A Thankful Man

In fact we never met Wm. Seyboldt when he looked any other way than thankful that he was alive and enjoying the best of health and good nature. While he was placed on a ticket for road overseer, he was glad to receive the manifestations of his many friends in the shape of votes which elected him. He did not want the office and did not want to have his name on the ticket, but when elected, two roads were open, one to accept and the other to resign. He took the latter and tendered his resignation, which was accepted, and he was again thankful. There has been no appointment for the position though there are several candidates.

The Fun Came High.

Last Saturday night someone thinking more of fun than they did for the safety or welfare of their friends and neighbors, stretched a wire across the walk near the home of B. A. Root, with the result that when Mrs. W. S. Smith was returning from the Presbyterian bazaar, she was tripped by the wire, and falling broke a glass dish which she was carrying and cut her wrist very bad. It was fortunate that the glass did not sever an artery near which it cut a very bad gash. It does not seem that the perpetrator of this very rude trick would derive any enjoyment when he sees that good woman with her hand tied up and suffering from his thoughtlessness. Boys, or whoever you are, take a thought next time and do not do this for it is a very mean trick and cannot be really called fun.

For Sale.

Speaks Well For Murray.

Last Sunday the Rev. Mitchell of Red Oak, Ia., was in Murray and held services at the Presbyterian church, coming because he had heard of the excellent community spirit which has been obtained in this community. He was coming with the purpose, if suited, of making his home in Murray. He had in mind from what he had heard that this was a community church and was coming for that purpose, as he thought there would be an excellent field in which to work. The members of the church thought he was coming to secure him, if possible. He proved a very able man, but on account of the misunderstanding could not be secured. We have never been very zealous for any sectarian or denominational church. They are all good and it seems like one community church with the broad minded people would be plenty and those that could be supported and made a very great success. People think about this matter. It is fellowship, it is Christianity and the best of practice for the entire community.

Was a Great Success.

The offices of the Presbyterian church who held a bazaar at their church parlors last Saturday afternoon and evening, were very successful with their entertainment which netted them some two hundred and thirty dollars, besides having a very enjoyable evening.

Celebrated Birthday Friday.

The friends of Miss Blanche Scotten gathered at her home last Friday evening and made the evening merry by the celebration of her fifteenth birthday. There was a large crowd and a very pleasant evening was spent. They had music and played games such as delight the young folks and were served with delicious refreshments which added to the joy of the occasion. Those to enjoy and assist in the evenings pleasure were: Misses Leona Farris, Mable Howard, Hazel Davis, Flora Wickham, Marie and Elsie Puls, and Miss Blanche Scotten, and Messrs. Everett Spangler, Will Minford, Claire Farris, Francis Cook, Glen Edmondson, Lloyd Leyda, Chester Shrader and Lester Long.

Feeding Many Cattle.

Harry Todd is feeding some three hundred cattle at the farm south of Murray which he will return to the market when they are in condition. Uncle J. W. Edmonds is making some twenty feeders for the feeding of the grain and other concentrated foods, and is doing an excellent job of the work. Mr. Edmonds is a workman who is not ashamed of the work he puts out and when the contract is completed Mr. Todd will have a very convenient way of feeding the cattle and will also save much of the food which otherwise would go to waste.

Making the Hens Lay.

We believe in the best of chickens and the pure bred ones at that. But they will not lay for some time just after they have been moved from one place to another, without some encouragement. Not so long ago two ladies of Murray became intensely interested in a certain strain of the domestic chick and secured twenty-five each. They were petted and coddled, and fed the best of food, and given Dr. Hezekiah Hemmingsway's egg producer, but to no effect. Their husbands were disappointed as well as the wives, but they could not see the women folks grieving and getting no eggs with Christmas coming on very rapidly. They endeavored to purchase some eggs in the open market, but found no offers and were at their wits end when one of the swains found a basket in the cellar with eggs packed in sawdust in one nest and five in another. You should have heard the telephone jingle then and let the other lady know that "we have gotten seven eggs today. The hens have started to lay in earnest." There was happiness in the home for that day, but the next day the discovery was made of the eggs gone from the cellar. Now some one is trying to play even, and they will.
