The least Gov. Small can do is move out of Abe Lincoln's old town.

Speaking of biting the hand that feeds you, the mosquito is a shining example.

Japan used to have laws deciding how its inhabitants could dress, eat and travel.

A Kansas educator says hard times are filling the colleges this year. And the motor cars.

Some girls are born beautiful, while others have beauty thrust upon them by the society editor.

What this country needs is a quantity production of alibis that will bring them within reach of all.

Our idea of conspicuousness at a swimming pool would be for a lady to come in with her clothes on.

Probably the greatest advantage of living in the tropics is that you wear your night shirt in the daytime.

The Greeks may have beaten the Turks in battle, but the Turks seem to have beaten the Greeks in a foot-race.

Of course Charlie Chaplin gets a somewhat larger salary than we do, but we wear much nicer shoes than he does.

Olgo Nethersole's candidacy for a seat in parliament may be the result of her search for a show that will draw.

From the chain of letters now beginning to appear in print, Mrs. Obenchain's past threatens to become an open book.

The report that the Serbians and Albanians are fighting again shows that the Balkans have got back to normalcy anyway.

The irritating thing about roasting Woodrow Wilson is that America's greatest statesman doesn't even seem to notice it.

If it's true that Bill Haywood is in a Russian jail maybe he prefers it to Leavenworth. Mr. Haywood always did have queer tastes.

The unfortunate financial experience of Sergeant Alvin York proves that the path of glory does not always lead to the grave.

Here's Judge Landis talking to building tradesmen about square deals, and honest "give and take" in business, as though those matters hadn't been settled months ago. Doesn't the judge know that bobbed hair is the great moral issue in this country now?

A doctor announces that ether will cure hiccoughs, but on the matter of starting them the medical fraternity is as silent as Volstead.

A large number of vessels have been wrecked on the Pacific coast recently. What's the matter with that ocean? Is the water getting lower.

The price of lemons this summer has made most folks glad the winter egg supply is not furnished by any California Hen-Fruit Growers' Association.

A new idea has just struck us. When Jack and Jill went up the hill they found a moonshine still, drank their fill, and—Oh, well, you know the rest of the story.

The comptroller of Illinois complains that too many banks are being started. It is the banks that stop; not the ones that start, from which trouble always comes.

Ordinarily, we have no respect for the new Ku-Klux-Klan, but we ought to have an organization of that sort to deal with the man who puts sugar on his cantaloupe.

Before wondering why a beautiful girl marries some frog-faced rummy of a man, one should consult the statistics showing the scarcity of meal tickets in this country.

There's at least one consoling feature about this unemployment problem. It has caused a lot of women to go back to school teaching, where they are so badly needed.

Secretary Mellon's 3-cent postage plan has practically been abandoned, so you may write as many protests as you wish against whatever tax plan ensues, at the same old price.

If Thomas A. Edison had propounded his famous questionnaire to Henry Ford while they were together on a camping trip the situation would have been very embarrassing.

If you want to get a good idea of what a futuristic landscape looks like, examine a pillow that has been used by some girl who forgot to scrape off the complexion at night.

The best example we can cite of pitiless publicity is a bowlegged girl, with soup-bone ankles, short skirts and rolled-down stockings, trying to go down the street on a windy day.

The house ways and means committee has decided to put a tax of $3 on lounging robes. It won't raise much money that way. There's mighty little lounging being done in the country these days, and those who are doing it don't wear robes.

Dry cleaning makes his suits spic and span according to Dainty Dorothy

"It don't take a man long to bag his pants at the knees, and to make a finely tailored suit look thoroughly disreputable—that's the man of it," avers Dainty Dorothy.

But she goes on to explain that the man who is making use of our cleaning, steaming and pressing services is keeping his clothes in much more presentable condition than when he got acquainted with us. And it doesn't cost much, either.

DEATH CALLS MRS. ESTELLA NIPPS

The sad news has been received here by Mrs. F. E. Wood of the death of her mother, Mrs. Estella Nipps, at Formosa, Kansas, where she was staying with another daughter.

Grandma Nipps was a frequent visitor here at the home of her daughter and had endeavored herself to all who had had the pleasure of knowing her. Estelle Carrie Andrews was born at Goshen, Ohio, July 4th, 1852. She was married to Franklin Jennings June 16, 1877 at Wayne county, Ia., and at once they moved to Jewell county, Kansas and settled on the homestead that they had taken up. To this union five children were born, four daughters and one son, all living except one daughter, who died in infancy. On July 23, 1891, the husband died leaving the mother with the family to raise amid the hardships of the early Kansas days.

On August 26, 1894 she married Richard W. Nipps and in January 1916 he died, since that time she has made her home with the children.

She leaves to mourn her death four children: B. A. Jennings, Denton, Nebraska; Mrs. Bessie Wood, Nehawka, Nebraska; Mrs. Nina Walker, Formosa, Kansas; Mrs. Alice Wilson, Kensington, Kansas and also five grandchildren.

She was laid to rest within sight of the old homestead, where she had spent the greater portion of her life.

YOUNG PEOPLE ARE MARRIED AT LINCOLN

Miss Belle Speck of This City and Mr. Noel B. Seney of Clearwater Joined in Wedlock

From Saturday's Daily.
This afternoon at the First Christian church of Lincoln, occurred the marriage of Miss Isabel Catherine Speck of this city and Mr. Noel B. Seney of Clearwater, Nebraska.

The ceremony was very quiet, only a few of the relatives and close intimate friends of the contracting parties being present to witness the marriage. The bride couple were attended by Mr. Harry Speck, as the best man and Miss Hilda Brinkman as bridesmaid.

The newly weds will leave at once for a visit of some duration at Oklahoma City, Okla., where the parents of the groom reside and will then return to Clearwater where they are to make their future home.

The bride is one of the popular young ladies of this city where she has grown to womanhood and has been in the employ of the Burlington here in the offices superintendent for sometime past. A lady of more than usual charm of disposition, she has won a host of friends in the old home who join in wishing her much happiness in her new home. The groom is superintendent of the public schools at Clearwater and a young man of the highest standing in the community in which he has made his home for a number of years.

CASS CO. FARM BUREAU NOTES

To Stop Washing of Land

Soil erosion is one of the biggest agricultural problems in southeastern Nebraska. Scores of farms that were about perfect fifteen or twenty years ago now have big ditches washed through them, some of them impassible. The College Extension service has begun a series of demonstrations to show what can be done to check ditch-making and to encourage farmers to save their land.

On one Otoe county farm twenty-nine brush dams were constructed 75 feet apart along a ditch three to five feet deep. The brush was staked down and tied with wire. Present indications point to a successful piece of work, and the owner of the land has written a letter of appreciation to the college. In some places concrete dams have been constructed with indications of success.

The college's plan is to make a practical demonstration on at least one farm in each county as to what can be done with brush or other material to stop the ever-growing ditches. This work is now being taken up in Cass county.

Held Successful Meeting

The first of a series of community meetings on "Standards to Work for in Household Exhibits" at the county fair, was held at Alto Tuesday afternoon. The ladies had a very nice exhibit of household products. The County Home Agent scored each product and showed good and bad points in each article by way of comparison. The ladies felt that the meeting was worth while. We want to get everyone interested in our county fair and at the same time give the women a better idea of what the judge considers a good product. Everybody get together and boost for our county fair.

Helping Hand Society

The Helping Hand society of Weeping Water held an interesting meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. A. Worman. About thirty ladies were present and spent the afternoon making quilts. The County Home Agent was invited to talk to the ladies about the work of the home agent. The ladies voted to hold a meeting on "Standards for County and State Fair Exhibits" in the near future. Miss Matilda Peters was elected project leader for the cooking exhibits and Miss Philis Allgoy project leader for fancy work. At the close of the meeting the hostess served dainty refreshments.

Dress Form Demonstration

A dress form demonstration was given at the home of Mrs. C. C. Giles at Nehawka Wednesday afternoon. About fifteen ladies were present. After finishing the work, the hostess served delicious watermelon and oatmeal cookies.

Everything for QUALITY —nothing for show

THAT'S OUR IDEA in making CAMELS—the Quality Cigarette.

Why, just buy Camels and look at the package! It's the best packing science has devised to keep cigarettes fresh and full flavored for your taste. Heavy paper outside—secure foil wrapping inside and the revenue stamp over the end to seal the package and keep it air-tight.

And note this! There's nothing flashy about the Camel package. No extra wrappings that do not improve the smoke. Not a cent of needless expense that must come out of the quality of the tobacco.

Camels wonderful and exclusive Quality wins on merit alone.

Because, men smoke Camels who want the taste and fragrance of the finest tobaccos, expertly blended. Men smoke Camels for Camels smooth, refreshing mildness and their freedom from cigarette aftertaste.

Camels are made for men who think for themselves.

Better paint for less money

PEOPLE who know good paint wonder how we can sell such extra high-grade paint as Certain-teed for such reasonable prices.

Very simple! The Certain-teed business is enormous. Besides paint and varnish, they make the well known Certain-teed Roofing and Linoleums. They are not wholly dependent on paint profits. Therefore, they can afford to make a very small profit on everything they make.

Each color is priced according to what it cost to make that particular color. This means that all colors are cheaper than other high grade paints, and many colors very much cheaper.

You can't buy better paint than Certain-teed. It is made only from the highest grade materials. The formula is printed on every can. You will find that Certain-teed paint spreads better and lasts longer than ordinary paints. We have the right Certain-teed Paint or Varnish for everything inside and outside your house. See us before you paint.
