WILL NOT ENFORCE NEW TAX LAW

DECISION OF STATE BOARD CONTINUES EXEMPTION GIVEN LODGES, HOSPITALS

WILL AWAIT COURT DECISION

Next Year Will Probably See Matter Reach More Definite Stage as Regards Controversy.

The state board of assessment has changed its mind and will not attempt this year to enforce the provisions of the new revenue law, S. F. 65, authorizing reassessment of property improperly omitted from the tax rolls. The board will not attempt to decide this year what property is taxable under the new constitution which says property used exclusively for religious, educational or charitable purposes and not used for profit or gain shall be exempt.

The action of the board attended at a meeting of the board attended by Governor McKelvie, Tax Commissioner W. H. Osborne, Secretary of State Amesbury and Auditor Marsh. The only absentee was Treasurer Dan B. Cropsey, who is ill in a hospital in Minnesota. Assistant Attorney General Mason Wheeler was present as counsel for the attorney general's office to advise the board in regard to legal questions before it.

The action of the board leaves probably $10,000,000 worth of property untaxed. It is made up largely of property devoted to lodge and fraternal organization work, hospitals owned by private persons and some partly supported by churches, also academies, colleges and parochial schools, business colleges in part, all property of Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. organizations, also property of the Knights of Columbus, and in one instance a so-called barber college.

The Central City College of Friends, the Hastings college and a Lutheran school at Sterling were among the educational institutions cited by the board early in November to appear and show cause why their property should not be taxed. Tax Commissioner Osborne notified seventeen hospitals they were exempt from taxation.

Some of the institutions cited to appear contended that the board has no jurisdiction to enforce the reassessment of property under the new methods described in S. F. 65, for the reason that this law, based on the constitution effective January 1, did not go into effect until July 28 or August 1, long after property was listed for taxation and equalized by county boards and the state board, and in fact it was not improperly omitted this year. Some of these institutions, such as the Boyles business college of Omaha, admitted it would be taxable next year, but that it was not taxable under the state law as it existed April 1.

The state board held meetings beginning November 3 and among those heard in protest were directors of the Odd Fellows home at York and the Omaha Scottish Rite. St. Elizabeth's hospital in Lincoln was not cited to appear for the reason that its property is now on the tax rolls of Lancaster county and a test suit is pending in the supreme court.

The House of the Good Shepherd of Omaha, which operates a laundry that competes on the market with privately owned laundries, was the subject of a protest from an organization of Omaha laundrymen. All institutions not taxed this year will remain untaxed until next year. The state board has not outlined what policy it will follow next year, but by that time there may be new court decisions which will settle some of the new questions. The meaning of the new constitution, "when such property is not owned or used for financial gain or profit to either the owner or user," used in relation to exemption of property from taxation will remain uninterpreted for the present.

The new method of reassessing the omitted property provided for in S. F. 65 was not intended by the legislature to be enforced this year. It is this provision which the state board now holds should not be enforced at this time. The board is given discretionary power under the law to say when it is to the best interests of the state to enforce this law. The joint committees of the house and senate which framed S. F. 65 announced during the winter that it was not intended the new methods of taxation should be effective this year, and for that reason it was not passed with an emergency clause.

The state board adopted a resolution Friday reciting the initiation of steps to enforce the law by the state tax commissioner and the board, closing with the expression: "Resolved, that it is the opinion of the board that the best interests of the taxpayers of this state are best subserved by foregoing the administration of this act until the year 1922."

It is said the board took into consideration the possibility of a multiplicity of suits which would follow an attempt to enforce the law this year.

Edward Vallery, wife and little son, departed on the early Burlington train today for Omaha to look after some matters of business.

THE RESULT OF A PHYSICIAN'S TEST IS CONCLUSIVE

On October 31, we received a letter from Tennessee. A physician who is there in high esteem made a test with Triner's Liniment and now writes: "I have tried Triner's Liniment on a boy suffering from sprains, strains, rheumatism or neuralgia, you will be surprised at the results. Keep it at home for such cases, and also ask your druggist or dealer in medicines not to be out of Triner's Bitter Wine. Authorities in many sections of the country look for the recovery of the stiff winter more severe than last year. Prophylaxis is the best thing. At the first sign of trouble look through your medicine chest whether Triner's Bitter Wine is on the shelf, because that is the very remedy that will bring you out of danger."

The members of Plattsmouth lodge No. 739, B. P. O. E., have decided to tender to the members of the Hugh Kearns Post No. 56, American Legion, and expression of their feeling of respect and honor to the men who bore arms for their country, and accordingly have invited the Legion members to be their guests at the club house on the evening of Tuesday, December 6th.

The teaching of true Americanism and the love and respect for the flag of our country are cardinal principles of the great fraternity of the Elks and, they, during the war, were very active as an organization in advancing the cause of the American Legion, both in the number of members and in the devotion to the welfare of the men in the fields, thru their various institutions. With this splendid record as an organization, the Plattsmouth lodge of the Elks have deemed it fitting and proper that they entertain in their own hospitable manner the boys who formerly served in the army or navy.

There will be a few short speeches by the members of the order and the service men and also a few songs to help the spirit of good fellowship and patriotism along and followed by a luncheon to the boys who were in service.

This is going to be a real event and every member of the Legion should be on hand to enjoy it as they will miss one of the times of their lives if they do not.

St. Louis Broker Counterfeits Issue of French Certificates in Effort to Recoup Losses.

St. Louis, Nov. 25.—G. V. Halliday, a broker, whose firm recently went into bankruptcy with liabilities listed over $140,000, confessed early today, according to the police, that he had counterfeited $1,500,000 in interim certificates upon the French government and that he had passed $63,000 worth of them on St. Louis banks in an effort to liquidate his losses.

Halliday said he had borrowed approximately $32,000 when he gave out $52,500 of the certificates, which in turn was secured by $43,000 in certificates.

At the present time Halliday is under seven indictments based on allegations that he had accepted money for securities and that he failed to deliver them.

The confession, as given out by police, in part states:

"I alone am guilty of the entire affair. Turner and Murphy, under arrest with me, are merely incidental figures in the case, and never had knowledge of my transactions. I had the bonds printed and thought it would be easy to include these in a $100,000,000 issue which J. P. Morgan & Co. had floated in June for the French government."

Police say Turner had the plate made for a border of the bonds at Halliday's suggestion and at a cost of $1,000. This plate was later used to make the certificates which Halliday floated.

The discovery of the forged certificates was made by a clerk in the Morgan firm's office, authorities say, and local federal agents were informed that a plate for the bonds had been made there.

The differences between the "pure" certificates and original are described as follows:

"Border too dark; number hand stamped in too light a color; those so far presented bear a water mark 'Stratford' instead of 'American Bank Note Company' bond and have a fac-simile signature instead of handwritten."

ELKS LODGE WILL ENTERTAIN LEGION

BOGUS BONDS FOR LARGE SUM PASSED

CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

From Saturday's Daily.

Last evening a large number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. John R. Stine joined in celebrating their most delightful anniversary of their seventh wedding anniversary. The evening was spent in games and at which much pleasure was derived and a dainty luncheon of ice cream, cake and coffee served that completed the evening of enjoyment.

CASS COUNTY BOY IS HIGHLY HONORED

Harry Knabe of Nehawka, Leaves Today for Chicago as Reward for Fine Hog Raising.

The extension department of the Nebraska state agricultural college at Lincoln a short time ago announced among the winners of the prizes in the pig club was a Cass county boy, Harry Knabe, of Nehawka, and a few days ago the department sent out to the fortunate young man as well as the county agent, Mr. Snipes, the following letter and the young man may well feel proud of the distinction that has come to him. L. R. Frisbie, who has had charge of the work of the boys and girls club, is the author of the letter:

"Allow me to congratulate you upon being the winner of Armour & Company's trip to the International Stock Show, for the highest ranking Pig Club member in Nebraska, for 1921. We think it is some distinction to be named as State Champion, for it has not only meant good returns, but has also meant a lot of hard work."

The Nebraska delegation will leave Lincoln, November 26, on Burlington No. 12, for the Chicago Show. In order that the group may all be together in the sleeping car between you and Chicago, we are making these reservations now for you, so we would suggest that you simply buy your ticket to Omaha or Lincoln, and transportation from there to Chicago will be taken care of previous to your arrival. Please let us know as soon as whether you will come to Lincoln or go on in to Omaha so that we can make your reservations from either point.

Mr. M. B. Posson will be in charge of the group on the trip, which assures you boys of a good chaperone and a very well timed trip. Please have an answer to this letter as soon as you receive it, stating as to whether you will be able to make this trip to Chicago. Of course, we know that you want to go, but some local conditions might arise whereby it would be impossible for you to go, upon which occasion the trip would be awarded to the next person in line for State Championship.

Again let us congratulate you on the honors won.

MADE A MISTAKE

From the title of this article one might judge it was the scorching criticism of a newspaper, but such is not the case, as our narrative deals not with newspapers, but the old fashioned base burner like father used to keep going in the good old winter time.

A few weeks ago when the interior of the basement of the Methodist church was being redecorated, the members of the Young Men's Bible class were put up against the proposition of how to heat their class room in a manner that would remove the suggestiveness of the architecture of the room so often possessed and it was first thought possible to have an extension made to the heating plant so that the class room might receive its share of warmth. This, however, was found impracticable and it was then decided to secure a base burner, one of the kind that is guaranteed to keep a good fire when it is warm weather. After a discussion of the matter in the church circles, one of the members of the congregation came forward and offered to donate a base burner if the boys would care to take it and have it fixed up. Sure, the class was delighted and the stove was duly installed, when it was then found that the doors were shy of the well known isinglass, which is such an important part of a base burner. To settle this matter one of the class members dashed into the breach and asked for the privilege of donating the transparent windows of the stove and his offer was accepted.

Now here is where the tragic developments take place, the young man labored long and faithfully in getting his part of the contract filled and the stove looked its best when the committee arrived to start the home fires burning. The match was touched to the kindling, the smoke arose and the soft crackling of the wood and the singlish setting of the coal gave token of the fact that there was soon to be one of the rosy and comfortable hard coal fires doing business in the class room, when suddenly, without warning, the supposed isinglass burst into flames and outflared than the committee could think of the stove was minus its once snappy looking transparencies and it was discovered that the young man who was to supply the isinglass had made a fatal mistake and had placed sheets of celluloid in the doors of the stove.

The committee will handle the stove entirely in the future and the person who offers to furnish any part of the stove will have to furnish bond that it will stand the test.

C. S. Johnson and Bert Coleman were among those going to Omaha this afternoon to visit for a few hours attending the Shrine there and were accompanied by Andy Moore, who is one of the chief factors in the ceremonial of this evening.

Many beautiful and inexpensive gifts such as aprons, towels, apparel for the baby, dolls and dolls' millinery can be found at the Fair to be held in the Presbyterian church parlors Friday evening, December 2.

CASS CO. FARM BUREAU NOTES

Farm Bureau Board Meets

The Farm Bureau board and precinct chairmen met at the Farm Bureau office November 22 and the following business was taken up:

Precinct Organization—It was left to a committee to work out a program or plan and the precinct chairman, home agent and county agent will carry this out in December and January. This plan will be published as soon as it is worked out.

The approval of the board was received on a plan of a circular letter and by the county newspapers to publish so all might see the work accomplished in each precinct.

The securing of a county agricultural agent was taken up and the board decided to retain the present agent L. R. Snipes for the year of 1922.

It was decided by the board that a budget should be made by a committee and same presented to the board which they did. The following budget was decided upon: Mr. Snipes, $125 a month, or $1,500 a year; Office help, $50 a month; Office supplies and rent, $120 a year; Printing, $85 a year; Express, telephone, telegraph, freight and stamps, $356 a year; Office equipment, $100; Traveling expenses, gas, oil, repairs, $600 a year and miscellaneous depreciation and payment on car, $400 a year. The county agricultural agent travels from 12,000 to 15,000 miles each year. From the above it will be seen that the total budget for the year is $3,750.

Dress Form Meetings

Tipton precinct held a very interesting meeting at the Eagle consolidated school. The ladies of this precinct are sure wide awake as proved by the good attendance and interest shown at the meeting. Thirty-three women were present and all of the Home Economics girls attended the meeting. The sewing room was turned over completely to the meeting and Miss Benson, the home economics teacher, was most interested in the work and assisted in every way to make the meeting a success. Mrs. J. A. Gardner is project leader for Tipton precinct with Mrs. West as assistant leader. Two forms were made and all arrangements were made for a meeting in the near future.

Short Cuts in Sewing

Miss Gladys Legg, clothing specialist from the Extension service, College of Agriculture, was in Cass county two days and helped show the women how to make their sewing easier by showing them how to use their sewing machine attachments. Many women we found failed to realize how valuable these sewing machine attachments are but at both meetings they voted to take up the work as a project and put into practice some of this valuable information gained from these demonstrations.

These demonstrations were given at the Mt. Pleasant club at the home of Mrs. Plybon and at Rock Bluff precinct at the home of Mrs. Cook. Many other precincts are planning to take up the course of short cuts in sewing at an early date.
