FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE DAILY JOURNAL

FIRST ISSUE PRINTED HERE NOV. 5, 1881--OFFICE IN COATES BLOCK.

From Wednesday's Daily. The fortieth anniversary of the Plattsmouth Journal as a daily publication occurs on Saturday, November 5th, as it was on that date in the year 1881 that the old fashioned George Washington handpress first printed this publication and was the first daily paper that the city had the honor of possessing.

Charles W. Sherman and John R. Howard were the publishers of the paper at that time and assisted in preparing the first edition for the press. At that time the office of the Journal was located in what is now the Coates block and occupied the rooms in the rear of the present Eagles lodge rooms. The office was one that had formerly been used by the Cass County Democrat, the Nebraska Watchman and the Enterprise, and part of the equipment of the pioneer papers was still in the office when Messrs. Sherman and Howard arrived to start up their paper. Among the other properties that were secured by the publishers was that of an old G. Washington hand press and this was the means of printing the paper for the first year and a half.

At the time of starting the paper, John W. Cutright was the city editor and prepared the copy for the first edition, while Messrs. Sherman and Howard, as well as the younger brother, Edgar Howard, were the compositors and George B. Mann, who is still with the Journal, also officiated in the printing of the first edition. Edgar Howard, who has since become one of the notable figures in the state history, ran the hand press on this eventful occasion and Mr. Mann did the rolling for him. Among those who were carrying papers at the time was Charles S. Sherman, now sporting editor of the Lincoln Daily Star, and son of the founder of the Journal.

Up to the time of the foundation of the Journal, the democrats of Cass county had felt the need of a strong paper and the announcement that there was to be a democratic daily in the city caused a great rejoicing among the followers of that political faith and on the night of printing the first edition the office was filled with a number of the leaders of the party, among whom were Judge A. W. Crites, who had been interested to a greater or less extent in the newspaper business in the county, and Peter Edward Ruffner, then as now, one of the staunch democrats of the county.

The Journal continued in their location in what was then the Fitzgerald block for a year and a half and then moved to the building that is now occupied by the Olson Photo Co. in order that they might have the advantage of the use of a cylinder press owned by Judge Crites, but circumstances forced a return of the office to the Coates block and the old hand press that continued in use until 1886 when the paper became flush and the plant was removed to the basement of the Shrewsbury building at the corner of Fifth and Main streets and continued there for a number of years, during the boom period in the city when O. H. Ballou erected the section of the city known as Mercerville, erected a power plant and electric light manufactory and installed electric cars in the city.

In the latter part of the nineties the paper did not enjoy its former success and in 1896 Mr. Sherman retired from the paper and it was sold to George B. Mann, who in turn leased it to Bart L. Kirkham and Frank E. Green and the office was located in the building now used by Bach & Libershal as a store room. In the year 1899 the plant was sold to Harry B. Groves and William Reed Dunroy and located in the building at the corner of Fourth and Main streets where the present Donat building stands and here it remained until fire damaged the building as well as the contents to such an extent that a move was necessary and the plant then owned by Germanine Towle was located in the building on Sixth street where the pop factory now operates and it was here that George B. Mann and William Kelly Fox established their offices in securing the paper in the year 1901. Messrs. Mann and Fox continued to operate the paper until 1902 when the plant was sold to Robert A. Bates and Thomas B. Bates, who operated it for a year and then Robert A. Bates became the sole owner of the paper and has continued so to the present time.

In the years intervening from the sale of the paper by Mr. Sherman, the daily had ceased to function regularly and it was not until 1905 when Mr. Bates started the present evening Journal that the daily enjoyed a continuous career. Since the securing of the plant by the present owner the equipment has undergone a revolution and modern printing machinery now replaces the old hand methods of the by-gone days and the plant which at the commencement of the career of the Journal represented only a few hundred dollars now can boast of a $20,000 equipment to handle the newspaper.

There are still many here who were present when the Daily Journal was first launched and they well recall the incidents connected with the event.

YOUNG MEN IN MIXUP

From Tuesday's Daily. Yesterday afternoon Judge Allen J. Beeson had before him James Zoubek, who was charged by the State of Nebraska with having assaulted and beaten Chester Taylor, a young man residing in the west portion of the city. The affair seemed to have developed from a long standing grudge between the defendant and Mr. Taylor dating back to the early part of the summer when Mr. Zoubek was involved in some trouble over a Ford car at Nebraska City and which in part he blamed on to Mr. Taylor. Sunday, it is claimed, the defendant came on to young Taylor near his home in the west part of the city and proceeded to do battle with the result that the law was called upon.

The court decided that the prisoner would have to satisfy the law and assessed a fine of $100 and costs but may make this lighter as the defendant has had little opportunity of working, since being released from the Otoe county jail.

VALUE OF SERIOUS THINKING.

A prominent American writer says: "Thirty minutes' earnest, serious thinking a day has made many a man rich." The man who keeps thinking and planning as he works cannot fail. Daily he grows better. And in many other aspects of life the importance of serious thinking is not less. Let us exemplify it: You are feeling symptoms of a stomach disorder. Your appetite is not good, you are troubled with gases in the stomach and with headaches, your work is poor because of mental fog appearing in the mid-morning or afternoon. If you think seriously, you will find that it is necessary to clean your intestines as soon as possible to eliminate all body poisons. By what means? Mr. Rubin Carter, from Beaver-Kills, Pa., gives the best answer in his letter of October 11, 1921. "Rubin's Bitter Wine is a wonderful medicine." Buy Rubin's Bitter Wine at your druggist or dealer in medicines and all your troubles will disappear.

MAKES GREAT TEAM

Ben Hankinson, the well known acrobat and tight wire performer, who has been on a tour of the central states has taken on a partner in his act in the person of his son, Nathan, who opens with the father this week at Bowling Green, Kentucky, for a tour of the southern states. Nathan does his act in the costume of a lady, and from the photos of the team shown in the show windows of the Therolf store he makes a very attractive lady. The two have appeared to some extent during the tour of Mr. Hankinson in Illinois this summer and Nathan will now be a regular feature of the act during the southern trip. Wherever they have appeared they have been given a great reception and won the warmest approval of all who have seen them.

THE SOCIAL WORKERS ENTERTAIN TEACHERS

Very Pleasant Social Event Held at Parlor of Methodist Church Yesterday Afternoon.

From Wednesday's Daily. The Social Workers of the Methodist church held a reception yesterday afternoon at the church parlors in honor of the members of the board of education and the teachers of the city schools and which was attended by practically all of the teaching force of the schools. To add to the pleasantness of the occasion the ladies had the parlors decorated very handsomely with the bright hued autumn leaves, bitter-sweets, cattails and chrysanthemums which made the room a bower of beauty and charm. The guests of the occasion were greeted by the reception committee composed of Mesdames J. E. Wiles, A. J. Beeson, E. H. Wescott, Hallie Perry and William Heinrich, and who had everyone entering thoroughly in the spirit of the "get together meeting" and was but a short time until the members of the party were well acquainted and having one of the times of their lives.

The ladies of the church have planned this event for some time to show to the teachers who come here strangers, that they are in the midst of friends and they succeeded most admirably at the social gathering yesterday and it certainly was most pleasant for the teachers as well as the members of the board of education.

During the afternoon the ladies served a most dainty two-course luncheon that aided in completing the delightful event.

No other phonograph can do it!

No other phonograph even dares the test which the New Edison underwent on Tuesday, October 25th, before a large audience at the Parme Theatre.

That fact is something for you to think about.

The test of comparison with living artists is the only phonograph test which means anything. It is the only way in which a phonograph can irrefutably prove its realism. It is the most drastic of all phonograph tests. To sustain it, requires absolutely perfect realism--nothing less.

On Tuesday, October 25th, the New Edison stood by Harvey Hindermeyer's side at the Parme Theatre. If you were there, you heard the living voice and the Re-Created voice brought into direct comparison. You know there was no difference between the two voices.

A similar test was made by the Dann instrumental trio with the same successful results.

By this wonderful performance, the New Edison has placed itself apart from all other phonographs and talking machines. It alone has sustained this drastic test. It alone has proved concretely and conclusively, that it gives you the living performances of great artists.

The NEW EDISON "The Phonograph with a Soul"

Any Official Laboratory Model you buy in our store will positively sustain the test made at the Parme Theatre. We will give you our guarantee to that effect.

Come in and hear this instrument in some further tests of realism. Learn that you can have an Official Laboratory Model of your own, on a very small cash outlay. We will make a gentleman's agreement with any music lover.
