Navy blue was a fashionable color for women's clothes 2,000 years ago.

When you come out of the little end of the horn turn around and blow.

A diplomat is a fellow who always remembers a woman's birthday and forgets her age.

Some men provide the finances for their families, while their wives provide the conscience.

After making out the income tax most of us look like accidents coming back from happenings.

An editor is one whose business it is to separate the wheat from the chaff and then publish the chaff.

A western senator says the senate talks too much. Well, is there anything that can be done about it?

When it comes to viewing with alarm, La Follette can make Borah look like a star-spangled optimist.

Now with radio telephony the old song "There's Music in the Air" takes on an entirely new meaning.

It's no wonder the president needed a vacation in Florida. He personally made out his own income tax return.

Most folks are of the opinion that the regular income tax blank is hard enough, without the added instructions.

Aren't we Americans funny? If water was as scarce as hootch we'd be paying the same fabulous sums for it.

"It don't take a man long to bag his pants at the knees, and to make a finely tailored suit look thoroughly disreputable—that's the man of it," avers Dainty Dorothy.

But she goes on to explain that the man who is making use of our cleaning, steaming and pressing services is keeping his clothes in much more presentable condition than when he got acquainted with us. And it doesn't cost much, either.

Lillian Russell in Europe investigating conditions says congress should be sent to Europe to learn the truth about things there. But wouldn't that put this country in the position of shoving our troubles over into another country which is already overburdened?

The Department of Agriculture is interesting itself in watermelon acreage. It advises farmers in the melon states to plant only such acreage as they can cultivate conveniently and which will make a crop that can be marketed to advantage, stressing rather the staple crops. Last year the melon growers over produced with the result that they took some severe punishment. And so acreage reduction this year should be the watchword of those who ordinarily produce melons on an extensive scale.

I will turn their mourning into joy, and will comfort them.—Jer. 31-13.

GETTING RICH

Mary Pickford's income for two years was $1,123,625, according to court testimony in New York.

The president of the United States makes that much in fifty years. The average unskilled laborer in eastern steel mills makes 24 cents an hour, would have to toil 2265 years to make as much as Mary gets in two years.

Salaries of movie stars are almost as great marvels as the actual moving picture invention.

The tremendous incomes of movie stars illustrates a point that should be indelible in the brain of anyone trying to get rich. This is the point:

If Mary Pickford, for instance, appeared on the stage and had only one person or a few for an audience, her income would only be a few dollars a day. Such performers were the professional story tellers of medieval Bagdad or modern Japan.

Then a theatre is built and Mary can play to a couple of thousand people at each performance. Her income increases abreast of the number she serves.

The invention of the moving picture has enabled Mary to appear before an unlimited number of audiences simultaneously. Each member contributing his mite. The total of mites swells into an enormous salary for the performer.

The principle behind all of this is the application of mass production to human service—the performing of service for the greatest number of people.

The more people you assist or entertain, the greater your income.

Often you comment along these lines: Einstein a super scientist of the sort that appears once in centuries, makes less money than the inventor of some trifling thing like the Eskimo Pie, ice cream cone or safety pin.

The answer to this is Einstein serves only a small and limited number of customers—scientists—while the other inventors serve millions, each contributing his mite to the inventor.

In any scheme to get rich don't forget the importance of doing something that will serve a multitude.

There is infinitely more wealth in inventing a shoe lace with a tip that can't come off, than originating a costly fashion or anything else that can have only a limited number of customers.

Greatest profits come from serving the greatest numbers. Henry Ford found that out, years ago.

HOME BUILDING

Building a home is the greatest fun in the world. Anyone who has tried it will bear witness. There is a unique satisfaction in making the plans and then watching them take shape in wood or stucco or brick. Finally, it is something to be able to say:

"We have built ourselves a real monument. The city has an added attractiveness because of what we have done. We are city builders." For the most satisfaction home building ought to begin years before the actual work of construction. As a family lives in rented houses its members begin to realize what features they like and what they dislike. Do they want a center hall arrangement? Or are they pleased with the dining room off the living room? What height of ceiling particularly appeals? Would they be unhappy without a sun room? What is the verdict as to a sleeping porch? There ought to be a large store of clippings accumulated in anticipation of the time of planning; clipping from newspapers, from magazines, notes jotted down from observation of other houses, or from books. All sorts of tentative plans should be sketched out, or perhaps built out of blocks. If possible, as the building time approaches and the architect is found, the preliminary study he submits should be allowed to rest for weeks—though this is a counsel of perfection and rarely observed; and the thrill of getting to work is too great—and mulled over. Ideas are bound to occur which may be embodied in the scheme. Too hasty action often brings regrets later.

Who says that a negro cannot get justice in a southern court? Let Lillie Taylor of Louisiana answer. Lillie's claim to $15,000,000 worth of oil lands has just been upheld by the supreme court of her state, with the result that, while only a few days ago she was a scrub woman, she is today the richest negroess in the world.

The movie players have joined to make a "self defense film" on the subject of real life in Hollywood. The first half of the film will show movie life as gossip has represented it "as it really is." If movie life is what the ones on the inside say it is, perhaps the last half should be shown first, to keep the audience from walking out.

WOMAN'S CONCERN

Men, all of whom are animated by vanity and egotism, constantly are covering, they have problems they imagine are of stupendous importance.

They notice, especially lately, that women do not pay much attention to what men consider solemn problems. Hence, the men reason, women must be surface thinkers. The men discuss this among themselves, and nod gravely. "You tickle me, I tickle you."

Women who reason only in the subconscious or instinct, realize that little is important except making a living for the family and perpetuating the human race by having children.

That is sound thinking—fundamental. Women concern themselves only with the really important. Hence they yawn when the men become excited about nothing.

VETS' BONUS BILL IS ORDERED OUT MINUS SALES TAX

Time of Appearance in House Awaits Return of Speaker Gillett—Treasury Questioned.

Washington, March 14.—A soldiers' bonus bill with the bank loan provision was ordered favorably reported today by the house ways and means committee. The vote was 19 to 5. Three democrats, Kitchin, Garner and Collier, and two republicans, Treadway and Tilson, voted against the measure.

By the same vote the committee rejected an amendment under which the bonus would have been financed by a sales tax.

Chairman Fordney plans to submit his formal report tomorrow or Thursday, but said the time of calling the measure up in the house would not be fixed definitely until after the return of Speaker Gillett, who is in Florida with President Harding.

Representative Fordney said he did not expect Speaker Gillett to bring any message on the bonus from the executive and that the subject of the conference with the speaker would be the question calling up the bill next Monday under a suspension of the rules. Some members of the house, however, expressed the belief that Mr. Gillett would be prepared to give the president's views on the compromise bill.

The vote on the measure today was taken ten minutes after Secretary Mellon, Comptroller of the Currency Crissinger and Governor Harding of the federal reserve board had been questioned for two hours in open session as to their ideas of the bank loan adjusted certificate plan.

The five members voting against the bill were Gardner of Texas, Kitchin of North Carolina, and Collier, Mississippi, democrats, and Treadway of Massachusetts and Tilson of Connecticut, republicans. All members of the committee were present with the exception of Mr. Kitchin and Representative Chandler, republican, Oklahoma, whose votes were cast by proxy.

Provides Rediscout

Before the final vote the committee rejected, 19 to 5, a proposal offered by Representative Baicharach, republican, New Jersey, to impose for a period of three years a 1 per cent tax on wholesales, designed to finance the bonus. Those supporting this amendment were all republicans.

—Longworth of Ohio, Baicharach, Mott of New York, Tilson and Watson of Pennsylvania.

Under an amendment suggested by Governor Harding and adopted by unanimous vote, banks making original loans on the adjusted service certificates could have those certificates rediscouted by other banks authorized to make original loans on the certificates. Governor Harding objected to having the certificates rediscouted by the federal reserve banks, saying the general economic effect would be unfavorable.
