Box Cars Getting Tight
On account of the tightness of box cars the elevators are getting crowded and the Sturm & McCarthy elevator is filled to its capacity while there was on last Monday but little room in the Farmers' elevator. Corn has been a very produce considering the low price but while many would deliver their corn they cannot enjoy the opportunity on account of the scarcity of shipping facilities.

While in the field looking after the cattle a son of Luther Meade, ran upon a lot of stolen goods partially hid in straw in the field near the railroad north of Union. The authorities were notified and the sheriff came down for the goods and found between 71 and 100 boxes of cigars and eight pairs of shoes, besides other things in all approximating between $400 and $500. From the markings on some of the goods they were supposed to have been shipped from Omaha to some point in Kansas. They were evidently thrown from the cars and then secreted in the straw to be gotten later.

He Would Not Lead the Singing
While Frank Eaton is a good worker in the church and bible school he objects to going away from home and leading in the singing. He with Rev. W. A. Taylor was conducting a revival at a school house just over the river and was informed that he must lead in the singing. While not flatteringly refusing to do the work assigned, he had a few chills caused by stage fright to do the work but when the time came a lady living near the place volunteered to look after the music. Do you read only the front page of the newspaper and never the other side? You do not. But do you hear but one side of a matter relating to your child's difficulties in school and not turn the case over to see what is on the other side? There are two sides to every question and it takes the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, to place a matter in its true light. The teachers are glad to explain matters that may not seem just right to you. Whenever you hear that any seemingly unusual thing has been done, there are undoubtedly other facts bearing upon the case which if you but knew would no longer make the first report seem unusual or unreasonable. In most cases you'll find that back of what you have heard "there's a reason" and a very good one. Find out what it is. You should know.

MANUFACTURERS TO PUSH ADVERTISING
Nebraska Association to Back Constructive Advertising Methods to Combat National.

Pushing the sale of home made goods thru constructive advertising is the slogan of the Nebraska Manufacturers' association which opened its ninth annual convention in Lincoln Monday morning. The Nebraska manufacturers will get in the field and combat national advertising campaign which have taken many dollars out of the state. To do this successfully they will push intensive constructive advertising.

Along constructive lines, C. E. Corey president of the Omaha Manufacturers' association talked on "Nebraska Made Goods." Mr. Corey told the manufacturers that they must do more advertising. He suggested that a committee be appointed to outline a plan of advertising and present it to the association for consideration.

Mr. Corey told of the success of the "Made in Omaha" campaign which was recently conducted by the manufacturers of that city. The entire outfitting of the Brandeis block was secured for the home show and 120 exhibitors were represented. It was estimated in the week in which it was held that 160,000 people visited it, and Mr. Corey said that it attracted great interest. As preliminaries to the show a week was devoted to newspaper advertising which included a house to house canvass, and one week devoted to window displays. The speaker stated that the time is now ripe for Nebraska manufacturers to go after the home business and meet the outside competition with the same modern advertising methods. He thought that too much of the advertising has been of the hit or miss kind. He pointed out that advertising constructively used is what the state manufacturers want.

President Corey presented some illuminating figures. In 1920 Omaha manufacturers goods valued at $74,000,000 and the payroll was approximately $35,000,000. He estimated that 28,000 persons, heads of families, are employed in the manufacturing industries of the metropolis and that over one-half of the population of the city depends on that industry for its livelihood.

Between one hundred and one hundred and twenty-five delegates were expected at the convention before the close of the annual banquet Monday evening at the chamber on commerce.

Speakers on the convention program were C. B. Stiver of Des Moines who was billed to talk on "An Explanation of the New Income Tax Law;" C. E. Corey president of the Omaha Manufacturers' association on "Nebraska Made Goods;" John E. Edgerly of Chicago, on "The Opportunities and Responsibilities of the American Manufacturer," and J. C. Adderley of Chicago.

The officers are: president, Chas. C. Smith, Exeter; vice presidents, J. W. Smithhart, Nebraska City; W. J. Monagan, Omaha; H. E. Gooch, Lincoln; and Edmund Simmons, Scottsbluff; secretary, John M. Silver, Superior; and treasurer, A. C. Scott, Omaha. The convention is being held at the Lincoln hotel.

BURGLARS SECURE BIG HAUL
The beautiful home of M. Fanger in Omaha was despoiled a few nights ago when the place was visited by burglars and as the result the owner is shy several thousand dollars of valuables. The midnight callers made away successfully with a number of valuable jewels including diamonds that were owned by the various members of the household as well as clothing, in which is included some expensive dresses and garments of Mrs. Fanger that will run the loss up to a large figure. Among the articles taken was the fine $1,000 coat that Mr. Fanger had purchased only a short time ago for his wife. As far as could be learned here none of the property has been recovered by the police.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY
Last Sunday being the seventy-fifth anniversary of the birth of Mrs. Catherine Perry, who resides west of Mynard, a number of her children and grandchildren assembled at her home to assist her in properly celebrating the event, and had a most enjoyable time.

An elegant dinner was spread at a noon hour which added to the pleasures of this perfect day. The centerpiece for the table was a large birthday cake which was baked by a daughter, Mrs. Barker, and on which were placed seventy-five small candles representing the age of this good woman. Another beautiful cake made by another daughter, Mrs. Cook, was decorated with the word, "Mother" and "75."

The day was one long to be remembered and as the guests departed for their homes all most heartily expressed the desire for many more happy recurrences of the day.

Those present on this happy occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Perry, and family, of Plattsmouth, Mr. and Mrs. Chas Perry and son, Orven of Malcolm, Mr. and Mrs. S. A.
