At the Fathers and Sons banquet which was given as a community affair in the basement of the Baptist church, which is fitted for a banquet hall, there were some three quarters of a hundred of the banqueters in attendance. The occasion was one of the most enjoyable of the year, and the two generations in this great festival, not alone of the eats, but of the flow of soul which followed.

Mr. Rue Frans had been selected as the toastmaster and he made one in which no complaint could be entered, but one which with the sparkling repartee challenged each speaker to his best, and which was forthcoming. The first address was by the Rev. A. Miller and was in response to the query, "The church as a business proposition has been condemned. This was ably discussed. Then followed an address by W. H. Porter as to whether the church was an asset to a community. Ray Frans spoke to the proposition "The church as an educational feature." J. D. Cross, "A community does its best work through the church." W. B. Banning, "Character Building by the Young Men." There were other talks made by Professor C. E. Severn of the Union schools; Rev. W. Meets with Serious Accident

Last Saturday afternoon when Alton (Babe) Clarke, the 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark, of north of Union, was going to drive the cows to the barn, they being in the extreme northwest corner of the farm, the horse which he was riding while it was a gentle animal stumbled and crossing a row of corn and thus shook "Babe" from his back, and in attempting to recover itself, the horse stepped on the leg of the young man which had fallen so that the ankles and knees were higher than the middle of the leg between, and broke both bones of the leg and in two places, making a very serious compound fracture. The horse went to the barn and the young man had to remain where he had fallen until the father came for him. Mr. Clark tried to reach the wounded son by his wrists, where the son was injured, but on account of the condition of the field the car could not make it. Then Mr. Clark jumped out of the car and hastened to his son, carrying him to the car, when he was taken to the house. Dr. Gilmore, of Plattsmouth, was called and found very serious compound fracture. They reduced the fracture and the young man is getting along as well as could be expected from the nature of the injury. He is still suffering some incident to the broken bones, but the condition of the bones. It is hoped he will soon be able to be around again.

BEAUTIFUL HOME WEDDING IS HELD

Miss Pearl Murdoch and Mr. William Kruger Married at Home of Bride's Parents.

The marriage of two of the well known and highly esteemed young people of the vicinity of Nehawka occurred yesterday at high noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Murdoch, north of Nehawka. The contracting parties were Miss Pearl Murdoch and Mr. William Kruger, and the ceremony one of the most elaborate home weddings held in that locality for some time.

The parlors of the home were filled with a company of some forty or fifty of the relatives and close personal friends and the rooms were brightened by a very beautiful bridal arch of red and white streamers through which a strain of green was placed to add to the general beauty of the scene.

As the strains of the "Lohengrin" bridal chorus was sounded at the piano by Mrs. Parr Young, the bride party preceded by the Rev. John Simpkins, entered the parlors and took their station beneath the beautiful arch where the words that made them as one were pronounced by the pastor. The bride was gownned most fittingly in a costume of blue tulle, with sash, and covered with gold embroidery, making a very charming wedding gown, and carried a shower bouquet of roses. She was attended by Miss Tessie Philpot as bridesmaid, who was very charming in a dark tailored traveling suit.

The groom was attended by Guy Murdoch, brother of the bride, as best man and both of the gentlemen were garbed in the conventional dark suits.

After the marriage ceremony the wedding party was ushered into the dining room where a sumptuous dinner was served, a number of ladies assisting Mrs. Murdoch in serving. One of the features of the luncheon was the huge wedding cake, which following long custom was cut by the bride and distributed to the members of the party attending the ceremony.

To the newly weds will be extended the best wishes of a host of friends over Cass county and among whom the Journal is pleased to be numbered.

Both of the newly weds are well known to a large circle of friends, the bride having been reared to womanhood in the vicinity of where she will make her home and is a lady universally loved and esteemed by all who know her. The groom is one of the industrious young farmers of that locality and is also a former service man, having served through the world war with the troops from Nebraska.

REPUBLICAN LEADERS PLAN TO PUSH BONUS

G. O. P. SPOKESMEN WILL TAKE CHANCE ON PASSING IT OVER A VETO.

Washington, Feb. 26.—Republican leaders in congress have decided to take the bit in their teeth on the soldiers' bonus issue and to force a bill through that will meet the obligation to the soldiers.

The sales tax as a means of raising revenue has been abandoned. The president said that was the only available means of revenue to justify the soldiers' compensation bill at this time. Therefore a bill that does not contain a sales tax might encounter a presidential veto. It is not certain to, but, on form, it is to be considered a probability in view of what the president has said.

Realizing this, the republican leaders are going ahead and have determined to take chances, believing that a bonus bill could survive a presidential veto.

Many Favor Bonus

A prominent member of the ways and means committee said tonight that there are not sixty members of the house nor twenty members of the senate who are opposed to a soldiers' bonus. He said further that a majority of the republican members had come to the conclusion that a bonus bill would not put the party in jeopardy at the forthcoming election, notwithstanding the fears entertained by some party leaders on this subject.

These leaders now are leaning to a bill which will provide for revenue from interest payments on the federal debt, no matter what may be recommended by the ways and means committee. The committee, however, is also leaning to this source of revenue, and it is predicted that such a bill would pass the house by an overwhelming majority.

When such a measure goes to the senate that body may amend it by providing an issuance of bonds or debt certificates of some kind.

Opposed by President

Both these measures would be diametrically opposed to the recommendations of the president. Which ever measure is then preferred by the majorities of the two houses, it is predicted, could then be passed over a presidential veto, should there be one. Whatever might be the political effect of such a course, republican leaders declare would not be so serious as would the defeat of the bonus bill altogether or the passage of that bill with a sales tax attached. They say that had President Harding spoken earlier against bonus legislation at this time, or had he refrained from speaking until the legislation had been passed by a majority, the spirit of congress would be less aggressive and more willing to listen to executive suggestions on the subject.

In proposing a sales tax as the only means of financing the bonus, they argue the president left an opening for charges that he sought to kill the popular bonus proposal with a very unpopular form of taxation, or to compel adoption of this unpopular tax by placing it as a rider upon the bonus measure. Republican members of the house assert that the accomplishment of either of these purposes would threaten their own re-election.

RECEIVERSHIP DENIED

R. W. The court found that the action was without foundation and that the action should be dismissed. This disposes of the case effectively and sets at rest the attempts to interfere with the business affairs of the company.
