Nehawka

To the many readers of the Journal, who are residents of the vicinity of Nehawka, as well as others, we are pleased to announce that in line with our avowed policy of giving our news service greater scope, the Journal field man paid a visit to Nehawka last week and will make the town each week and will make rounds for news and business.

During the past more than a year we have conducted departments from Murdock, Murray and Union, in addition to our regular correspondence service from towns over the county, and we will endeavor to make this new department one worth while to the readers of our paper.

We want all the live news and business to justify the service we are prepared to render. To this end we will appreciate the kindness of all who may contribute to the success of the department.

We are pleased to state that we have always found Nehawkaites to be happy, prosperous people and are glad to chronicle the doings of interest to themselves, the community and our readers scattered over the country from coast to coast.

While the roads were very bad on the occasion of our visit to Nehawka, a few days since, we found this thriving little city filled with people from the surrounding country, who had come in to look after their trading, and who are of the "buy-it-at-home" type rather than the "mail order type," which flourishes in so many communities. This speaks well for the enterprising merchants, who have made it both pleasant and profitable to trade at home, and whose stocks are as fresh and up-to-date as those of any city emporium.

Sheldon Company Busy

Already evidences of spring are in the air. The Sheldon Manufacturing company, which has been shut down a part of the winter has re-opened with a force of eight men who are busy making hog crates. These, together with the company's far-famed one-man cement mixers are being shipped to purchasers in different parts of the country. Two car loads of the products of this enterprise had just gone out and the business for January is expected to run considerably higher than a year ago. The company looks for a large volume of orders during the coming season.

Another Leading Enterprise

Although the Nehawka mills have not been running all the time on account of the bad roads, this institution is one of the live-wire enterprises. It is in the hands of an Omaha company which expects to make things fairly hum, when the present temporary depression is over. For small towns can boast of good flour mill any more, and that is one reason why Nehawka people point with some degree of pride to their's.

Business Changes Hands

The business of the Nehawka auto company, which has been successfully conducted by Messrs. C. D. St. John and P. R. Cunningham, has but recently been disposed of by them to C. Hodges, who is to take charge March 1st. Neither Mr. St. John or Mr. Cunningham have concluded just what they will do after that time, but it is safe to say they will continue to be numbered among the live-wire Nehawka boosters as long as they maintain their residence here.

THE JOURNAL

Sheldon Company Busy

Already evidences of spring are in the air. The Sheldon Manufacturing company, which has been shut down a part of the winter has re-opened with a force of eight men who are busy making hog crates. These, together with the company's far-famed one-man cement mixers are being shipped to purchasers in different parts of the country. Another Leading Enterprise

Although the Nehawka mills have not been running all the time on account of the bad roads, this institution is one of the live-wire enterprises. It is in the hands of an Omaha company which expects to make things fairly hum, when the present temporary depression is over. For small towns can boast of good flour mill any more, and that is one reason why Nehawka people point with some degree of pride to their's.

Business Changes Hands

The business of the Nehawka auto company, which has been successfully conducted by Messrs. C. D. St. John and P. R. Cunningham, has but recently been disposed of by them to C. Hodges, who is to take charge March 1st. Neither Mr. St. John or Mr. Cunningham have concluded just what they will do after that time, but it is safe to say they will continue to be numbered among the live-wire Nehawka boosters as long as they maintain their residence here.

The Nehawka Bank

At the Nehawka Bank we met Messrs. D. C. West and F. A. Bockler, who are genial good fellows and well liked by everyone. They have been conservatively successful in the conduct of affairs at the bank in line with their policy of service they are offering to assist people of the community with their income tax problems. But this is only one of the numerous aids they extend and hereby hang the reason of the institution's popularity and prestige.

Sheldon Dept. Store

In this institution we found the salesladies and salesmen busy as bees and selling goods at prices which a great many large town stores are not meeting. Mr. Frank Sheldon, the proprietor, is a crank on quality and does not neglect this important matter in looking after the interests of his customers. That's why it has come to be often said, "If you buy it at Sheldon's, you may know it's all right." Another important matter occupying the attention of the sales force just now is the annual "taking of stock," or inventory as it is commonly called. In a store of this size the task is by no means a small one.

Has Fine Stock of Goods

J. H. Steffins is another merchant who has a fine stock of goods and who keeps his store in tip-top shape as to arrangement of the stock. Everyone is welcome and one man's dollar goes as far as another, which is the limit—consistent of course with sound business practice. Prosperity is coming to this institution, and will continue to, so long as Mr. Steffins sticks to his adage that, "He prospers most who serves best." C. R. Heebner has just accepted a position in the store and he and Mr. Steffins make a good team when it comes to waiting on trade and looking after the business.

Up-to-Date Pharmacy

Nehawka's needs in the drug line are ably looked after by D. D. Adams and Son, who conduct an up-to-date pharmacy and also carry a fine line of stationery and a well selected stock of books. They carry a line of musical instruments, having the agency for the Claxtonola phonograph. Drop into their place at any time and they will be pleased to demonstrate the machine or send one to your home for comparison.

The Hardware Store

Time was when the "hard" wear store was more popular than the hardware establishment of today ever dare be. But the 15th amendment has done away with the former, leaving the latter to enjoy its well

The Lumber Garage

A few years ago Olaf Lundberg, who has made his home in and near Nehawka for the past thirty years, started a small garage in the rooms where A. B. Rutledge now conducts his printing establishment. Although he had room for but two cars at a time, by industry, strict attention to business, good work and courteous treatment he has built up a business which it would be a pleasure to any man to own. He soon saw the necessity of larger quarters and constructed a cement block building on the west side of the street, where he often times has as high as twenty-five cars stored. Finding this inadequate he is just now completing an addition which brings the building back to the alley and will afford greater storage capacity as well as better working facilities.

The Printer Man

A. B. Rutledge, a veteran printer and a rustler, conducts the printing office and when it comes to doing fine work and lots of it, it is difficult to find one who is his equal. He is busy all the time and when not in the office with some job, is looking after his chickens in which he takes great delight and finds a handsome profit. He raises only the best and trap-nests the hens, so he knows to a cent what each one's production is in eggs. Mr. Rutledge is a jolly old scout and an excellent citizen.

Miller and Grueber

James Miller and Henry Grueber, cement workers, have their workrooms in the basement of the auditorium and turn out the best of work in addition to the ordinary run of building work, they also manufacture cement burial vaults. A good many buildings in and near Nehawka attest their superior workmanship. At the present time they are manufacturing cement blocks for use in new residences for both members of the firm this spring.

Well Conducted Pool Room

Neis Anderson, proprietor of the amusement parlor, conducts a pool and billiard hall, which he keeps in the best of condition, requiring courteous treatment from all who frequent the place, and extending cordial good cheer to all. He carries an excellent stock of refreshments in the way of candies, fruits, cigars and cigarettes, as well as soft drinks.

Another Nice Stock

Joseph Sutphin, the grocer, conducts a neat little store, carrying a nice stock of groceries and some dry goods. He is always on hand to accommodate the public and greets everyone with cordiality and their money's worth for every dollar spent with him.

Harness Shop Busy

John Dale, the harness man, is busy just now with repair work and the selling of new goods, as the farmers are getting ready early for the spring work season which will soon be at hand. Mr. Dale is a most genial gentleman and we enjoyed our stay at his place of business.

Plumbers and Heaters

The Switzer brothers, plumbers and heaters, are kept so busy that the only way one can see them is to follow them out on the job. They are doing an excellent business as a result of the fine quality of their work.

A Painter of Ability

Blair Dale, who is a painter of more than ordinary ability, is kept busy even during the winter months. He is just completing the new building which Frank Sheldon has been having constructed, and was busy papering the home of Z. W. Shrader last week.

"Square Meal" Emporium

There are two eating places in Nehawka, the proprietors of which know what a "square meal" is and are not slow about giving it to their patrons. Nicholas Klaurens conducts such a place at his home in the east part of town. He is a genial gentleman whose family unite in extending such a welcome as to make one feel at home. The Nehawka hotel is conducted by the Blake brothers, and they are doing an excellent business, the house being crowded at all times. Their excellent patronage is due to the service they render the public, both transient and those who make the hotel their permanent home.

PREPARING FOR STATE MEETING

Retail Clothiers of State Will Hold Convention at Omaha During Coming Week.

The advance announcements of the big state convention of the Nebraska Retail clothiers which is to be held at the Hotel Fontenelle at Omaha on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of next week is being made. This convention will bring together practically all the leading retail clothiers of the state and furnish an opportunity for the clothing men to discuss the work of the coming year in their trade line.

Among the speakers who will be heard on the program of the three days are Governor S. R. McKelvie, Harry P. William, director of the sales of the Hart-Schaffner & Marx company of Chicago and Sidney Hillman, president of the garment makers union of North America. Mr. Hillman is the one man in the country that is chiefly responsible for the abolishing of the sweat shop in the making of clothing and his efforts have greatly aided the garment makers. He will present to the convention the views of the producers of the clothes to the men who dispose of them to the consumer and his address will be awaited with interest. In addition special entertainments will be staged each evening for the benefit of the guests of the convention.
