per cent from the high of 1919 and are below pre-war prices.

The present depressed market for livestock is causing enormous losses to feeders. Many fed cattle have sold for less than they were worth before they were put on feed—in other words, the owners lost all the value of their feed and labor, and even more.

Notwithstanding the reduced receipts of cattle for the month Chicago made a new high record for the week ending November 29, with 134,300 cattle and calves. Large receipts of Canadian and northern range cattle accounted for the record.

JUST TO KEEP

YOU POSTED

We take this method of informing the public of a few of the big pictures which we have recently contracted for. Our reason for so doing is because you have been led to believe that we have lost our Paramount contract, and that the big Paramount pictures would no longer be shown at the Parquet. This, however, is not the case, as we have recently renewed our Paramount contract with the biggest, best and latest program releases, special releases, and super-special releases, in fact everything that Paramount has made, except a very few re-releases, such as "Rebecca" of Sunningbrook Farm, which we played over 2 years ago and a few others. But all of the late up-to-date releases, as well as all of the pictures they will release for some time to come, we hold the contracts for in Plattsmouth.

Some of these are as follows: "The Right to Love," "Behold My Wife," with Elliot Dexter, "Idols of Clay," Fatty Arbuckle in "The Roundtrip" (the big stage play in seven reels), "Humoresque," (Absolutely the biggest of them all), Tom Meighen in "Conrad in Quest of His Youth," Dorothy Gish in "Flying Pat," Arbuckle in "The Life of The Party," "To Please One Woman," Wm. H. Hart in "The Testing Block," "Inside the Cup," "The Kentuckians," "Brewster's Millions," and so on, etc. We could fill this page with a list of the big pictures we have contracted for, but we think this partial list will give you some idea of what there is in store for you in the way of really big pictures. We also have Reelart, United Artists and Metro contracts, which entitled us to such well known stars as Mary Miles Minter, Douglas Fairbanks, Viola Dana, Wanda Hawley, Bert Lytell, Nazimova and Mary Pickford, as well as many big special pictures from these companies.

But the price you will have to pay is what you are mostly interested in. Well we told you nearly a year ago that our pictures would all be shown for one price, 15 and 25 cents and no more, regardless of what the big ones might cost us. We have stayed with our word and the result has been that our patronage has been constantly on the increase. Therefore we will continue to show them all for the regular prices, namely 15c and 25c.

We thank you for the time it took you to read this.

Yours for fair play

FLAVORING PUDDINGS WITH SPIRITS BARRED

Warning Given That Christmas Pastries Must Not Smell of Booze—Housewife is Barred.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 3.—The flavoring of home-made Christmas plum pudding, mince meat and brandied cherries and peaches with alcoholic spirits is in violation of the prohibition enforcement law and such foods are liable to seizure. It was stated today at the bureau of internal revenue.

Officials explained that under their interpretations of the enforcement act culinary products in which alcohol is an ingredient can be made only by manufacturers of food products who obtain a permit from the government, and that such products must contain less than one-half of one per cent of alcohol. They also state that the regulations require that such products shall not be used or sold on the premises and that this effectively barred the housewife from making Christmas foods with liquor in them. The regulations specifically state that permits shall not be issued to hotels and restaurants.

Retailers do not have to have permits to sell culinary products containing less than one-half of one per cent of alcohol obtained from authorized manufacturers, officials said.

AVOID CHRISTMAS FIRES--USE CARE

Warning by State Fire Marshal C. E. Hartford Against Inflammable Displays and Decorations.

State Fire Marshall C. E. Hartford has not advised the use of asbestos whiskers for every Santa Claus but he has issued the following general warning against Christmas fires:

"There is considerable danger in the reckless and improper use of holiday decorations especially electrical. Panic and property loss can be prevented by the use of great care in installing decorations. Often dangerous conditions are introduced in connection with inflammable Christmas displays without increasing the effectiveness of the decorations. Merchants are asked as to their exhibits.

"There was a time when it was thought necessary to have a great exhibit of colored lights, paper festoons, cotton batting, and other highly inflammable material at this time of the year, but the merchant of today realizes that it is his merchantlike that he wishes to dispose of and that the best way to do it is to show it to his customer in the best possible manner.

"The destructive possibilities of defective electrical construction at this season are enormously increased by the use of cotton batting and similar highly inflammable materials for shop decorations. The practice of draining merchandise over lamps in addition to being dangerous defects its own purpose. The efficiency of the lamp is reduced by cutting down the area of illumination, and the establishment of brilliant spots of light among the merchandise prevents prospective customers from seeing the goods to advantage. The uniform and comprehensive distribution of light in a show room or show window is ideal illumination and may be accomplished with safety.

Merchants will readily see the wisdom of taking no chances with experiments which increase fire dangers without in any way promoting the sale of goods."
