In the preliminary the Junior high school of this city played rings around the Louisville lads and the work of Charles Richards, Fred Rebal, captain of the locals, and Joe Schlater was particularly effective. Wray, Harold Draper, Herbert Meisinger and Raymond Smith was sent in and continued the work of defeating their opponents.

SEEKING COST OF ROAD CONSTRUCTION IN NEBRASKA

Special Committee Sends Blanks to County Clerks—Hopes to Get Data within Short Time

Blanks are being sent out from the state house to Nebraska county clerks calling for a report on road work. Along with these blanks a letter is enclosed stating that at the special session of the legislature a resolution adopted by the house and senate established a committee made up of the governor, attorney general and state auditor and one member from each branch of the legislature charged with making an investigation of the road and highway systems of the state for the purpose of ascertaining the comparative costs of construction of such roads by the counties and the state. The report of this committee is to be made to the next session of the legislature.

The attention of the county clerks is invited to the following: First—Such a comparison as contemplated by the resolution is impossible without complete data of the amounts expended by the various counties for road and highway purposes.

Second—The number of miles constructed and maintained by both the counties and the state is necessary.

The blank questionnaire is submitted to county clerks for the purpose of securing statistic desired. It is suggested that ten days is a sufficient time in which to secure the information asked for.

The statutes provide that each county shall keep a record of each road—its plat, expenses and charges made against that road. The counties are required to establish the office of county highway commissioner who shall keep a record of each bridge and road by number which shall show the cost of construction and maintenance.

The committee concludes that: "Assuming the county records have been kept according to law by the road overseers, by the county highway commissioner and by the county board, it ought to be readily possible to take each road number as set forth in the questionnaire, to transfer from your books the data called for by the questionnaire.

"If the county records or the highway commissioner or road overseers have not kept their records in conformity outlined in the sections of the statute above cited, you are requested to advise this committee to that effect, and if the information submitted from any other basis than a copy of your record, you are asked to advise the commission of that fact.

"The committee will be indeed grateful for your time and service in compiling this information and believe that the conclusions which it will be possible to form after a careful compilation of the information received from the various counties will be of great benefit to the people of the state during the next few years by enabling them to determine what is the most efficient, economical and desirable method of carrying on our program of highway construction.

The request for information is sent out from the office of the Attorney General, who is secretary of the committee. The blanks ask for a record of mileage, cost of construction and cost of maintenance of county roads, and the total expenditures for road purposes from all funds. The same information relating to bridges and culverts is asked for.

Your ad will carry punch if you write it as a plain "selling talk" instead of trying to fess it up with frills and exaggerations.
