Hog Cholera

Hog Cholera is still spreading. 2 cases were reported near Nelawka. When ever you have a sick hog, isolate it and keep it away from the rest. Report it to the Farm Bureau or call a veterinarian and you may save the other hogs by doing so. Let us co-operate and save the hogs that are dying.

Short Cuts in Sewing

The women in Mt. Pleasant prefer to get up this second course in "Short Cuts in Sewing." They had a meeting November 8, 16 women were present and showed much interest in the work. Mrs. Will Carper is leader for this project. The women voted to send in their samples by January 15.

A Correction

We wish to correct the statement made in last week's paper. We said that Mrs. Will Carper was leader for the health work, instead Mrs. John Carper is leader of health work and Mrs. Will Carper leader of "Short Cuts in Sewing."

Dress Form Meeting

An interesting meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Albert Wetencamp, Thursday, Dec. 1. The women all showed much interest in the work. This precinct has voted to make 12 forms. 4 have been made so far and all indications show that they will probably go over the top as is being done in all precincts. Two forms were made at the meeting. The Ladies Aid Society also held a short business meeting. 50 women were present. At the close of the meeting Mrs. Wetencamp served delicious refreshments.

PACT ENDS IRISH FIGHT FOR LIBERTY

ERIN TO HAVE SAME CONSTITUTIONAL STATUS AS CANADA AND THE REST.

London, Dec. 6.—The centuries-old quarrel between England and Ireland was ended in the small hours of Tuesday morning by the signature in the premier's cabinet room of "a treaty between Great Britain and Ireland," consisting of eighteen articles, giving Ireland the title of "The Irish Free State" and the same constitutional status as Canada, Australia and other overseas dominions. The question of allegiance, which had threatened to wreck the negotiations, was surmounted by permitting members of the Irish parliament to swear allegiance to the constitution of the Irish Free State and "be faithful to his majesty, the king."

The treaty has to run the gauntlet of the Ulster government and of the imperial parliament, which has been summoned to meet December 14. Approval by parliament is a foregone conclusion. The position of Ulster is less certain. Evidence comes from Belfast that the treaty will be subjected to the most searching examination and many modifications may be proposed.

The king hastened to send the premier a telegram congratulating him on the success of the negotiations.

All Members Sign
The treaty was signed by all members of the British and Irish delegations participating, the Irish delegates signing their Gaelic names. Ireland is treated as a single entity in the treaty, with special clauses providing against the possibility that Ulster should refuse acquiescence in the settlement, in which case the government of Ireland act of 1920 will remain in force so far as the northern parliament is concerned, but with the stipulation that a special commission shall determine new boundaries for northern Ireland.

Revisions also are made for the co-operation of the two parliaments in providing certain safeguards in the event of Ulster remaining out of the free state. Neither parliament, however, will be permitted to make laws imposing any particular religious disabilities.

The treaty looks to Ireland, in the future, of undertaking its own coastal defense and provides that Ireland shall, during war, give the British forces necessary harbor and other facilities. The British recognize the Irish Free State's right to maintain its own military defense forces.

Lloyd George Congratulated
Premier Lloyd George is the recipient of universal congratulations for having successfully rescued the negotiations. The general belief, however, is that Lord Birkenhead is responsible for the formula overcoming the alliance difficulty.

Austen Chamberlain, leader of the government in the house, and the unionist party, speaking at Birmingham tonight, expressed the conviction that before Christmas peace and good will would be established.

Immediately after the signing of the treaty, which took place at 6:30 a. m., a messenger was started post-haste for Belfast, as Lloyd George had promised Sir James Craig, Ulster premier, that either new proposals would be in his hands by Tuesday or the negotiations would be finished.

VERY SUCCESSFUL DINNER

From Wednesday's Daily
Last evening Circle No. 2 of the Methodist ladies aid society held a very enjoyable as well as successful chicken pie supper at the church parlors and one that was largely attended. The guests soon made the array of the dainty chicken pie vanish as well as the many other good things to eat that had been prepared. The ladies also did a very thriving business in the sale of home-made candy and as a result of their efforts a very neat sum was realized for the church.

STATE SCHOOL LAND MAY BE AFFECTED

School Districts Share of Funds is Based Partly on Appraised Value of State Lands.

State Superintendent J. M. Matzen's office is charged with the duty of apportioning state school funds every six months. The last legislature passed H. R. 529 which prescribes a new method of distributing school funds. It is the same as the old law with the exception that from the total amount to be apportioned there must be deducted an amount equal to the taxes which state school lands would have to pay if they were taxable lands. After that is deducted the distribution is the same as under the old law. One-fourth of the remainder of the total fund is distributed in equal amounts to the counties of the state and the remaining three-fourths of the fund is distributed to counties on a basis of school population.

The provision in regard to an amount equal to the taxes that would be collected on state lands means that each school district containing school lands will receive from the state apportionment an amount equal to what the tax would be on state lands situated within that district. This change in the law was made to satisfy legislators who favored the sale of state lands so that such lands would be placed on the tax rolls and the local taxing district would get some benefit.

The task of working out the proper deduction from the state semi-annual apportionment of the distribution of this to the districts which contain school lands has fallen upon Deputy State John Speedie. He finds many difficulties in the way but hopes to make the apportionment by the third Monday in December as required by law. Another statutory provision in the law provides that the state treasurer need not compute the amount to be apportioned until the third Monday in January. It is said the treasurer will report the amount in December. The total is likely to be $450,000.

Mr. Speedie finds that the new law provides for a matter of time. It provides that the state treasurer need not compute the amount to be apportioned until the third Monday in January. It is said the treasurer will report the amount in December. The total is likely to be $450,000.

HARDING GIVES VETS SCANT ATTENTION

Message to Congress Has Little to Say About the Men Who Won the War.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Quick reaction to President Harding's message was evidenced today in the house during an afternoon of rambling debate.

Urging prompt passage of soldier bonus legislation Representative Galivan, democrat, Massachusetts, declared the "men who won the war received but scant attention" in the message.

Representative Huddleston, democrat, Alabama, asserted that the president in his attitude toward labor, had "learned nothing from the past," but "proposes to hold onto the old system, the old struggle between the employer and the man who works for him."

Representative Mondell, republican leader, was quick to reply, asserting that he had never heard so many "extravagant and misleading statements."

Mr. Mondell charged that the Alabama member had misrepresented the president's position and had made it appear that Mr. Harding had gone out of his way to express views unfavorable to labor.

Lauding the message generally as one of "conviction, and full of frankness and candor," Mr. Mondell said that throughout it ran a "spirit of cordial co-partnership and co-operation with congress."

While Representative Garrett, of Tennessee, acting democratic leader, did not discuss the message on the floor, in a formal statement he declared it was "wholly lacking in force" and that there was nothing of leadership or in the nature of an appealing call in it.

The president's attitude upon the question of giving the notice as to abrogation of commercial treaties required by the Jones shipping act, is "at once commendable and laughable," he said. "As a senator," he twice voted for those provisions. As a candidate for president, he did not hesitate to make insinuating criticism against Mr. Wilson because the latter stated he would not give the notice. As president, he acknowledged he was wrong in his action as senator and as content to be made Mr. Wilson's trustee."
