ALIEN LAND BILL SUFFERS CHANGES

Hoagland Substitute Proposes to Treat All Aliens Alike Up to the Time of Naturalization.

Hoagland's amendment in the form of a substitute bill for H. R. 133, the alien land bill, was brought up in the senate with objections voiced only by Berka of Douglas. Reed of Hamilton, who had previously been in favor of the house bill, preferred the Hoagland substitute.

Hoagland explained that the house bill is intended to get at the Japanese. His substitute proposes to treat all aliens alike up to the time of naturalization. His bill prohibits all aliens from owning land in this state. The house bill did not prohibit aliens who can become naturalized from acquiring land. Hoagland's bill follows the house bill in many respects. The house bill is a copy of the California law. It neither repeals nor amends the existing state law relating to alien ownership. Hoagland amends the existing state law, but preserves many of the features of the house bill and makes them apply to aliens of all races. His bill does not discriminate against Japanese. It prohibits aliens or foreign corporations, whether resident or non-resident from acquiring land, but does not prevent aliens from inheriting lands and holding it for a period of five years. Those who can become naturalized and do so within the five year period can continue to hold title to land the same as other persons. Those aliens who cannot become naturalized such as the Japanese under present treaties, sell the lands they own within five years or it escheats to the state. The bill like the house bill, does not apply to aliens who do not own lands in this state. Aliens and foreign corporations are prohibited in their liens on lands or which may be acquired hereafter, but if they acquire lands in this way it must be sold within ten years. Aliens now owning lands can hold the same during their lives. Like the present state law, the Hoagland amendment does not apply to alien or foreign corporations from acquiring lands necessary for railroads or manufacturing plants, and does not apply to real estate within cities or villages.

Reed of Douglas objected to the bill because it applies to all aliens, white people as well as black races such as the Japanese. He said the judiciary committee sent the house bill to the general file without recommendations and the committee was divided in regard to some of its provisions. He said the committee at no time gave support to the Hoagland substitute bill. Without a roll call the Hoagland bill was substituted for the house bill.

'OUTSIDE THE LAW' TO BE SEEN HERE

Tod Browning's original drama of the underworld, "Outside the Law," comes to the Parmele Theater Friday and Saturday, with Priscilla Dean in the stellar role. Lon Chaney, Wheeler Oakman, E. A. Warren, Ralph Lewis, Melbourne McDowell, Wilton Taylor, and a new child actor, Stanley Gaethals, are in the cast.

Browning produced his story as a Universal-Jewel feature at a cost running into hundreds of thousands of dollars, and the completed picture is said to give ample evidence of the dramatic personality of this drama is an old heathen philosopher, whose ideas of right and wrong are based on no political statutes, and who unites out an unannounced justice "outside the law."

Priscilla Dean is said to be at her dramatic best in this, her first picture since "The Virgin of Stamboul," while Lon Chaney has a dual role which outshines anything in his career of distinctive and difficult screen impersonations.

A handful of pearls was the price of Silky Moll's betrayal to the law, by the uncrowned king of crookdom, whose Lingo knew not the word "honor." See "Outside the Law," with Priscilla Dean, at the Parmele, Friday and Saturday.

Father M. A. Shine departed this morning on the early Burlington train for Omaha, where he goes to attend the funeral services of one of his very close friends, George Smith, with whom he has been intimately acquainted for a number of years and who died Monday at one of the Omaha hospitals.

APPRECIATES STEAD-FAST FRIENDS

I have been a citizen of Murray for a number of years and during that time have had many friends who have ever shown a disposition to do whatever they could for my success both in a matter of business and otherwise. I cannot fail to appreciate the friendships which have prompted the acts which have contributed to my success in business. For these kindly acts and the true friendship of the citizens of Murray, I am extending my thanks. I have liked to live in Murray and to associate with the many friends here. I have just disposed of my holdings here and will, during the coming early summer, go to the western portion of the state to live, remaining here until the close of the present school year that the children may finish the present term. During this time, I shall have charge of the business which I have just disposed of, and for which I am asking in behalf of the present owners, Vallery and Cromwell, a continuance of the patronage which has been contributed to my success. Again I thank you, my friends, for your friendship.

SEASON OPENS WEDNESDAY.

Fond hopes of a pennant winning baseball aggregation in Omaha, following the recent change of ownership, are rapidly vanishing into thin air. The Bee's sport writer says unless some good first string pitchers are secured the team will do well to head the second division. The season opens Wednesday of this week—April 13th—and we have no doubt it will prove unlucky for someone. It takes money to maintain a good ball team and to date it doesn't look like the oil magnates from the south who have acquired the Omaha franchise are putting it out in any very large sums.

ASKS A FAIR DEAL FOR CAPITAL AND LABOR

SECRETARY DAVIS WOULD FIND HAPPY MEDIUM—SHOULD GET TOGETHER

FOR GOLDEN RULE AS BASIS

Tells Working Men They Must Share Responsibilities of Government.

Chicago, April 12.—A plea for a fair deal for capital, a decent living wage for labor, larger profits for farmers through lower railroad rates and settlement of all industrial disputes through conferences, with the golden rule as the basis of settlement, was made tonight by Secretary of Labor Davis in an address. He warned labor that if it is to take a share in the organization and policies of the nation it also must take a share in the nation's responsibilities, and declared that labor must see transportation conditions could make a fair profit.

He upheld the right of capital as well as labor, to be given a fair chance in presenting its side of all controversies, and then warned capital that a decent living wage for labor was necessary.

He expressed a wish that a law would be passed giving him power to conduct a national building inquiry, declaring he would spare neither the profiteering contractor nor the corrupt labor leader.
"From time to time large employers of labor, and some of them justly so, have been made the football of muckrakers," he said. "They have been painted in every color save that of the lily and when they have striven to give their side of the case, they have been charged with the dread crime of propagandism. There is at least one thing they must be given credit for—a desire to keep the wheels of progress going. They are beginning more and more to realize how essential their business is to public good.
"It is much better for labor and capital to get together and settle their differences and I am sure they will reach an agreement much easier than by having the secretary of labor or anyone else adjust their differences.

"Neither side should try to put any thing over on the other. Each should recognize the rights of each other and both the rights of the public. Give the men and women a decent living wage for the way to make a loyal American is to make America mean something to him in the way of a happy home, family circle, food, clothing and self respect. To grind the life out of him is to make a poor patriot.
"Labor for generations has been fighting a defensive fight for its rights. It has reached the stage where it proposes to take a share in the responsibility and direction of the policies of the nation. Its viewpoint must become constructive. If it is to continue to share the confidence and prosperity of the nation, it must share in the responsibilities. It must realize any plan of action or policy that proposes to confer privileges and benefits on one group that are not extended to all others will inevitably fail.
"The farmer markets his labor in the form of food and at present at very low prices. The farmer will not continue his food production on that basis. Workers must recognize this situation. They must see to it that transportation charges are so adjusted that the farmer's product may reach its normal market without incurring an expense so great as to eliminate any possibility of an adequate return. They must admit the fundamental equality of the labor that enters into food production and that which enters in manufacture, commerce and industry and that to be proper a nation must be so organized that each group receives its proportionate share."

STRANGLER AGAIN VICTOR IN MATCH

Won Two Straight Falls by Deadly Headlock Which Left Caddock Unconscious Both Times.

Des Moines, Ia., April 13.—Ed ("Strangler") Lewis successfully defended his heavyweight wrestling title of the world here tonight when he took both falls of his match against Earl Caddock. The first came in 1 hour and 35 minutes and the second in seven minutes and thirty seconds. Both falls came as the result of vicious headlocks and in both instances Caddock was left unconscious in the ring.

During the first hour it looked as though it might be anybody's match, as Caddock successfully escaped from six headlocks, and the champion wrestled under the pain of the toe hold twice. But after the first successful headlock the outcome was scarcely in doubt, as Caddock appeared dazed thereafter.

Six times during the match Lewis was helpless for several minutes, four times with the toe hold and twice with arm locks. Lewis, however, in each instance managed finally to break loose.
