See America thirst! Worry interferes with sleep. Quit it! There is a time when everything we do is easy. Jews usually start as a peddler with practically no capital. He, who, by his wits would thrive must either bust or advertise. Charity begins at home but is much improved by a trip abroad. All kinds of work, physical or mental, pleasant, causes fatigue. At last the wave of depression begins to look like a farewell wave. The banana supplies are reported plentiful with only a fair demand. To achieve disarmament, build battleships by popular subscription. Our appendix may be useless to us, but see what it does for the doctors. Bobbed hair is easy to comb and doesn't catch on a man's coat buttons. The American held for ransom of only 15,000 Mexican pesos must feel cheap. The meek may inherit the earth, but that's the only way they will get it. Thank goodness, all would-be movie actresses haven't the face to try it. Either admit reporters to the disarmament party or have a woman delegate. Man may return to dust—but his wife knew he never does it around the house. Judging from the way some people save for a rainy day, they expect a 40-day flood. Two pints make a quart unless they're home-brew, and then they make a fight. "Our soap goes further," says an advertisement. With modern styles, all soap does. Maxim says he discovered relatives. Must have been wearing one of his silencers. The mother of 12 boys has been struck by lightning. Needless to say, she will recover. Congress decides home brew is all right. Congress hasn't tasted Plattsmouth made. Cold weather is just around the corner. Careful buyers, take warning and order your coal. Africa will soon be in tune with the rest of the world. Player pianos are being sold there. During the last ten years the number of women wage earners has increased fifty per cent. The trouble with America's divorce from European affairs is we can't get allied money. Some of the biggest fish are still in the sea; but others are spending their vacations elsewhere. Milk is being made from oats, peanuts and water. Oats and peanuts are the new ingredients. Next season's wedding dresses, we understand, will include pistol pockets and ammunition belts. Our idea of luck is to have Congress unable to return from its vacation because of railroad fares. If every laugh is worth a thousand dollars, we are wondering how much a man gets for a grouch. No matter how simple a task may be, a certain amount of brain work is required for its performance. The sad part about these one-piece bathing suits is they are not big enough for winter underwear. There were 61,859,900,000 cigarettes sold last year, and still some fellows seemed always "just out." New York is on the brink of the perilous error of counting her major league pennants before they hatch.

Let you plumbers going to their twentieth convention will forget something and have to go back for it. The recess will give the congressmen a chance to cool off. And it will be the exact right time for the constituent to warm up. The present famine in Russia, endangering the lives of millions, was predicted from some source as early as last May before there were any drouth possibilities. The fact is, that constitutional amendment requiring at least half of every world's series to be played in New York never has been ratified either in Pennsylvania or in Ohio. LODGE'S CHICKENS Senator Lodge is right in saying that reduction in military or naval expenditures by the United States is, under present conditions, perilous to the country. His statement on this subject coincides precisely with that of former Secretary of the Navy Daniels, who, in testimony before the Naval Committee last winter, warned Congress that in case America remains outside the League of Nations, it is the imperative duty of this nation to have the greatest navy in the world. Senator Lodge is thus hoisted by his own petard, compelled as he is now to recognize that this madness in keeping the United States out of the League has forced upon the debt-burdened American people continuation and increase of present staggering burdens resulting from necessary military and naval armament. The Lodge policy has made of the United States little less than an Ishmaelite among nations. The pending tariff bill as well as the Emergency tariff now in effect gives the finishing touch to the policy of isolation that has increased the army of unemployed, cut down exports to foreign countries and foreign imports to this country and spread industrial depression from coast to coast. It is idle in Senator Lodge or any of his associates who wrought this work of assassination of the country's industry and commerce to set up this belated plea in defense of maintaining existing armament on the present scale. Every one knows that so long as the folly that he fathered persists in the Washington government, the nation must have armament in constantly increasing magnitude. Paradoxical though it may seem this increased armament is slaying the thing it feeds on. The more money required by this policy, the longer will be continued the present depressed conditions, which Senator Lodge, in his speech in the Senate recently stressed. FAMILY NOTABLE IN POLICE WORK

Three Generations of the Hyers Family Have Served the People of State in Last 50 Years. The record of the Hyers family in Nebraska embraces the story of fifty years of service as law enforcement officials from Ruben W. Hyers down to the grandson, "Bud" Hyers, who is just branching into this line of work. In speaking of the matter the Omaha Bee has the following interesting account of the work of this notable family: "Yesterday it was Reuben Hyers, sheriff of Cass county, a horseman who rode hard and fast after cattle rustlers and other criminals of the day. Later it was Reuben Hyers, warden of the state penitentiary, deputy warden and turnkey. Right now, Reuben Hyers, 79, bald and heavy, is keeping pace with men in their 20s in guarding prisoners at the Greenwood convict road camp. Gus Now Leader "More recently it has been Gus Hyers, 47, sheriff of Lancaster county, who, as former Chief of Police of South Omaha, motor car, captured the gang who, under the leadership of "Shorty" Gray, shot their way out of the state penitentiary. Now it is State Sheriff Gus Hyers, chosen by Governor McKelvie, organizer of Nebraska's state police force, who, in power, motor car, chases jailbreakers and criminals. "Tomorrow, it will be Bud Hyers, now 21, grandson and son, respectively of the former two, who, possibly, in an airplane, will do his bit to catch the convicted criminals. For Bud is proving that police officers, like poets, artists and other masters of arts and sciences, are born and not made. Wants Bud to Farm "Gus likes hair-raising experiences but he doesn't think much of a repetition of them by Bud. For four years Gus has dug down in his pockets and produced the coin which in another year will make Bud a graduated farmer from the state agricultural college. "It's a ——— of a job making a farmer out of that boy," Gus said the other day. "Not that Bud is antagonistic to the cows, chickens and swaying fields of golden grain. Bud loves all those things if he can pass them in a speedy motor car, in a chase after convicts, at the rate of 60 to 70 miles an hour. But when it comes to an intensive study of such things, Bud, to quote his father, 'isn't a success.' Always on the Job "Funniest thing about that boy," Gus said, "Never can find him when there are lessons to learn. When there is any excitement or long drives to make, there's Bud out in the car saying: "Where to, dad?" "Furthermore, Bud always weathers the verbal storm his presence attracts and he goes on. "When Gus was gone a couple of weeks ago looking for former Banker Claridge, two convicts escaped. It was Bud who led the chase after them, going at from 60 to 70 miles an hour. It was Hans Nielson, head of the state penitentiary system and veteran Omaha police officer, who in another car was trying to keep up with Bud. Nielson lost control of his machine and went over a 15-foot embankment. He is walking with a cane as a result. Airplane Offer Unsettled "It is Bud who wants to take advantage of the offer of W. B. Hughes, secretary of the Nebraska State Bankers' association, to give Gus an airplane. Gus is dubious about accepting the offer; Bud insists upon accepting it. "The controversy over the use of an airplane for state police duty is still on in the Hyers family."

PLAYGROUND OF THE LEGION

The plans are being materialized for the formation in this city of a chapter of the "Nationale La Societe des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux," which has in the last few months been gaining in popularity among the members of the American Legion. This organization is composed of men who are also members of the American Legion and the title is clearly understood by the service men who have had experience in France or any part of Europe during the late war. It is the playground of the service men and here they find the spirit of good humor and pleasure exemplified to its fullest. It has no dull moments and the initiatory ceremonies are such as to create the greatest of interest both for the initiated and those who are eye witnesses of the event. It is necessary to secure fifteen of the legion men to secure the charter and those who desire to recall memories of the chemin de fer have only to secure an application blank, fill it out and prepare to have one of the times of their lives. Raymond Larson is officiating as the chef de gare in getting the organization launched and will be glad to put anyone wise as to the order. For Sale: Burr oak fence posts and poles. Call M. G. Camels are made for Men who Think for Themselves

Such folks know real quality—and DEMAND it. They prefer Camels because Camels give them the smoothest, mellowest smoke they can buy—because they love the mild, rich flavor of choicest tobaccos, perfectly blended—and because Camels leave NO CIGARETTY AFTERTASTE. Like every man who does his own thinking, you want fine tobacco in your cigarettes. You'll find it in Camels. And, mind you, no flashy package just for show. No extra wrappers! No costly frills! These things don't improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. But QUALITY! Listen! That's CAMELS!

Dry cleaning makes his suits spic and span according to Dainty Dorothy. "It don't take a man long to back his pants at the knees, and to make a finely tailored suit look thoroughly disreputable—that's the man of it," avers Dainty Dorothy. But she goes on to explain that the man who is making use of our cleaning, steaming and pressing services is keeping his clothes in much more presentable condition than when he got acquainted with us. And it doesn't cost much, either. Goods Called for and Delivered FRED LUGSCH WE KNOW HOW PHONE 166 OPPOSITE JOURNAL OFFICE
