Missouri River Taking Land

The Missouri river, which has been at flood stage for some time past, and is just at this time subsiding slightly, is cutting into the Nebraska side at what is known as Sciota Bottoms and is taking considerable of good rich soil from Cass county. Many of the old time residents are apprehensive that the river will take a considerable more of the land than has as yet been cut away. Nothing seemingly can be done to prevent this wasting away of the land at this point.

Last Saturday evening two men, one from Nebraska City named A. N. Danley, aged about sixty years, and his son, John Danley, of Omaha, aged about 28, came from Omaha going to Nebraska City on a motor cycle and a side car.

They left here about 8:30 and at 11:30 that evening were found on the road near the home of Frank Glaubitz, with the motorcycle completely wrecked, the elder man unconscious and the younger one in a dazed condition. Mr. Exa Frans, who found them questioned the younger man who seemed to know but little and could answer but vaguely the questions put to him. Mr. Frans then found the elder man unconscious and reported his condition to Dr. E. S. Puray who brought them to Union and found the elder man had a contusion across his forehead of some four inches, a bone in his right arm broken about three inches from the shoulder, and both bones broken at the right wrist. He gave them medical attention and took them to Nebraska City, their destination, they both being found under the influence of liquor. With Dr. Wilson they were cared for and taken to the home of the elder man at Nebraska City.
