Fear not, O land; be glad and rejoice; for the Lord will do great things.—Joel 2-21.

The hip stick must be a terrible accident.

Many a man who is itching for office will get scratched at the polls.

Harding has 50 pairs of trousers. Wouldn't it be great to be his brother.

The backslider has it on a lot of people. At least he has been up front.

Golf rule: Keep your eye on the ball—especially when the course is crowded.

A man killed himself because his wife talked too much. Read this to your wife.

Optimist: A man putting up a wire fence to keep chickens out of his garden.

The report that nickel cigars have dropped from eight to six cents cannot be verified.

Kentucky failed to reject the Darwin theory, but came very near proving it true.

If changing clothes wasn't necessary some people would forget where they live.

Absence from church was a crime in the seventeenth century. Now it is merely a custom.

Maybe the farmer's sons came to town to earn money for the old man to keep farming on.

It's an ill wind that blows no good. March winds are boosting the silk stocking trade.

They would rather go riding than play golf because in golf you can't drive with one hand.

Doctors trying to take candy from the babies won't find it as easy as it is supposed to be.

Lenine says what he wants now is money. This is carrying out his policy of being friendly.

Nice thing about bobbed hair is you can claim one on your coat came out of your own head.

Sing a song of expense, pocket full of rye; four and twenty quarts of it, is why he has no eye.

The wonder of the times is how to get another ten thousand miles out of last summer's suit.

President Harding's influence is spreading. They are using the word normalcy in press reports from the state of Texas.

Dry Cleaning
according to Dainty Dorothy

"It don't take a man long to bag his pants at the knees, and to make a finely tailored suit look thoroughly disreputable—that's the man of it," avers Dainty Dorothy.

But she goes on to explain that the man who is making use of our cleaning, steaming and pressing services is keeping his clothes in much more presentable condition than when he got acquainted with us. And it doesn't cost much, either.

"All pull together," is a good motto.

It proves a good one for Plattsmouth.

The only fool like an old one is a young one.

About all some folks can beat is a strategic retreat.

Gas masks have been found useless in mine fires.

How nice it would be if we could all "pull together."

New auto signal device provides six different signals.

More than 40 per cent of the clergy live to be over 70.

Many color blind persons are experts at matching colors.

Thinking of the other fellow is all right, if you go and do it.

Only three cities in the United States are larger than Peking, China.

Judging by the number of "confessions," a mob must have killed Taylor, the movie director.

America has two-thirds of the world's telephones and four-fifths of the world's wrong numbers.

An optimistic congressman says the bonus will be paid in October, but doesn't say what October.

When a man asks for your opinion, look wise and keep quiet. He is only fishing for an argument.

Our idea of fun is a barber trying to tell himself how funny a story is while shaving himself.

Censors claiming our movies are "stupid" don't say if they found them that way or left them that way.

Three-fourths of the area of America is flat—news item. And about three-fourths of the people.

"She's a Cinderella," says a headline over a Chicago item. Cinderella's foot, you know, was very small.

Mary Pickford is said to turn half her income over to her mother. But they do say some of the other movie stars have employed mothers for less.

A bigamist says he married eleven women because he was struck on the head with a baseball bat. More probably because he was not struck on the head with a baseball bat he continued his bigamous adventures.

Let not the world be envious of America, because ten-twelfths of the automobiles in use in the world are owned in America. It means only that America has ten-twelfths of the world's tire trouble and more than its share of the chattel mortgages.

This is the season of the year when hens begin mothering other things than little chicks. Two stories are already in circulation concerning a biddy who has sheltered a little pig under her generous wings, mothering it in real old fashioned style.

The rumor from London that the Genoa conference may be abandoned in consequence of the refusal of the United States to participate has some ground of plausibility. There's little use in getting up a poker game when none of the players has any money.

The leaders in power in Russia seem to be getting along well enough, even if the masses are freezing and starving. At least, nobody over here has started a drive for cast-off evening clothes for the Russian delegates to wear to the Genoa conference.

Most of our political ills can be cured and our political wrongs righted by the ballot, if it is kept clean and intelligent. It is the only weapon the masses of the people have with which to defend their homes and their families and to saw off the heads of politicians who prove untrue to them. These are things that should be kept constantly in mind.

The most hardened sinner is happy in his innocence until he is found out.

Maybe the woman who married eight men was trying to find a good one.

After April 1 is a better time for the coal man to strike than the ice man.

California, the land of everlasting sunshine and eternity, disagreed juries.

Lots of folks "don't care what it costs" so long as the other fellow has to pay for it.

Every man feels there is another man with less sense drawing a bigger salary than he.

State of Washington has 125 hydro-electric horsepower for every square mile of its territory.

Come on boys—and you, too, girls—let us all "pull together" for the old town. We can bring the old town out of the rut.

It has always been said that necessity was the mother of invention, but the big lie is the father of a long line of little lies.

The Mississippi river is on its annual rampage. Well, the Father of Waters has nothing whatever to do but run down stream.

It is puzzling from this distance to decide whether the keynote of the next campaign will be free speech, free love or free beer.

It looks like jumping on a man when he is already down, but we sometimes wonder what is the standing of a weather man in his church.

If our citizens would only make up their minds to become united in all that is good for Plattsmouth, how nice it would be for our future.

AUTOS AND DIPLOMATS

Durant puts out a new cheap car, known as the Starr, to buck Henry Ford. This will cause more talk among Americans than 10,000 Genoa conferences. That's something to be thankful for.

The really important problems of the world are problems of production and distribution of commodities.

A cheaper auto, a gasoline substitute, a harder wheat that moves the bread belt farther north—these are of more consequence than the intrigues of diplomats. And Americans know it.

Americans find international politics stupid and tiresome. We give the statesmen and their wrangles a quick but penetrating analysis, then form an opinion based on intuition, dismiss the matter and turn to the greater problem of production.

It is this concentration on production that has made the American standard of living the highest in the world.

While other nations have been breeding diplomats and trouble Americans have given the world the telephone, reaper, telegraph, street car, sewing machine, elevator, skyscraper, submarine, airplane, electric light, vulcanization of rubber, automatic machine, mass production, washing machine, typewriter, steamship, automobile, phonograph, modern moving pictures, fountain pen and millions of other useful devices.

Europe seems to have a difficult time understanding us, especially our instinctive abhorrence of missing international political wrangles.

The blue foxes of the Yukon have an equally hard time understanding the busy ant and beaver.

America's foreign policy can be boiled down to this: "As soon as you're ready to get down to business and start production on an extensive scale, we're with you."

Who are the nation's leaders? In recent years we have come to regard those who are financially successful or who occupy positions of great material influence as the leaders. It is just possible, however, that the real leaders are to be found in a less conspicuous class.

There is throughout the country a wave of loose thinking on important projects that is finding expression in congress, with no prospect of improvement. Let those who hold responsible positions anywhere, whether as editors, college professors, preachers or wherever they may be placed so as to influence public thought, realize the responsibility which is theirs, of holding to sound doctrine.

Here is an unconscious compliment paid to a group of men and women who have been scoffed at greatly in recent years. Occasionally some one recognizes their true value, but whether honored or reviled, they continue quietly about their business and wield mighty influence for good.

RESPONSIBLE LEADERS

The socialism and anarchism of pre-war days, which the middle class labored so earnestly to suppress were indeed a menace to property. How grave a menace they were is shown clearly by their exploits in Russia. But the militarism which the middle class accepted complacently was a far greater menace to property and life.

Where bolshevism destroyed its billions, militarism destroyed its tens of billions. Where bolshevism killed thousands, militarism hundreds of thousands. Bolshevism is still a menace, no doubt, but the middle class is mobilized to combat it. Militarism is by no means dead. If the middle class is as complacent about it through the next generation as it was through the last we may look forward in twenty-five or thirty years, to another world war, coming to complete the destruction of the last.

But will the middle class be so blind? There is a missionary of peace that will reach to every member of the class, every year, thru a generation. That is the income tax. And the propaganda of the income tax will not be confined to America; where it is perhaps least needed, but will be conducted with even greater vigor in England, France, Germany, Italy. The war makers will find it hard to arouse enthusiasm for another adventure in world domination.

YOUR DIAMONDS

German scientists recently caused a sensation in the international jewel market. They claimed they had solved the problem of manufacturing diamonds cheaply.

Now the word is passed through the diamond trade that it costs more to produce the real ones from the clay blowpipes of extinct volcanoes.

Sir William Crookes succeeded in making artificial diamonds by crystallizing graphite under great pressure. But the diamonds he made were small—worthless as gems.

So the value of your diamonds is safe—for the present. Some day chemists will produce diamonds and gold artificially, cheaply. That will be an interesting period to live through—more interesting for the spectator than the participant.

Appropos of your diamonds, have you planned to mention them to the assessor this year?

"Here's an Echo from the Past," says a headline. And that reminds us of another thing we wonder if the radio will ever let us hear—an echo from the future.

Nothing So Good for a Cough or Cold Chamberlain's Cough Remedy

"Everyone who has used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy speaks well of it," writes Edward P. Miller, Abbottstown, Pa. People who once used this preparation are seldom satisfied with any other. It is excellent to allay a cough or break up a cold. Weyrich & Hadraba.

GEN. TINLEY DEMOCRATS' CHOICE FOR GOVERNOR

Des Moines, Ia., March 23.—C. L. Herring, of Des Moines, was asked to run for the United States senate by the democratic state conference today and promised to make the race if the other candidates suggested also accepted.

Brig. Gen. Matt Tinley, of Council Bluffs was selected for governor and two women were asked to run for state offices.

Interviewed last night at his home in Council Bluffs, Gen. Tinley stated that he had not been officially notified of the action of the democratic conference and that he did not think it proper to make a statement until he had been informed of its action.

He stated, however, that he repeatedly had refused similar offers in the past and that the present circumstances would determine largely whether he would refuse or accept the urgings of the convention.
