HAPPILY WED AN EVEN HALF CENTURY AGO

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT TROOP CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

From Tuesday's Daily.
Last evening at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Troop, was gathered a number of their relatives and friends to properly celebrate the passing of the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. The evening was a most happy one for all in attendance, as they presented their good wishes, for this popular couple and the gifts, which bespoke the honor and esteem in which they are held. Presents of gold, and other costly gifts were given by the friends and which were highly appreciated, but the one thing which was the most striking, was the presentation of a beautiful silk flag, presented by Thomas Glenn and other of the comrades, who served in the struggle for the preservation of the union in the stormy years from 1861 to 1865.

The fore part of the evening was spent in social conversation, and reminiscences of the years which have flown as a scroll, and the singing of the old time songs, which inspired the boys in the fray and those familiar ones which were in the height of their popularity a half century ago. Mrs. Wm. Troop presided at the piano, with perfect grace, while Thomas Glenn led in the songs, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," "Old Black Joe," "America" and such popular ones helped to speed the happy hours. At the banquet table there sat surrounded more than a thousand years of happiness of those in attendance.

Mrs. C. R. Troop, who had charge of the serving as the company was standing around the festal board, asked all to join in "Old Hundred", and later all in unison repeated the Lord's prayer, before the partaking of the sumptuous repast. The bride, then Miss Lois R. More, was a child of the Ozarks, being born near Sullivan, Franklin county, Mo., July 14, 1848, where she spent with her parents, some fifteen years of her happy girlhood. With them she moved to Davenport, Iowa, where she resided until her marriage to Mr. Robert Troop on December 13th, 1870.

Mr. Robert Troop was born on February 23, 1843, at McGee, Ireland, and with his parents came to America and located at Davenport, Iowa, in 1844, when he was one year of age. At that time there was but four houses in that now populous city. At the age of eighteen, he enlisted in the company E of the 20th Iowa infantry, and was sent to St. Louis, and from there with a department of the service, to Springfield, Mo. The first battle in which he was engaged was that of Prairie Grove when one-half of the Union army were killed in the action. During the war he participated in twenty pitched battles, and was with the Union forces when they captured Vicksburg.

At Morganfield, Tenn., he was taken prisoner and was confined in the Confederate prison at Tyler Texas for nearly a year. He with others, escaped, and after a flight of twenty miles on foot through a hostile country, were captured by bloodhounds of the rebels within a short distance of the camp of the Union army. While in the trees out of the reach of the bloodhounds, they could hear the martial music of the Federal forces just over the Red river. At Blakeley, La., they had their last fight in 1865, and were mustered out of the service in Clinton, Ia. For a year Mr. Troop ran on a steamboat on the Mississippi and tributary rivers in the south. Then came to Omaha and worked on the construction of the Union Pacific road, in the later sixties, returning to Davenport, he assisted in building the bridge over the Mississippi, until 1870.

After their marriage they went to Milwaukee, where Mr. Troop drove a street car, then operated by horse and mule power.

In 1876, they came to Nebraska and purchased the farm where Galen Rhoden now lives and made their home there for ten years, then moving to another place near, they resided there for a year, then came to Plattsmouth to live, and in the time from 1888 to 1892, lived again on the farm where John M. Meisinger now resides, and a neighbor to Samuel Richardson. Returning to Plattsmouth in 1893, they engaged with J. V. Egenberger in the grocery business for two years and later in the fuel and feed business under the firm name of Egenberger & Troop. Closing out this business, Mr. Troop was fortunate in drawing a low number in the land lottery and secured a good farm within a half mile of Gregory, S. D., which he, after a residence of some four years, disposed of it at a good figure and returned to Plattsmouth, where they have enjoyed the honor and respect of a host of friends since.
