Crystal White soap, 7c per bar at Griffin's.

The Nehawka bank is a safe conservative institution. Walkers chile-on-carne, 10 cents per can. Thursday only, at Griffin's. Father be safe than be sorry. See the banker before you conclude that deal.

Always on the side of the best interests of the community. The Nehawka Bank.

Searle S. Davis of Plattsmouth, was looking after some business matters in Nehawka last Wednesday, arriving down in his car.

George Tanner of Murray, who is employed selling Colorado lands, was a visitor in Nehawka last Tuesday, looking after some land trades.

With their fingers of the commercial life of the community and country, the city banker knows the best. At the Nehawka bank when in doubt, Earl and Geo. Troop, who are attending school in Plattsmouth, were down on the farm last Saturday assisting in the work and taking an outing.

You cannot go wrong when you follow your bankers advice. When in doubt about a financial proposition, see the banker and you will be on the safe side.

Peter Opp had workmen removing a barn, an ancient land mark at his home in the west part of town, which has stood the sun and storms for nearly thirty years.

John Murdock and W. A. Stoll were assisting last Wednesday in hauling corn for W. O. Troop and son Robert, where they are feeding cattle north of town.

C. W. Hodges, who recently purchased the garage of Messrs St. John and Cunningham, is in charge with competent assistants, and is looking after the business in the proper way.

Warren Munn, who has been assisting in the blacksmith shop of Mr. T. E. Fulton for some time past, was reported as being confined to his home on account of an attack of the Grippe.

H. H. Stoll was assisting in furnishing the music at the dance given at the home of Herman Gansner northwest of Nehawka last Saturday evening, at which there was a large crowd in attendance.

Luther Turner of Plattsmouth, was looking after some trouble with the electric circuits, which had stopped the citizens of the service during the day, but on the arrival of Mr. Turner the trouble was soon remedied.

Senator A. F. Sturm was a visitor at home over Friday last week, coming down Saturday morning and returning Monday morning to look after the legislative work which is getting pretty well along at this time.

Mr. Fred Rhodewald, salesman for the T. H. Pollock Auto company of Plattsmouth, was a visitor in Nehawka last Tuesday evening, accompanied by Mrs. Rhodewald. Mr. Rhodewald was looking after the sale of a car for his firm.

Joseph Strader, who has been looking after some business matters in the west, returned a few days ago from Burlington, Colorado, and reported that spring is about as far advanced there as here, and that the farmers are busy in the fields preparing for the coming crops.

C. D. St. John has been getting out some products from the Nehawka mills which he has formerly taken over, but is awaiting for some representative of the owners of the lease which they have held for the past year, to come so that a definite agreement may be arrived at.

Guy Stokes of near Murray, was transacting business matters in Nehawka last Wednesday.

Hall Pollard was visiting in Union last Sunday and also was looking after some business matters at as well.

H. H. Stoll and son Freddie, were looking after some business matters at Plattsmouth last Friday, driving over in their car.

Adolph Schwartz was a visitor in Plattsmouth the first of last week, where he was looking after some business matters for a few hours.

Mr. A. B. Rutledge, proprietor of the Nehawka printing house, was a visitor in Weeping Water last Thursday, looking after some business matters.

Paul and Arthur Wolf had the mysteries of Entered Apprentice degrees of Masonry bestowed upon them at the regular meeting of the Masonic Fraternity last week and are well pleased with the magnificent work which the lodge here put on.

Make Out Tax Report. During the first of last week the board of the Nehawka elevator company, V. P. Sheldon, R. B. Stone, R. O. Tucker, and R. C. Giles, were spending some time wrestling with the question of an income tax report, which is required to be in the hands of the revenue collector by March 15th. The gentlemen completed the work, but do not think much of it as an occupation, and would rather farm.

Will Make Home in Union. C. F. Chase, who has been east superintending the packing of his goods for removal to this vicinity, had them shipped to Union, where he has secured the Methodist parsonage for a residence for the present. Mr. Chase returned here and expected that the goods would be placed in the house this week and that soon again he would enjoy home life again. He will have to make the trip to and from his work every day, but as the distance is small and with a good car, he can make it in a short time.

All Hands at the Work. We cannot help but admire the way the ladies of the two churches of Nehawka work in unison for the welfare of the city. Last week they met at the home of the pastor of the United Brethren church, where they held an excellent meeting, while this week they met at the Methodist church, where they held an all day session, serving dinner in the church parlors and to which the men of the church also participated. This looks good to us and we are hoping that the meeting thus together of the ladies and their husbands will result in great good to the entire city.

Have a Home Warming. A large number of the friends of J. S. Rough and wife, who have just gotten snugly fixed in their new home, called with but a short notice to the members of the home last week and had a most enjoyable evening. The first intimation that they were to have company was when Mrs. E. A. Kirkpatrick called Mr. Rough, saying that if they were going to be at home that she and Mr. "Kirk" would drop over during the evening. They did drop in, and others also until about forty of their friends had arrived and the house was filled. It was with much gladness that Mr. and Mrs. Rough received their guests, and as they increased in number, a little surprise was manifested at the number of friends who had come to make the evening merry with them.

A most pleasant evening was spent in which all enjoyed themselves as well as making it a most agreeable evening for the host and hostess. Among those who were present and assisting in the delightful occasion were the following: Messrs and Mesdames E. A. Kirkpatrick, W. S. Norris, R. B. Stone, J. W. Magney, V. P. Sheldon, D. C. West, and Miss Eleanor Baker, and Messrs Delbert Switzer, Henry M. Pollard, Chalmer Switzer, J. H. Palmer, George C. Sheldon, J. H. Stevens, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas, Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Moore, R. O. Tucker, Miss Saphronia Kline, Mrs. Albertine Ost, and Mr. Charles Bates, J. M. Stone and H. H. Stoll.

Enjoyed Excellent Feed. The twenty-four members of the I. O. O. F. of Avoca, who were here last Monday as visitors at the meeting of the order, when the second degree was conferred, were loud in their praise of the sociability of the Nehawka members, and say they not only know how to be "Odd Fellows" but they know how to be sociable fellows as well. A sumptuous feed was given at the conclusion of the work, and a most enjoyable time was had.

MARRIED AT NEBRASKA CITY. Among the marriage licenses issued yesterday in Nebraska City was one to Walter E. Wright of Bartlett, Ia., and Miss Elizabeth Mary Tritsch of Thurman, Iowa. The young couple were married Thursday afternoon at the Presbyterian manse in Nebraska City by Dr. L. R. Patton. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Tritsch, formerly a resident of this county.

Novelties of all kinds suitable for social festivities of the Easter season, can be found in profusion at the Journal office. A call here is convincing.

Odd Fellows Have Good Time. Last Monday at the regular meeting of the Odd Fellows, they had a most excellent time with some twenty visitors from the Avoca lodge, who had come to enjoy the second degree, or the degree of Love exemplified here when a number of candidates were given that degree.

Slowly Improving. Uncle Malcolm Pollard, who had the misfortune to fall and break his hip some time ago, is still confined to his home. While he is mending the process is necessarily slow, on account of the peculiar character of the injury and the advanced years of the patient.

Mrs. Edgar Glaze Better. A card from the hospital in Omaha, where Mrs. Edgar Glaze, who was formerly Miss Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allen, the latter now Mrs. Edward Sheehan, tells of the improvement of Mrs. Glaze, whose progress is slow but is promised the return of good health which is good news to her many friends here.

ENJOYS THE BEST OF LITERATURE. Joseph Travis of Omaha, Well Known Here, Has Record as a Student of High Class Literature. The Omaha News recently had a very interesting article concerning Joseph Travis, a former well known Plattsmouth young man, who made his home here with Attorney A. L. Tidd for a number of years and whose life story seems little short of marvelous. It demonstrates what is possible when the mind is set upon attaining its goal. The article in the News is as follows:

"Joseph Travis, night secretary of the Y. M. C. A. never completed the fourth grade in school. Yet, at the age of 33, he has read and memorized more real literature than the average man does in a life time.

He discusses Jack London and Aristotle in the same breath. He compares Homer with Ella Wheeler Wilcox. He quotes at will from Virgil, Victor Hugo, Browning, Bacon, and Shaw, with quaint original comments. He memorizes any passage which interests him, poetry or prose, in six readings. He is equally conversant with history, science, art, and political economy.

University professors have talked with Joseph Travis—and marveled. They would have marveled the more had they known the complete story of his unusually picturesque life.

Born in the grime and the smoke of the lower east side of New York city, Joe Travis scrambled up through babyhood, a street gamin. He "trussed" papers, and scoured the alleys for bottles and old rags to sell for his scanty meals. At intervals, he attended school sufficiently long to complete the third grade. There his formal education ended, and the thousands of tabulated facts he now has at his tongue's tip were self-acquired.

But such a school of experience as he attended: "Hitting the trail" at 14, he saw all of the United States, Canada and Mexico via the "blind baggage" and boxcar mode of transportation. Many a night he rode the quaking rods of a freight train with a scared volume of some old philosopher lugged to his breast. Borrowing books at a public library in some town along his route, he read them in transit, and turned them in at the next public library.

From Calgary to Mexico City, from New York to San Diego he traveled, and, with his phenomenal memory, he retained the facts which he learned with remarkable clearness.

"What are his favorite books?" "Folks would think I was crazy if I told you just what I think is the most interesting reading," said Mr. Travis. "What I really like best is 'The Meditations of Marcus Aurelius.' And I like next best 'The Golden Sands of Epictetus.'"

But for people who do not enjoy the old philosophers, he has selected six books which he thinks everybody should read to obtain a sound philosophy of life and an understanding of human nature. They are "Les Miserables," by Hugo; "Qui Vadis," by Sienkiewicz; "The Other Wise Man," by Van Dyke; "The Promised Land," by Mary Antin; "How the Other Half Lives," by Jacob Riis, and "The Honorable Peter Stirling," by Ford.

"I just wish I could get everybody to read those books," he said earnestly.

"Of course, reading's my hobby," he added. "They say 'everybody rides a hobby.' I'm afraid my hobby rides me, because I just can't let books alone."

PASSES BUCK TO VOTERS OF STATE

House Orders Referendum on Soldiers' Bonus Bill—Vote on Question in 1922.

The voters of Nebraska at the general election in 1922, will have an opportunity to decide whether they wish to pay a bonus of 10 million dollars to the soldiers, sailors and nurses who served in the world war. That is, if the senate follows the lead of the house.

The matter came up yesterday morning on H. R. 52, by Sturdevant, providing for a bonus of $15 for each month served and requiring the annual levying of a tax of one million dollars for ten years to pay it. The benefits are to go to every sailor, soldier, mariner or nurse or soldier's widow who was a resident of the state at the time they were commissioned, enlisted, inducted into service, appointed or mustered in. Each must have an honorable discharge.

The bill appoints the state auditor, treasurer and adjutant general as the board to pass on all applications for bonuses. Not less than $50 will be paid in each case.

After Sturdevant had secured unanimous consent to take up the bill ahead of the Friday morning special order, he made an eloquent speech in support of it.

Mears moved as an amendment that the matter of a bonus be referred to the people for approval or rejection. Others seconded the motion on the ground that the people have been objecting loudly about increasing taxes and that this would place the responsibility for the ten million carried by the bill upon the voters themselves.

Members of the house who had served in the war said they were in an embarrassing situation and would have to vote against the bill if put up in its original form, but that they could support the referendum. Rodman and Snow claimed the Legion members of the house were not playing fair with their colleagues, because when the house passed the bill a few days ago that provided for loans to soldiers who needed help, the members said they would vote against any other appropriation. On roll call the members, with the exception of Griswold, passed.

The bill, with the Mears referendum amendment passing the buck to the people was recommended for passage by a vote of 57 to 31.

DOGS TRIM HAT

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Smith of this city have two small bull dogs that they have made great pets of and which accompany them almost every place they go and in the past their playful antics have greatly amused this worthy couple—but they are "off" the dogs for life, and all because of an incident that occurred yesterday noon at the office of the Cass County Monument Works of which Mr. Smith is the owner. Mr. Smith and his wife had gone home to lunch and left the two pets in the office until their return and incidently Mrs. Smith left her Easter bonnet lying on one of the stones in the center of the pile reposed the home with her and thereby hangs the tale. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Smith discovered the rugs all scattered around the office floor and in the center of the pile reposed the one time glorious Easter hat, but now a mere mass of ruins. One of the dogs had chewed up the artificial flowers that had served as ornaments while the other had taken the straw bonnet and reduced it to ruins. The dogs will be kept far away from the hats in the future.

MOVE PIPE ORGAN

The Evangelical Lutheran church southeast of town has had a pipe organ expert from Omaha here the past ten days and had him clean and tune the organ. The organ was formerly placed in the balcony in the rear of the church, but by a vote of the church it was decided to move it down stairs and place it on the west side of the altar, which is a more sightly position and gives out greater volume of sound.

The pipe organ cost originally $1,500 and was installed after the splendid church was built about fifteen years ago. Frederick Stohlman, son of Mrs. Louise Stohlman, is organist at present and previous to his playing, Miss Gertrude Hartman played the organ for several years. The congregation and members are justly proud of their fine organ and church.—Louisville Courier.

Mrs. Frank Koubek, Sr. of this city received a very nice present yesterday which comes to her as a birthday remembrance. It consisted of a box of dainties sent by her son, Anton H. Koubek of Kansas City, and contained not only a fine birthday cake, but a large array of fruits and other dainties and is certainly a pleasant reminder of the natal anniversary of the lady.

Miss Agnes Bajcek was among those going to Omaha this morning, where she will visit for the day with friends.
