COMING WINTER WILL BE COLD

Scientist Makes Prediction After Study of Weather

WEATHER REPEATING ITSELF

Analysis of Data Covering Century Indicates We Are Now Experiencing Series of Alternations of Severe and Mild Winters—A Season Above or Below Normal in Temperature Likely to Be Followed by One to Three Just Like It.

Washington.—That next winter will be a cold one is the indication of weather data compiled by Dr. C. F. Brooks, formerly meteorologist of the weather bureau here, and now associate professor of meteorology and climatology at Clark university.

An analysis of the weather records of over a century indicates that we are now experiencing a series of alternations of severe and warm winters. Last fall, on the basis of his investigations, Doctor Brooks said that last winter would be warm. It was. And now he says that it is not unreasonable to expect that next winter will be a cold one, and that the winter of 1922-23 will be a warm one.

The weather seems to be repeating itself. The present series of sharply alternating winters began in 1917-18 with the cold weather of that year. The winter of 45 years before, 1872-73, inaugurated a series of winters that were severe, warm, severe, warm, etc., until 1882-83. And 113 years ago, indications from incompletely kept records are that the winter of 1804-5 began a similar series of alternations. Identical Preliminaries.

These two previous remarkable series of alternating cold and warm winters and the present one had almost identical preliminaries, Doctor Brooks has found. All three series were preceded by a few moderately mild winters, an ordinary or moderately cold winter, and then a severe winter, which opened the swings up and down in the winter temperature. The first of the moderate winters of the present series was 1913-14.

If the present surging of hot and cold winters is following the same pattern of the alternations of the seventies, it is expected that they will end with a severe winter in 1927-28.

Doctor Brooks' findings are based on weather records from New Bedford, Mass., New York, N. Y., Washington, D. C., Cincinnati, O., and Chicago, Ill., for the present series and the alternations of 35 years ago. The data of the series at the beginning of the century were obtained from records made at Cincinnati, O., and at New Haven, Conn.

They seem to hold for the whole world, however, as he has noted that when large changes between the characters of successive winters occur on one side of the Atlantic, large ones are usually occurring on the other side as well. Places as far separated as Paris and Washington show this connection.

Centers of Alternation.

"Such sequences of alternating cold and warmer winters were evidently the result of an oscillatory movement of the North Atlantic and North American 'grand centers of action of the atmosphere,'" Doctor Brooks says.

That the centers of action of the atmosphere, or the points of high and low pressure, should be intensively studied from winter to winter to allow successful forecasts of the characters of winters, is urged by Doctor Brooks.

In discussing the predictions of the familiar non-scientific weather prophets who periodically make long-range forecasts of the weather of the following winter, Doctor Brooks points out that American and European investigators seem to have established the fact that in ordinary times a season appreciably above or below normal in temperature is likely to be followed by one to three or more seasons having temperature departures in the same direction.

"Thus it may be that 'forecasters' of mild or cold winters who rely on some biological signs in autumn may justly claim more than chance success, though for reasons different from those commonly advanced," he declares. "Five out of the seven winter predictions which came to me last fall from newspapers east of the Mississippi river were to the effect that last winter would be mild, according to indications afforded by birds, worms, squirrels, muskrats, frogs, etc."

AID FOR WEATHER FORECASTS

Radio Meteorological Station to Be Established in Greenland.

The establishment of a meteorological station in Greenland, equipped with high-power radio, which has been planned by the Danish government and will be accomplished at an early date, will provide an important link between the weather observations of America and Europe.

The new station will be of untold value to weather forecasting in Europe, and may also aid the weather predictions of Canada and the United States. At present American observations cannot be used in Europe. The new station was recommended by the international commission for weather telegraphy which met in London last November.

ARBUCKLE ACCUSED BY CORONER'S JURY

Fourth Formal Charge Against Film Comedian For Actress' Death Urges Fullest Inquiry

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 14.—The coroner's jury returned a verdict today holding that Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress, came to her death thru peritonitis caused by rupture of an internal organ. Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle was held responsible by the jury for Miss Rappe's injury, and the district attorney was directed to conduct a full investigation of the matter.

The verdict charged Arbuckle with manslaughter, and directed that all official sources concerned conduct a full and exhaustive investigation. The jury held that Miss Rappe came to her death thru the application of force, "which we believe from the evidence was applied by Roscoe Arbuckle, and directed that he be charged with manslaughter."

"We recommend that the district attorney, chief of police, grand jury and prohibition officers take steps to prevent a further occurrence of such events so that San Francisco will not be rendered infamous of the debauchee and gangster."

Ben Boza, one of the nine jurors, returned a minority verdict in which he said that Miss Rappe's fatal injuries were caused by the application of some force, "but I am unable to say who applied it."

Arbuckle is Nervous
 Arbuckle, sensing the approach of a verdict today, was intensely nervous throughout most of the session, twisting and clutching his fingers and flushing deeply at times. The round boyish face was solemn and not at all smiling. Although apparently deeply meditated, he accepted the verdict with an attempt at composure and resignation.

Two charges of murder, one preferred by the police and the other by Mrs. Bambina Maude Delmont, friend of Miss Rappe, and two charges of manslaughter, one returned by the grand jury and the other by the coroner's jury, rest against Arbuckle.

The coroner's jury was out for more than three hours, and an examination of witnesses which started last Monday.

Betty Campbell, show girl, and said by the authorities to have been one of those in attendance at the Arbuckle party, was taken to the hall of justice today and questioned by District Attorney Brady, Robert T. McCormack, assistant United States attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecution here, started an investigation into the supposed presence of liquor at the party in Arbuckle's room Labor day. Arbuckle denied to prohibition officials yesterday that there was liquor at the party.

TO HEAR ALL PARTIES ON THE PACKERS' DECREE

Washington, D. C., Sept. 16.—Decision on the question of the government asking for a modification of the "big five" packers' decree in connection with the operation of transportation facilities will await a hearing to be given all the interested parties, it was said officially today at the department of justice.

On petition from western fruit interests the department has been considering applying to the district supreme court for a modification of the consent decree, under which the packers are to divorce themselves from their subsidiary properties, to enable them to continue the transportation of fruit commodities in their cars. Protests against the proposed modification was lodged with the department by the National Wholesale Grocers' association.

No date for the hearing has been set but it is understood that Attorney General Daugherty will give the matter his attention upon his return to Washington.

STATE FAIR REPORT READY IN TEN DAYS

Small Surplus will be Left after Bills for Running State Exposition Have All Been Settled.

No financial statement concerning the 1921 state fair has yet been made public by Secretary E. R. Danielson of the state fair board. He said that it will take ten days before the financial report is in shape for publication. He insisted that the report be not advanced far enough to completion to make any definite statement as to profit and loss.

He said that he and his assistant have been working long hours on the report in order to get it completed as soon as possible. He pointed out that the board will not be able to tell where it is at until all of the bills have been paid and the total receipts and expenses balanced.

Secretary Danielson has indicated that there will be a small surplus after all of the bills are paid, but he refuses to make any definite guess as to how much the profits or surplus will be. W. B. Banning, of Union, the treasurer of the board and a member of the board of managers, agrees with Secretary Danielson that the fair should show a small profit. It has been unofficially reported that the Nebraska state fair of 1921 was operated at much less expense than the fair of 1920, but the attendance of the former fair was approximately 45,000 less people. Secretary Danielson stated that in 1920 the profits were $36,000. Practically all of this surplus was put back in the buildings and grounds for upkeep and improvements.

"Keep on advertising in newspapers and everywhere else," J. E. Davidson, general manager of the Nebraska Power company, advised power and light company operators of the middle west last night at the Fontenelle hotel.

The Howell faction of the party will support Adam McMullen of Beatrice for governor, it was understood here today.

NEWS OF THE RAILROADS

New York, Sept. 14.—Directors of the Burlington railroad have paved the way for a final settlement of accounts with the government. At a meeting held in New York they authorized Claude G. Burnham, executive vice president, to enter into a contract with the United States railroad administration for a final settlement of the outstanding accounts from the period of government operation. This includes both the amounts due to the railroad and the money due the government from the carrier.

How much is involved is not stated by officials of the road, and it is not known whether an exact sum has been set as the basis for settlement. Details will be left to Vice President Burnham, the action of the directors being merely a formal step to give the officials authority to act.

In connection with the meeting of the directors it was learned that railroads of the Northwest, which include all the Hill lines, are profiting greatly by the movement of grain.

Ralph Budd, president of the Great Northern, who attended the meeting said that the movement of wheat on the Great Northern lines is now at its peak, and is forty days ahead of the normal movement. Other classes of traffic show some improvement, with the exception of ore, which is still well below normal. The wheat crop is about average.

The Burlington road is expected to set a new high mark for all history, in its August earnings. This is directly traceable to the heavy export movement of grain last month, which reached great proportions. In addition to the heavy traffic offered the Burlington officials established a high mark of operating efficiency during the movement and cut maintenance costs to the bone.
