But she goes on to explain that the man who is making use of our cleaning, steaming and pressing services is keeping his clothes in much more presentable condition than when he got acquainted with us. And it doesn't cost much, either.

POLLARD RE-VIEWS PLIGHT OF FARMERS

CASS COUNTY MAN APPEARS BEFORE A CONGRESSIONAL COMMITTEE MONDAY

Washington, July 11.—Former Congressman E. M. Pollard, speaking for the National farmers' union, told the joint congressional committee of agricultural inquiry at the hearings today that thousands of farmers were going into bankruptcy simply because it was impossible to find the credit necessary to market their products. Mr. Pollard suggested that a broad and comprehensive system of international credit be established. He declared that Europe was not hopelessly bankrupt, and it was necessary for the United States to take a chance.

"We must dispose of our surplus products, and to do this it is necessary to give time credits," said Mr. Pollard. "I believe in the people of Europe. They are thrifty, industrious and will dig themselves out of their present condition if given the encouragement they ought to have."

Congressman Teneyck, a member of the committee from New York, said he quite agreed with the views of Mr. Pollard.

Chairman Sydney Anderson asked the Nebraska if he had any specific remedies to offer.

"I should think," said Mr. Pollard, "that it is the business of the committee to suggest the remedies. We farmers are here to give the evidence, to tell you what we know of our industry and to co-operate with you in every way. But you have access to all the official documents. You can compel the attendance of witnesses and can obtain information which is a closed book to the farmers."

The members said they were very anxious to discover the real cause of the present condition of agriculture.

Mr. Pollard heartily supported a statement by C. S. Barrett, president of the National farmers' union, that to get at the truth it will be necessary for the committee to investigate the chamber of commerce of the United States, the steel trust, the money trust, and all other great aggregations of capital that are in any way concerned with the distribution of farm products.

Cause of the Depression
Restriction of credit, decreased demand from European consumers and faulty distribution methods were given today by witnesses before a special joint commission of the house and senate as the principal causes of agricultural depression. Decreased credit was ascribed by C. S. Barrett, chairman of the national board of farm organizations, to operations of the federal reserve system in connection with "those of the steel, coal and money trusts." Mr. Barrett urged what he said was the declared association with them of the United States chamber of commerce.

Several witnesses proposed legislation to permit use of government funds to finance farm exports.

O. A. Thomas, a statistician for the national board, gave the committee a number of instances of increases in cost sustained by farm products as a result of the current methods of distribution. Wheat for a bushel of flour, he said, was purchased from the farmer for $5, from the miller for $9 and from the retail grocer for $25.

The commission was told by Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa, speaking for the National farmers' union, that profiteering by middlemen, speculative gambling, arbitrary restrictions of farm credits by federal reserve banks and "extraneous" railway rates and a breakdown of foreign markets were among the causes of present agricultural conditions.
