Wealth and Credit!

Banks do not create wealth or credit.

¶ Wealth is created by the hands and brain in the adaptation of the gifts of nature to human needs. Credit is based upon production and saving, both of which increase bank deposits. These bank deposits are used by the bank as a basis of credit.

¶ It will take some time to create the wealth that was destroyed by the war. There is only one sure way to correct our financial ills, and that is to work and save.

PROF. C. J. BUDLONG, Manchester, N. H.

"I am in good health for the first time in thirty years and I give Tan-lac the entire credit," said Professor C. J. Budlong, well-known and highly respected citizen of Manchester, N. H., living at 42 School street.
"From the time I was a boy I couldn't sit down and eat a meal without being in misery afterwards from indigestion. During all these years I was afflicted with rheumatism, too. It was all over my body, but especially bad in my feet and legs and at times I couldn't get from my bed to my chair without help. I was almost a nervous wreck from all these years of suffering and could not get half of my work. I hoped for nothing more than temporary benefit from Tanlac, as I believed it impossible for any medicine to give me entire relief, but this is exactly what Tanlac has done.
"For the first time since I can remember, I eat anything I want and digest it without trouble. I haven't an ache or a pain and have put on eighteen pounds in weight. I just feel good all over and enjoy life as I never did before. Having put Tanlac to the test I do not hesitate to say that it is the greatest medicine of the age for stomach trouble and rheumatism."

RAILROADS TO COMBAT TRUCK COMPETITION

PLANS IN EAST BEING FORMULATED TO DELIVER GOODS TO DOORS OF SHIPPERS

Store room delivery by freight carriers to offset competition of motor trucks, to relieve the jam at inadequate terminals, and give better service to merchants is receiving much consideration in the east. The Dry Goods Economicists says of the discussion: The idea is that instead of each individual concern sending its own trucks to the railroad freight station to obtain goods purchased by the concern as assigned to it, or hiring a truck for that purpose, the goods should be delivered to the store door by the railroad or by some agency working in connection with the railroad.

A store delivery system would also include the collection of cases and other packages which are to be shipped by the railroad. For the sake of brevity, however, the system is usually referred to as store door delivery.
Under the present method serious delays occur in the taking away of shipments from the railroad freight stations. Such delays may arise from lapse of time between the arrival of the goods at the terminal and the receipt by the owner of the goods being at the station. Or delay may be due to laxity on the part of the owner or consignee.

In larger centers delays are the rule because of congestion at the freight station. This congestion is due, in part to the great number of trucks sent for goods arriving at a freight station. When each individual owner or consignee sends his own truck for the goods or hires a truckman for the purpose seldom does the driver pick up a full load. Not infrequently the congestion is so great that trucks cannot reach the loading platform.

This condition is a serious one for the merchant, because of the delay in merchandise. There is every reason to believe that were a store door delivery system in force in all of the larger centers the increase of railroad terminal facilities, regarded as essential under the present conditions, would be unnecessary.

According to A. E. Beck, traffic manager of the Merchant's and Manufacturers' association of Baltimore and a member of the transportation committee of the federal highway council, a store door collection system was operated in Baltimore by the Philadelphia, Baltimore & Washington railroad and was continued by the Pennsylvania railroad after the first named railroad had become a part of the latter's system. In 1886 the Baltimore & Ohio railroad established a similar service in Baltimore and in Washington.

Petitions alleging discrimination and filed with the interstate commerce commission by citizens located just outside the Washington delivery limit were the primary cause of the withdrawal of the store door delivery service in that city. It was discontinued in Baltimore because the commission ruled that if such service was rendered in the one city it must be continued in the other. The desire evinced for the service was proof of the efficiency of the system, no question as to its merits ever raised. At the time of the controversy the store door delivery had gone far to offset the inadequacy of carrier's terminals in Baltimore and in Washington.

WEeping WATER IS VICTOR OVER EAGLE

Exciting Contest at Eagle Results in Victory For the Weeping Water Team. Score 5 to 1

Thirsting for revenge for their previous defeat at Weeping Water by the score of 5 to 0, the Weeping Water baseball team yesterday journeyed out to Eagle and cleaned up on that place by the score of 5 to 1.

The contest was largely a pitcher's battle between Burgmaster and Trumble as the Weeping Water mound artist struck out ten while the Eagle star struck seven of the visitors during the battle. Ed Graddock of this city did the backstopping for Weeping Water and Crabtree for the Eagle team.

The game was largely attended and the utmost enthusiasm shown by both of the cities in their teams success. The Weeping Water team secured three of their runs in the opening inning. Earnest Trumble secured a three bagger off of his opponent which was the longest hit of the contest.

This is one game piece for the teams and the final game to settle the question of superiority will be one that will attract much attention as the two teams are both playing good ball.
