

THE PRICE OF CLOTHES

The price of our dry cleaning cuts down the price of clothes. Dainty Dorothy says that she has found out that we take most excellent care of the garments entrusted to us and that our charges should make friends for this house. Our dyeing proves satisfactory, as we use the latest approved methods and the best dyes.

PROTESTS THE NAVAL PLANS

Society of Friends Voice Sentiments in Letter Addressed to the President-Elect on Subject.

The Religious Society of Friends of the United States have addressed a letter to the president-elect in which they have set forth their views on the subject of increased naval armament, and have given to the press a copy of the letter which is as follows:

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 4, 1921.
Warren G. Harding,
Marion, Ohio.
Dear Friend:

The people of the United States are vitally interested in the amount of taxes they will be called upon to pay during the years that lie immediately ahead. The items that enter into the national budget are therefore of more absorbing interest to us than perhaps ever before. Nearly 68 per cent of the budget as it stood shortly before the end of the last fiscal year was devoted to the payment of charges incurred in the conduct of recent and previous wars, and nearly 25 per cent to the expenses of the war and navy departments. In all, therefore, a total of nearly 93 per cent was devoted to past war and preparation for possible future war. We cannot shake off our liability for obligations incurred in the past, but we can resolve not to assume the intolerable burden of armament competition in preparation for another conflict.

There has already been striking evidence that the common people are increasingly demanding relief from the appalling cost of modern warfare.

The great conflict left no more urgent problem than that of making future wars impossible. The colossal destruction of life and property, the vast sum of human suffering involved in war, the danger that any other conflict may destroy our very civilization itself, have all turned men's minds as never before, toward the goal of international peace and good will. Statesmen and leaders are striving to attain it. The masses of people everywhere long for its realization. The most practical first step in the direction of peace and good will is the reduction of national armaments.

Major General Tasker H. Bliss in a remarkable address recently delivered in Philadelphia, referred to the doctrine of increasing armaments, heretofore adopted by other nations. "The application of this doctrine," he said, "seems to have a tendency it is true, to reduce the frequency of wars. But the ultimate result is inevitable. The pent-up dynamite forces of the nations reach a point of tension at which resistance ceases and then comes an explosion which rocks the world to its base." Those who are mistaken, he states, "who may think there can be an enduring and effective association of the nations for the maintenance of peace so long as those nations are armed to the teeth solely against each other. And those are mistaken who think that, so long as the present military system exists, there can be any peaceful international court of arbitration."

We are convinced that these statements are profoundly true, and therefore heartily endorse and urge upon the favorable attention of the executive and legislative branches of our government, the two proposals that have been put forward looking toward the reduction of armaments:

First: That this country shall enter into an agreement with other nations for a so-called naval holiday and refrain from new naval construction for a period of years.

Second: The even more fundamental and important proposal so convincingly presented by General Bliss, that this country shall take the lead in a movement looking toward a world-wide reduction of armaments.

If financial considerations alone are sufficient to justify these proposals, but far more fundamental is the avoidance of future war. May the United States embrace to the full, the wonderful and Christian considerations, and upon which the continuation of our civilization may depend.

On behalf of Philadelphia Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends.

MAY PAVE ROAD.

The matter of paving the highway from the end of the pavement in South Omaha to Fort Crook, is a matter in which the residents of this county who have automobiles will be greatly interested and it bids fair to be carried out if the present plans proposed are accepted. J. H. McDonald, chief of the bureau of public roads, at Washington, has taken the matter up and as it is a military highway, has suggested that it be paved under the federal aid act. The improving of the road has been taken up by Congressman Jeffers in whose district it is located and will be brought to the attention of the Nebraska department of public works.

LENINE REPORTED KILL UNDER ATTACK OF EXTREME REDS

Asserted to Have Broken Down a Radical's Accuse Him of "Selling Cause."

New York, Jan. 11.—The Jewish News bureau today made public wireless advices from Berlin stating that Lenin, premier of soviet Russia, was ill in Moscow from a general breakdown accentuated by recent violent attacks upon him by extremists in the communist party who accused him of "selling out to the bourgeoisie."

Calls Communism Robbery.

Berlin, Jan. 11.—"Communism is Russia is robbery; it tolerates imprisonment, persecution and execution without trial, it has brought Russia starvation, disease and death. There is no government. It is a worse autocracy than czaristic government and I lived there for over twenty years under the czar." M. Schwartz, American socialist of San Francisco, recently released from four months imprisonment in Moscow, declared today. With his wife, known twenty years in America as a socialist worker under the name of Jessie M. Mollie, he went to Russia last June and attended the second congress of the third international.

The couple were thrown into prison on August 6, because they failed to approve conditions in Russia. They were released December 3, after Mrs. Schwartz went on a hunger strike.

Mrs. Schwartz died in a hospital December 20, from the effects of her long solitary confinement and hunger, and her husband is returning to America to give even worse pictures of conditions in Russia than many Italian, British and German delegates to the congress of the third international have painted.

Describing the early part of his visit, he said: "Everywhere we went we were met by brass bands and crowds waving red flags shouting for the soviet government. But we weren't fooled. From the moment we landed in Petrograd we saw misery, dilapidation and squalor. We suspected something was wrong, which could not be explained merely by revolution.

"I began talking to persons of all classes and broke away from our bolshevist conductors. I soon found that the shouting crowds had to be reduced or taken away. I never talked with a single person outside of officials, who had a good word to say for the soviet government.

"Thrown Into New Prison.

"We asked for our baggage and money and papers. We were told we would be given them at the station. We carried more than $3,000 of American gold into Russia, which had been taken from us, and we refused to move without it. We were thrown back into another prison where my wife was the only woman in a cell twenty feet square with myself and thirty other men.

"Finally the situation became so desperate that she said she would go on a hunger strike and advertise to fellow workers in America our wrongs through her death rather than continue to suffer.

"Five days later we were sent to Renal, penniless. There the American Y. M. C. A. gave us shelter, but my wife had suffered too much. I buried her there, assisted by the American consul and Y. M. C. A. workers and I am carrying a picture of her grave back to our children and to the American workers who know how devoted she had been to their cause."

At last you can learn What Edison Did during the War

YOU wondered—everybody wondered, and practically nobody knew how Edison "did his bit." At last the official announcement is out! Come in and get your copy of the bulletin: "What Did Edison Do During the War?"—or write, if you can't call.

It tells what Edison did while Chairman of the Naval Consulting Board—how he spent months at sea, experimenting and inventing devices for foiling the German submarines.

The bulletin also tells how Edison stood the gaff and kept the price of the New Edison down to bed-rock during the era of high costs and soaring prices. The New Edison has increased in price less than 15% since 1914—part of this increase is war tax. The bulletin also tells Mr. Edison's views on our Budget Plan which makes the New Edison easy to buy.

BANK OF CHAPPELL SUSPENDS BUSINESS

Chappell, Neb., Jan. 10.—The First National Bank of Chappell, Neb., has closed its doors awaiting the action of the national bank examiner as to its further activity and resumption of business in the next thirty days.

The inability to collect on its customers' notes, who insist upon the markets strengthening before they will dispose of their wheat in the bin and elevators has caused this suspension.

Bank officials assert depositors will be paid in full. The bank affairs are regular and in good shape they say, but the inability to force the collection of reliable wheat growers' obligations to the bank has hindered the bank's progress the last ninety days.

The First National bank was organized as the Commercial State bank in 1886 but was converted into a national bank in 1910 by H. I. Babcock the cashier.

H. I. Babcock has been cashier of the bank for thirty-four years and it is entirely under his management, he being the only one of the officers who was active during that time.
