Entertained at Dinner

Last Sunday at their pleasant home just east of the Missouri Pacific station Mrs. and Mrs. A. Trent entertained for the day and at dinner Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hendricks and Andrew Campbell and wife. The day was very pleasantly spent at the Trent home and all enjoyed the excellent dinner which was served by Mrs. Trent.

Knew a Good Hog

Joseph Lidgett, who knows a hog and what one is worth, had pinned his faith to the Chester White and with careful breeding and care has made a worthwhile showing. He took ten of his herd to the state fair and brought home a first prize two taking second, three taking third, two the fourth, two the fifth and one the sixth. This is doing pretty well considering that the whole state in competition for these honors. He has some top spring hogs and engaged to sell a number of others.

Back at Work Again

H. L. Swanson, the genial agent of the Missouri Pacific at Union, who with his family has been visiting at Coshocton, Ohio where they visited his folks returned home last Saturday and to work Monday. The auditors of the railroad and express companies were both here and found everything in excellent shape under the management of Swanson and McCowen, who had charge during the absence of Mr. Swanson.

Visiting Her Sister

Mr. and Mrs. Wm Johnson, a former resident of Cass county, arrived Tuesday afternoon from his home at Exa Frans where he has been living, and is visiting at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. W. Berger. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will be remembered by the older citizens as having resided here years since.

Praise Plattsmouth Hospitality

Last Tuesday John Lidgett and wife, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Rider of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Taylor, Mesdames E. Frans, Olney Easer, Ivan Balfour, Belle Frans and Misses Elsie Taylor and Mary Becker went to Plattsmouth where they enjoyed a session of the Order of Eastern Star and which time Mrs. Exa Frans and W. A. Taylor and John Lidgett were introduced to the mysteries of the order. They were all loud in their praise of the Plattsmouth order and the fine manner in which they were treated.

To Make a Good Road

The farmers around the Lewiston church have become greatly dissatisfied with the road which leads to the outside world and after attempting in other ways to secure a passable road purchased a stump puller and will make a road which will be worth while connection then to Omaha-Kansas City road. This desire to have a road and the steps they are taking is very commendable and will sure result in securing one.

Built Bunks Themselves

Col. J. B. Seybold and son, Wm. were needing some feeding bunks for their cattle and not being able to find anyone to build them they purchased the materials and built them with the assistance of Warren Leonard.

Many Calls For Indemnity

The Farmers' Mutual Insurance Co. of which Mr. C. F. Harris is the secretary, have received many calls announcing damage from the storm of last Friday night caused by wind rain and water. The heaviest losses were Hans Hanson, L. G. Todd, Charles Frans, Chris Nutson, Mrs. Mary Schriver, Jacob Ehlers, Winfield Swan, Wm James and Joseph Everett.

Last Before Conference

The coming Sunday will be the last meeting of the year of the Methodist church before the annual conference there will be services in every department of the church. The Epworth League beginning at 6:45 and the evening services at 7:30 and other services at the regular time. While the church thinks well of their minister they are desirous of securing a resident minister believing he could do better work by reason of making his home here.

Some Rain

Last Friday evening and all night the rain poured in relentless torrents over Cass county and was in some instances accompanied by violent winds which did much damage as well as the high waters done much destruction. At the home of Hans Hansen the barn was destroyed and other outbuildings partly blown over and the roof was blown off the house. The house was nearly new and partly insured but the loss was great on the other buildings.

Other Places Got Water

At the home of John Armstrong Stephen Copenhaver and Blair Porter and other the cellars were filled with water and much damage resulted. The water getting into the home of Armstrong, while in his yard and leading to the railroad the water was deep enough to swim a horse.

Road Becomes a Ferry

Between the bridge near the pumping station and the railroad the water was from a few inches to several feet deep. One hundred cars had to be hauled the quarter of a mile by teams and a number of people among whom were Frank Anderson, Charles Hathaway Lennie Crawford and Ivan Balfour did a thriving business as ferrymen. At the home of G. W. Cheney the water was two feet higher than it had even been before. For fifty years a stable had stood on the place and never letting any water in until now when it showed two feet, higher than any previous mark.

Fifty Year Old Quilt

Charles L. Graves received a Log Cabin Quilt, which his mother made for him more than a half a century ago. The quilt has been in possession of Mrs. Mary Burnett for a number of years and when Mr. Graves visited his sister a short time ago Mrs. Burnett suggested he had better take it home. The quilt taken one back into history of the later sixties when we were just retaining our "normalcy" following the civil war.

Appointed as Administrator

A petition was filed in the county court last week asking the appointment of Geo. Everett as the executor of will of the late J. W. Taylor, which was witnessed when made about twenty years ago by Messrs. Earl Travis, W. A. Robertson and Geo. N. La Rue was appointed as the executor in the instrument but he had died a number of years ago.

Union Wins Second Game

The Union team stepped over to Nehawka last Sunday and there played a game with the Nehawka team which was attended by a goodly crowd of Nehawka people and some Union fans who accompanied the team. The result of the game being that Union won by the score of 13 to a bare 2 for Nehawka. Union is feeling pretty cheery over the matter and from the way they lambasted the pill probably they are justified.

THE LATEST NOVEL

The most pleasing novel of the year has been that of Harold Bell Wright in "Helen of the Old House," which has been published by the Appleton company and which is now on sale at the Journal office at $2.00 each. ### STOVES OF EVERY KIND

Heaters, ranges, oil stoves, gas stoves, oil heaters, laundry stoves, etc.

GHRIST & GHRIST,

Furniture Store. Plattsmouth.

Plattsmouth is not a slow town by any means, and we don't want to see it get that way, but we have nevertheless, some people who are too dilatory or lazy to work for their own interests as well as the city's. We have many up-to-date people, but what they do for the city, the dilatory ones get the benefit without costing them anything. That's not right. They don't even cut the weeds in and around their homes.

CONSTABLES SALE

DUST SHOWN TO BE BENEFACATOR

Bane of Housewife Plays Vital Part in Life.

CAUSE OF QUEER PHENOMENA

Dust Falls on the Ocean, Yellow Rains in the Yukon and Red Snows in Greenland and Other Arctic and Alpine Regions Among Peaks—Without Dust We Would Have No Rain and Coloring of Our Sunsets Would Be Almost Entirely Lost.

Washington, D. C.—"The falling of a thick coating of dust upon a steamer in the Yellow sea and the attendant darkening of the atmosphere so that sailing was difficult, recently reported in news dispatches, is not such an uncommon occurrence in that part of the world, or even in mid ocean," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from Washington, D. C. "Besides the dust fall on the ocean, which on the face of it seems a joke, there are sometimes yellow rains in the Yukon and red snows in Greenland and other arctic and alpine regions," the bulletin adds.

"The yellow rains, so called because the ground becomes covered with a peculiar fine yellow deposit, are usually found to be caused by the pollen of pine trees, growing miles and miles away, which is caught up by the winds and carried until their fury has abated, and then dropped. The 'red snow' seen in the arctic is made by a wind-blanced deposit of the mottled algae, Chlamydomonas, in the nuclei of which are red pigment spots. Other kinds of algae sometimes reproduce in such numbers that they form the greenish deposits seen in fresh water.

Beautiful Sunsets Due to Dust.

"Dust, however, that bane of the housekeeper and the curse of the automobile tourist, plays a vital part in our lives. Though it sometimes seems to suffocate us, without it we could have no rain, as the vapor would not condense and without its power of refraction our daylight would not be so bright, and the coloring of our sunsets would be almost entirely lost.

"The loess of northern China, a fine yellow powder brought by the winds from the desert regions beyond and deposited in places several hundred feet in thickness, has been tilted for thousands of years, without any artificial fertilization and without signs of exhaustion. Beds of volcanic dust are to be found in Kansas and Nebraska today, in some places as much as 30 feet in thickness, though there are no volcanoes in the past and none at present within hundreds of miles of the deposits. The wind is the culprit or benefactor.

"Steamers out in the middle of the Atlantic often have their sails reddened with dust blown from the Sahara, and sometimes the rains of southern Europe are colored by dust from the same source. In 1901 four days of March winds are believed to have spread over central Europe about 2,000,000 tons of Sahara dust, most of it falling south of the Alps, but some of it being carried as far as the Baltic sea.

"Wind-blown dust also gives rise to some interesting phenomena. When tall falls on glaciers or deposits of snow near the mountain tops, every little particle melts its way through the ice, sometimes several inches in depth, and if there are a great many of these 'dust wells' the mountain climber must watch his steps. Use was made of this knowledge by engineers in melting snows preliminary to the building of the New Bergen railway in southern Norway.

"No Mountain Peak Above 'Dust Zone.' "It is probable that no mountain top is high enough above the earth to be entirely free from some dust, especially that thrown out during volcanic eruptions. In a great explosion, such as that of Krakatoa in 1885, dust is shot into the upper atmosphere rather than picked up by it. Dust particles from Krakatoa traveled around the world, some of it completing its first trip in 15 days. Before this giant shook the world with its mighty upheaving were ignorant of the winds that prevailed at over ten miles above the earth's surface. The dust so colored these upper reaches that only scientists were able to trace upon their charts, and to tell us that mighty air streams are flowing 20 miles above our heads.

"Long before meteorologists realized the part played by the dust in the upper atmosphere following volcanic explosions, they recorded as phenomenal and inexplicable certain dense, dry fogs that neither abundant rains nor fierce winds drove away. Today we can easily explain that because we know that the 'fog' was really dust in the atmosphere high above the rain and wind clouds. In some places these 'fogs' made the sun invisible until it had risen high above the horizon and colored and reflected the light of the new moon until it appeared as bright as that of the full moon at midnight.

"Beneath the earth's surface the dust plays as fantastic a part as it does above its crust. In salines it increases inflammability and assists in explosion of gases which would otherwise be incombustible, probably acting in the same capacity as the catalytic agent in a chemical reaction."

It is in trying conditions like that related below by Mrs. Geo. L. North of Naples, N. Y. that proves the worth of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy. "Two years ago last summer," she says, "our little boy had dysentery. At that time we were living in the country eight miles from a doctor. Our son was taken ill suddenly and was about the sickest child I ever saw. He was in terrible pain all the time and passed from one convulsion into another. I sent my husband for a doctor and after he was gone thought of a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy in the cupboard. I gave him some of it and he began to improve at once. By the time the doctor arrived, he was out of danger."
