Money has quit talking and commenced to make signs we never saw before.

An optimist can always see the bright side of the other fellow's misfortune.

Chicago has one cold storage plant which will accommodate 21,000 tons of meat.

The reason that a good looking girl is never sensible is because she doesn't have to be.

It seems almost impossible for editors and owners of umbrellas to save anything for a rainy day.

An there is always more or less rejoicing in community when a chronic kicker kicks the bucket.

We read that a Hapsburg prince has become a cabaret performer in Berlin. But probably not a very good one.

How many millionaires must an actress wed and divorce before she has income sufficient to live without working?

According to reports, Edsel Ford recently bought for personal use a big motor car made in England. No accounting for tastes.

In order to understand motorists, one has to own a motor, and also in order to understand pedestrians one must walk a great deal.

The undertakers in Oklahoma City announce a ten per cent reduction on funerals. But who wants to have a funeral in Oklahoma City?

Robinson Crusoe's island, off the coast of Chile, is to be made a "health resort" which usually means, now, that the place is to be 100 per cent "wet."

It looks like Jimmy Stillman is going to have a hard time counting the chickens that have been hatched both inside and outside the family nest.

Looking at Poland, and glancing in one or two other directions, it is apparent there is a difference if not generally recognized, between armament and gun toting.

Chinese wine known as ng-ka-py may be used for medicine, according to recent decision of federal prohibition commissioner; but they don't tell how to pronounce it.

It is costing France 100,000 francs a month to keep her army mobilized, but Germany would be wise not to take that fact too much into her calculations, because it is probable, when all is done, that France's mobilization will cost Germany much more than it is costing France.

Two South Dakota Indians have gone to law over the ownership of a cow. The reason they took the matter into court probably is that neither will come out from behind the cow long enough to shoot it out, and the cow is worth $40.

Sam Gompers, president of the federation of labor, during his recent honeymoon stopped at an open-shop hotel in Buffalo. Moreover, the proprietor of the hotel was the leader of the hotel men's war on the unions. Er'er Sam is certainly losing his grip.

Mr. Edison thinks the use of motion pictures in primary schools as a substitute for books would greatly hasten the processes of learning. Perhaps it would, but probably it would depend somewhat on the kind of pictures used and the kind of books they displaced.

Ted Robinson of the Cleveland Plain Dealer says Hamlet, Macbeth and Romeo and Juliet are so packed with "quotations" that they sound like trite "compositions" now. And Anthony's address over the body of Caesar—it sounds as if the author had stolen his lines from American editors in campaign year.

The administration is said to be considering the advisability of holding up the Knox peace resolution until it is seen how the allies perform on our Yip and other demands. Well, the country is so accustomed to being at war with Germany that a short spell more of it probably would make no difference from the viewpoint of normalcy.

The Kansas miners have spent $25,000 attacking the industrial court law, and it is only beginning to take on the appearance of what the lawyers call a nice point.

A local young man who asked his girl if she had ever read "Romeo and Juliet." The young lady replied that she had read Romeo, but did not recall having read the other book.

World Almanac has an advertisement reading: "Four full quart bottles of Storm King Whisky, eight years old, $3.10, express paid." But don't get excited; the Almanac is dated 1902.

One pint of buttermilk, the juice of one lemon and one ounce of sugar succeeds in making what it calls "buttermilk lemonade" which it declares is a healthful and enjoyable drink. But you try it.

Muggsy McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, has been acquitted of the charge of having a quart of booze in his possession. That's nothing to be proud of. Lots of us could be acquitted of that charge.

An English scientist has discovered evidences which lead him to believe the Romans burned coal. The evidence, while interesting, is incomplete. So far it has not been shown that the Romans had any strike problems.

A Denver clergyman allowed to edit a newspaper for one day, killed all murder stories brought in over the wires. That's about as logical as denying the crucifixion of Christ merely because the event on Calvary was bloody.

A Michigan woman wants a divorce because her husband, she says, is lazy and worthless, and has forced her to move twenty-one times in four years. She is entitled to her divorce if her husband was lazy every time they moved.

A Connecticut farmer appeared in New York the other day saying that his wife is the missing Dorothy Arnold. He based his identification upon Dorothy's last picture, but his main reason seems to be that his wife is also missing.

A good many years ago, the Indians traded Manhattan Island to some palefaces for a keg of whisky and I opine that in exchange for that same keg of firewater today, said Indians could buy back not only the island but New York City as well.

A Kansas City girl wrote a prize poem in which she says: "The silvery river winding by the bright and cloud-flecked sky." The silvery river she mentions is in Missouri as it goes "winding by" the stockyards. That girl is a poet all right.

Two South Dakota Indians have gone to law over the ownership of a cow. The reason they took the matter into court probably is that neither will come out from behind the cow long enough to shoot it out, and the cow is worth $40.

The pleasure is worth it. There's no substitute for Camel quality and that mild, fragrant Camel blend.

The fellow who smokes Camels, wants Camels. That's because Camels have a smoothness, a fragrance and a mildness you can't get in another cigarette.

Don't let anyone tell you that any other cigarette at any price is so good as Camels.

Let your own taste be the judge. Try Camels for yourself. A few smooth, refreshing puffs and you'd walk a mile for a Camel, too.
