Thou has well seen: For I will hasten my word to perform it.—Jer. 1-12.

Tomorrow may never come, but its bills do.

Roads in the United States total 2,478,552 miles.

Economy is easy when you never have money enough.

Nothing ruins an old car like the neighbors getting a new one.

If you are getting wrinkles, don't worry. That is all the prune has.

Road Hog: A man who keeps in the middle and leaves you both sides.

Congressmen are sending you free seeds and hoping that they will raise votes.

When some people miss church they have to make up the sleep at home.

Indications are, that this spring will be favorable for raising everything.

Spring catalogues and backyard musers of the soil are getting into action.

Out at night, when a girl says she has cold hands she means she hasn't cold feet.

A man, said to be the biggest boot-legger in the world, has been caught. He weighs 280.

The modern girl always gets mad when her fellow steals a kiss—unless it is from her.

Amateur gardeners use hoes; amateur golfers use clubs; the results are about the same.

Just one sentence from a woman is going to keep a man in 20 years. She is a woman judge.

Peggy Joyce is writing a book on "My Husbands," which probably will tell all about their wife.

Being fair to the drivers, we will say an auto rarely goes up on the sidewalk after its victims.

College students claim co-eds are cave women. Some of our boys judge the girls by their clothes.

Professor Courtiere says we stand too much. Yes, yes, we stand too much from foreign professors.

Monkeys have the most sense after men, says a trainer. This is an awful slam at women after men.

Hash is not the port of last call between the table and the garbage can. Everything that is left can be put into salad.

Germany is sure it can't meet the new demands of the reparations commission, but the commission is open to reason. All it insists upon is that Germany try.

Several of New York's leading bandits have been going bankrupt lately, indicating that a little group of brute husbands somewhere in the city have put their feet down hard.

The British view that the American demand for the repayment of the cost of the army in Germany is just but inopportune indicates where we made our mistake. We should have demanded something unjust but timely.

We wish tires wouldn't blow out—at least we wish they wouldn't blow out in our neighborhood at night. We keep wondering all the evening who has been shot, and are disappointed to find next morning that nobody was.

Marry within your own clan, says Edith Rockefeller McCormick, or end your days in slavery. Edith learned her lesson when she wandered from the oil tribe and let herself be carried off by one of those farm machinery sheiks.

Mrs. Asquith says that when she sees the American girls with their painted faces and bony knees and fat calves, she believes she has found the reason for the celebrated morality of American men. Uh huh, and now it occurs to us that the girls have not been wearing them short enough in Nebraska.

I am a light into the world, who-soever believeth should not abide in darkness.—John 12-46.

A man who loses his head easily isn't out much.

Fine motto: Open your eyes and shut your mouth.

Radium is quoted at $4,500,000 an ounce. Pay no more.

The handwriting on the wall shows the man rents the house.

When food or people are too rich they don't agree with one.

A highbrow is a person who wants his Eskimo Pie a la mode.

Ex-Kaiser is writing a book on ruins. Must be a biography.

This year is hardly three months old and looks fine for its age.

Blessed are the poor in salary for they shall pay no income tax.

Some singers get $1,000 a night, but look at the risk they run.

The best thing between us and foreign countries is two oceans.

Ireland is using her own postage stamps. Quit licking the British.

A boy baby with a rich uncle never has any trouble getting named.

According to one who knows, jazz is a good old tune slightly adulterated.

Again we ask the phone company for a book showing the wrong numbers to call to get the right ones.

Chorus girls in a Paris show wear one feather only. About 10,000 Americans are wintering in Paris.

And just to show how things change, it used to be thought it was unconstitutional to arrest governors.

One employer is so enthusiastic over the future he even predicts penny slot machines will be working.

A Texas man married a girl he went with 30 years. After that practice, he ought to be able to live with her.

A senator wants to raise the postage again. Bet some Ponzis lay in a supply of stamps while they are cheap.

The man who doesn't say "attached" and "hadn't ought" is almost an educated man. In fact a literary man with a great deal of finish.

It is hoped the flapper feels properly complimented when she is called a national menace. Nobody seems inclined to call the cake eater much of anything.

Germany is sure it can't meet the new demands of the reparations commission, but the commission is open to reason. All it insists upon is that Germany try.

Silver-plated can openers make an excellent wedding present.

A 13-month year, with thirteen rent paying days, would be unlucky for somebody.

A fine way to teach a small boy to fight is make him wear a red tie to school.

Mr. Plain Citizen candidly, if he doesn't like the coal strike he will have to lump it.

Bryan started running for the senate early; but perhaps he has a long way to run.

You don't have to go to a medium to have your past told. All you have to do is to run for office.

Blanton of Texas seems to be to the house just what Jim Reed is to the senate—whatever that is.

The proof of the pudding is in the eating, but the proof of the bootleg is in the undertaker's profits.

Washington reports the public debt grew to $90,000,000 last month; but what's a few millions when we can't pay them?

Evidence cannot be measured in terms of opinion," says a writer. Most of it these days is measured in pints and quarts.

A man claims he married fourteen or fifteen times because he was hit by a baseball but when young. Baseball is dangerous.

If a friend differs with you seriously in an opinion, don't discuss the matter with him. What are opinions compared to friends.

The manifestation of interest and determination to keep Plattsmouth on the baseball map is highly gratifying, but the interest and enthusiasm should not be confined to those public spirited citizens who have taken a lead in the matter.

WORK TOGETHER

It is a hopeful augury for the business community when retail merchants get together and stick together. They have never exercised the dominant influence in the community, to which they are entitled because of the lack of co-operation among them. The various distinctive groups should combine for their common interest and then these groups should amalgamate into one general organization of retailers. One of the most valuable fruits of this co-operation has been found to be greater efficiency of credit information. Many merchants have been profited in the aggregate enormously because of a service of this kind. It is well recognized that the retail merchant is the greatest single force in the commercial world because he knows what the public wants and keeps in intimate contact with the flowing tides of humanity. Some manufacturers have undertaken to eliminate the retailer by extensive advertising and by direct selling methods but most of these departures have proven abortive and have inflicted very little injury on the man who looks after the miscellaneous needs of millions of consumers and harrasments, which if he should have access to a council table of others who are beset with the same sort of troublesome details, he would find his burden lessened and the efficiency of his business promoted to an immense extent. No retailer should allow a mistaken self interest or petty jealousy prevent him from joining with his brothers in business for their mutual advantage.

OUR SCHOOL SYSTEM

Dr. John J. Tigert, Federal Commissioner of Education, declares that the educational system of the United States is almost at a breakdown for these reasons: Only one pupil in four completes instruction in the elementary grades. In eighty cities where school conditions are most favorable, only half of the pupils go thru these grades. In no state, he says, are more than 15 per cent of the enrolled pupils completing high school course. In 37 states the percentage is less than ten. Of all the high school pupils "more than half get no further than the first year." Yet, says the New York American, in every school district increasing difficulty is found in providing sufficient school buildings, equipment and teachers to accommodate the growing elementary attendance. "In none is the teaching staff adequately paid." Dr. Tigert suggests no remedy, but the American does, saying: "It is to change the method of grading so that each pupil may advance as rapidly as desirable and none be put back, to go over old ground. Only by accelerating the rate of progress and saving tremendous costs of needless duplication and delays can the school product at a price the taxpayers can afford to pay." There is a compulsory school attendance law in every state, with the exception of one, and in these states the rule is that the children must attend school a fixed period of time each year until they are sixteen. But in many states, for example, Mississippi, the compulsory system has been in operation but a short while. The law is not yet producing the results which the maturing effect of time should exact of it. Manifestly such a condition as described by Dr. Tigert could not exist in a country where all, or practically all children, had long been required to attend school annually until they were sixteen. Of course allowance must be made for dull children who could not take an education very well under the best of conditions.

HOLD A HIGHWAY MEETING.

Valentine, Neb., March 26.—A great meeting in the interest of the Grant highway was held recently at the Cherry county court house in this city under the auspices of the Valentine good roads and community club. Malcolm MacKinnon, secretary of the Grant highway association, who is on his way from Chicago to Portland, and who had just made an inspection of the road between Stuart and Valentine, by way of Carns, Springview, Nordan and Sparks, was present and outlined the progress being made in the development of a direct route for tourist travel from the third city in the world to the Pacific coast by way of Yellowstone park, the Snake river valley in Idaho, the old Oregon trail and the Columbia river highway in Oregon. Cherry county is the largest county in Nebraska, being about the size of the state of Connecticut and receives the largest amount of state and federal aid under the Nebraska law. At the first Grant highway meeting held here in 1919, no road had been built. Since that time twenty-five miles of state federal road has been constructed, all of it on the Grant highway and a project is under way for the construction of another line of the Grant road between this city and Crookston. Altogether about $400,000 will have been expended in these improvements by the end of the present year. Fordson tractors reduced to $395.—Plattsmouth Motor Co.

WOMEN IN RACE FOR CONGRESS NUMBER FIVE

Five Hope to Help Make Laws at Washington—Ashland Woman Represents Nebraska.

Chicago, March 27.—The following women are among those running for congress this year: Mrs. Ellen Duane Davis of Philadelphia, Mrs. Winnifred Mason Huck of Chicago, Mrs. Mary Belle Spencer of Hill Top, Cook county, Ill., Mrs. Irene Cleveland Buell of Ashland Neb., and Mrs. A. K. Gault, mayor of St. Peter Minn. The latter two are sisters.

The Philadelphia candidate seeking the democratic nomination, is a great-great-granddaughter of Benjamin Franklin, who as a boy exchanged argumentative letters with a friend defending the attitude of educating women and their fitness for education. He explained in his autobiography, however, that he took this advanced stand "perhaps a little for dispute's sake." Though times have changed, the present candidate encounter a big campaign, with surprise sometimes, judging from remarks of Mrs. Buell and Mrs. Huck.

"It makes me weary to have people expect me to be a freak because I am interested in politics," says Mrs. Buell of Nebraska, who adds, "mother always said I was the most domestic of her four daughters."

Mrs. Huck, who is the daughter of the late Congressman William E. Mason, in a statement to the women's press, replies to a young woman's remark, "The nerve of her going into such a big campaign," with the comment that "to be a good congressman," as she means to be, will require even more "nerve."

Mrs. Buell, the "most domestic" of her mother's four daughters, has been city prosecutor of Ashland since 1918, though on mayor tried to discharge her when she persisted in prosecuting his brother. Mrs. Gault, the Minnesota candidate, is Mrs. Buell's sister. The two have filed papers in accordance with an agreement of long standing between the sisters that if one runs for congress the other should do likewise. Mrs. Buell says, Mrs. Buell at the example, The Nebraska woman, who classes herself as a progressive democrat, adds that their father was the first mayor of the municipality of which Mrs. Gault is now mayor, and that politics runs in the family. Similarly, Mrs. Huck, republican, says that common interests with her father and determination to continue his work led her to file for congressman at large to fill the vacancy created by his death. She says the fact that she is happily married and the mother of four healthy children influenced party leaders to desire her candidacy.

"It don't take a man long to bag his pants at the knees, and to make a finely tailored suit look thoroughly disreputable—that's the man of it," avers Dainty Dorothy.

But she goes on to explain that the man who is making use of our cleaning, steaming and pressing services is keeping his clothes in much more presentable condition than when he got acquainted with us. And it doesn't cost much, either.
