Don't think that a man looks the right way every time his head is turned.

It was the design of the constitution that congress should be a legislative body.

Ku Klux Klanmen are advised that the place to wear nighties is in their own homes.

The recent cold snaps these few mornings, make one look after his last year's overcoat.

When death stares a man in the face and he lives to tell he spends a lot of time telling it.

If people would frankly admit their ignorance a lot of useless argument might be avoided.

As long as a man is able to keep out of a dentist's chair he may be able to suffer in silence.

In a manner of speaking, Armistice day this year will also be a kind of fire-prevention day.

Don't think because a cat looks the picture of innocence it is wise to leave it alone with the canary.

Usually people never get bored because they have seen too much, but because they have thought too little.

Lots of people think they have done their full duty when they have paid the war tax on the movie ticket.

Jack Frost has taken a very good time for his appearance, there is nothing of importance that he can injure.

Carl Wanderer went to the gallows singing a popular song and there is some doubt as to his sanity after all.

Short skirts not only allow more freedom of movement, but the girls who wear them don't have to chase a man nearly so far, either.

The morality clause in the movie contract for players, will bar the so-called libertine out of the plays that so many young, innocent girls are engaged.

That the only cure for unemployment is employment may not sound like a very profound observation, but it falls much more gently on the ears of many than to say the only cure for unemployment is work.

Some women are making progress in their ambition to secure "absolute equality with men" and to do everything they do. Woman witness in the Arbuckle case in San Francisco admitted that she had taken 10 drinks of whiskey that evening.

Dry cleaning makes best suits according to Dainty Dorothy

"It don't take a man long to bag his pants at the knees, and to make a finely tailored suit look thoroughly disreputable—that's the man of it," avers Dainty Dorothy.

But she goes on to explain that the man who is making use of our cleaning, steaming and pressing services is keeping his clothes in much more presentable condition than when he got acquainted with us. And it doesn't cost much, either.

FRED LUGSCH WE KNOW HOW PHONE 166

Taking babies to movies to make them stop crying doesn't seem to succeed.

An agricultural school is feeding cows sawdust. Thus producing more plank steak.

Three rousing cheers for this weather. It's the regular made-to-order variety.

Congressman don't spend as much time delivering their speeches as mail men do.

"The U. S. nickel is 75 per cent copper."—news item. Now what is a copper worth?

Never hit a man when he is down unless you are sure of your ability to keep him down.

Great Britain says she will make good the ZR-2. It should have been made good at first.

Lenine says he is tired of ruling Russia and wants to quit. That makes it unanimous.

It would help if vacationists were compelled to furnish affidavits with their picture post cards.

The mine workers decided at Indianapolis that what the country needs is another political party. And possibly a larger coal output.

Mr. Harding calls the big national debt our "war inheritance." So if it will make your taxes any easier, call them your inheritance tax.

Even in the movement for "beating our swords into plowshares," some nations want to do all the beating and to reserve for themselves the largest shares.

Billy Sunday, the noted evangelist, in his interview with Cecil B. DeMille, says he will oppose the censorship which some people are demanding for the movies.

What the Topeka Journal calls a sure sign of a hard winter: A. C. Townley, Non-Partisan League boss, is eager to go to jail and serve a sentence imposed a year ago.

If it is true that Mr. Arbuckle has refused to pay a lawyer a $50,000 fee it seems to show the movie millionaires believe that sudden riches are not good for people.

Well, if the Arbuckle exposure didn't take some of the movie aspirations out of some of our young folks, maybe the new "morality clause" in the movie contracts will.

One sign of a severe winter is that the birds and animals are said to be growing unusually heavy coats. This is also an indication of the superior resources of the so-called lower animals.

Congressman Herrick want a national law making it a crime for anyone to impersonate a king on the stage. The court fool is also a symbol of monarchy that Mr. Herrick seems to have overlooked.

It is feared the Oklahoma man's plan of granting divorce by clipping a coupon off the marriage certificate will never go into effect. American coupon clippers are a fairly restricted class at present and probably should not grow too swiftly.

Shipments of German toys are beginning to reach this country in anticipation of the peace on earth, good will toward men. A little hasty of the shippers, perhaps, seeing that peace is not yet ratified, but doubtless they figure it will be before Christmas.

"Five Millions Will Die in Russia This Winter," says a headline. The alarmist should be referred to the evangelist who has been running advertisements in western newspapers all summer under the heading: "Millions Now Living Will Never Die."

That disarmament conference won't be complete without a full representation from England.

Money goes a little further nowadays, but not quite far enough to reach from one payday to another.

A thrifty wife saves her own pocket money by taking her husband along when she goes shopping.

A Chicago man is in jail for stealing an airplane. Lighted dynamite wouldn't be safe in that town.

After a man has been married three of four years the Romeo and Juliet balcony scene makes him weary.

Japan announces its intention of treating China kindly. Perhaps China would prefer not to be treated at all.

To the confusion of faunal naturalists, the blind tiger and the blind pig are reckoned as belonging to the same family.

Considering how many men have axes to grind it is astonishing how few you can find who are willing to cut cord wood.

Jimmy Stillman has sailed for Europe and Fatty Arbuckle is out on bond. Both have now joined the ranks of has-beens.

The old-fashioned mother who used to make delicious hot biscuits now has a daughter who is an adept at making home brew.

It has just about reached the point in this country where nobody can enjoy hearing a public speaker unless he abuses something.

Cheer up, all good Democrats! Just about this time next year we will be preparing to give the Republicans one heluva wallop.

The embattled bards are advised to tune their harps to celebrate the conference on the limitation of armament—or to tune their harps, anyway.

The German mark has dropped to the point where it would hardly buy a chintzbug—and we don't attach much value to our chintzbugs, either.

Business is better in Nebraska because of better wheat prices, and also because there are a thousand other reasons why it ought to be better.

The German Reichstag ratified the peace treaty with the United States that it confirms our suspicion to the effect that we are getting the worst of it in that treaty.

"The present shortage of ministers is acute, critical and grave," according to a church conference report. But scarcely more acute, critical and grave than the shortage of synonyms.

If you can't speak a good word concerning Plattsmouth, keep your mouth shut. Remember that the devil was not thrown out of heaven until he commenced knocking his home town.

Anyway, you have to admire the unadulterated gall of those Chicago policemen in league with a rang of bootleggers who delivered large quantities of hooch in police patrol wagons.

A shipment of Argentine oranges sold in New York at two dollars per crate. It is now up to California and Florida to ask for a tariff that will prevent us from buying oranges for less than 5 cents apiece.

It is now a popular fad with the flappers to wear the pictures of their "steadies" on their shoe buckles. As a matter of fact, the only proper place for a woman to wear a man's picture is under her heel.

Collections of September 15th installments of the income tax amounted to half a billion dollars more than the estimate of Secretary Mellon, of the treasury department. Who said this country was busted?

Mischa Elman, the Russian violinist, says that the women of America are the most beautiful in the world. That's the trouble with those foreigners. They are always telling us something we already know.

When those foreign nations assemble for the disarmament conference, they ought to be required to leave their battleships and heavy artillery with Uncle Sam as collateral for the war loans they owe us.
