CONVICT ROAD WORK PROBLEM IS VEXING

Contractors Don't Want Them at the Present Wage Scale—Conference to Settle Matter.

Lincoln, March 27.—Governor McKelvie announced he would call a conference of the state board of control, state highway department, state law enforcement department and Warden W. T. Fenton, in an effort to find a way to work convicts on roads. Convict road work began two years ago at the governor's direction.

George Johnson, state engineer, has declared contractors will work more cheaply with free labor than with convicts at $1.12 1/2 a day, with guard and maintenance overhead.

The board of control has refused to reduce wages of convicts, and demands that the department of public highways pay for guards while convicts are on roads.

Fenton has asserted that if road work by convicts ceases it will break morale of the institution and he has 100 men available for such work.

"I am certain we can find a solution of the problem in a short time," the governor said.

Uniform Planting —More Bushels

UNIFORM planting at a rapid rate is made possible by combining the Oliver No. 30 double lister with the Fordson tractor. The accurate dropping mechanism of the lister is perfectly adjusted to the speed of the Fordson, and so the seed is dropped accurately and at a uniform depth.

The covering discs supply the power for the dropping, and they are held in the ground by springs so adjusted that the planting device rides over ridges just as smoothly as on level ground.

This double lister is as simple to handle as the well-known Oliver No. 7 gang plow. It will back and turn short corners. So, you see, this is a truly one-man outfit.
