ENGLAND IS READY TO SHIP 250,000 TONS OF COAL HERE

Production in British Mines Could Be Speeded to Permit of Big Shipments Weekly.

London, July 21.—A quarter of a million tons of coal are available in England for immediate shipment to the United States as soon as American supplies are exhausted as a result of the strike.

English coal production could be speeded up to permit the shipment of 200,000 tons weekly, if necessary, as all the pits are not working full time now.

There are plenty of vessels available to transport enormous supplies of coal, and, owing to the stagnation in the shipping business, it is not expected the rates would be increased.

The above information was supplied to the Tribune today by Sir John Cornwall, member of parliament, and the principal coal baron of England, after a careful examination of the situation and a forecast of the immediate future.

"Normally no coal is shipped to the United States," Sir John said, "but the British operators are ready to export to the fullest capacity if the strike forces the United States to buy here."

"More than 250,000 tons are now lying at pier heads in England ready for immediate shipment, and the immense amount of idle shipping would permit the exportation to get under way in a week if orders were received."

"The average rate today is 7 shillings, 6 pence per ton," said Sir John, "and I do not believe that it would be increased as the shipping agents are anxious to get all trade possible. England should not export enough coal to leave shipping short, warranting an increase in freight rates."

"Most pits in England are not working full time, but they would start capacity operations as soon as contracts warrant."

NEBRASKA COUPLE MARRIED "WAY DOWN EAST"

Mrs. Elmer Sundstrom and Miss Ruth Jacobson are in receipt of the announcement of the marriage of their brother, B. A. Jacobson and Miss Maude Barnette of Omaha in New York, on Monday, July 3, 1922. The news is not surprising to the friends in this locality who have been hearing rumors of approaching wedding bells, but the exact day was not known.

Mr. Jacobson is located in New York, where he is associated with the Condons in an extensive grading contract for the New York Central railroad and his bride joined him in the east for the wedding as it was impossible for him to get away to come west at present. After the ceremony, they went to Providence, R. I., for a short visit with his brother, Paul Jacobson and family. The latter has a position as expert accountant with a large concern and they have a very sweet little daughter.

The bride is a splendid young business woman and will be an invaluable helpmate to her husband. The groom is one of our successful young men who is helping to put his old home town on the map by his brilliant success along his latest line of endeavor and his many old friends in Louisville will join the Courier in extending heartfelt congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy married life.—Louisville Courier.

SUMMER MILLINERY SINGS ITS ALLURING SWAN SONG

IN JULY and August hats for mid-summer sing the swan song of summer millinery. They are the seasonal that begins in southern climes, long before Easter, and ends when the first hint of autumn creeps into the air in the north. They spread wide and airy brims and bloom in the heat. Like tropic flowers, they are beautiful and short lived. A mid-summer hat in autumn looks as forlorn as a fragile butterfly would in a snowstorm.

Just how alluring they are this season may be imagined by a glance at the four dress hats pictured here, in the company of one late summer tailored hat, of white satin and fringe. The group leads off with a midsummer night's dream in black georgette and lace. The shape is an exaggerated poke bonnet, covered with georgette laid in wide folds on the crown. A lace scarf is draped over the brim falling over its edge and partly veiling the forehead and eyes. It slips off the brim and falls over the shoulder at the right side, making way for one large, full blown pond lily that eclipses even the glory of fine chantilly lace.

Lace and plaited georgette again join forces in the light, beige-colored hat at the right of the group. Very large two toned poppies in a cluster find shelter under the brim at the left side. Huge poppies also trim the crepe hat at the center with its peculiar brim (in three pieces) that widens at the sides and narrows at the front. Its brim and a soft, round crown are overlaid with an embroidered or figured crepe, with plain crepe for a brim facing. It is a model which might be successfully developed in any light color.

The last hat in the group, of white hair braid and chiffon, has a very wide brim that narrows and lifts across the front. A narrow millinery braid is stitched in a pattern over both the crown and brim. Long sprays of white blossoms and fruit wander across the hat and trail from it at the sides.

In midsummer the lace hat comes into its own and finds a perennial welcome on the part of women with educated taste in millinery. The allurements of the curtain veil has added something to its other attractions by proving itself immensely flattering to all sorts of eyes.

MIDSUMMER FROCKS ARE OF PRINTED FABRICS

PRINTED foulards and crepes, embroidered linens and crepes and printed cottons are among the fabrics that make midsummer dresses distinctive and brilliant. The crepes are naturally in the lead in these figured fabrics, simply because they are crepes and this is a crepe season. They are followed by foulards which make light cool dresses, and both these materials lend themselves to the fashionable draperies that vary the straight-line figure while they preserve the slender silhouette. Embroidered linens and crepes are even more simply designed than their printed rivals, but simplicity is characteristic of frocks made from all fabrics having large, all-over printed or embroidered figures.

Costume suits make use of the same printed materials when the pattern shows figures smaller and colors a little more sedate. The printed silk is used for a long overblouse, worn with a plain, wool skirt, and a cape or, per-

NATURE'S WARNING! LOCAL NEWS

Plattsmouth People Must Recognize And Heed It.

Kidney ills come mysteriously. But nature generally warns you. Notice the kidney secretions. See if the color is unhealthy— if there are settlements and sediment. Passages frequent, scanty, painful. It's time to fear serious Kidney trouble.

It's time to use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have done great work in Plattsmouth. Ask your neighbor. Theo. Starkjohn, retired farmer, Locust and Ninth St., Plattsmouth, says: Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in our family for kidney troubles and backache and they have proven to be all that is claimed of them. Whenever my back feels a little lame and my kidneys are not acting as they should I take Doan's and never fail to get some good. Doan's can't be equalled and anyone having kidney trouble should take them; they are very reliable." (Statement given February 23, 1916.)

Over four years later, or on May 12, 1920, Mr. Starkjohn added: "The cure I had from Doan's Kidney Pills has been a lasting one. I still have faith in Doan's and if ever I should need a kidney remedy again, I would use them."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy— get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Starkjohn had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

MARRIAGE OF MISS OLA KAFFENBERGER LAST EVE

Former Plattsmouth Young Lady is Joined in Wedlock to Charles Spacht, at Lincoln.

The marriage of Miss Ola M. Kaffenberger to Charles A. Spacht took place at 8 o'clock Thursday evening at Trinity M. Church in Lincoln. One hundred and sixty guests were present.

Before the ceremony the Misses Goldye and Gladys Kaffenberger, twin sisters of the bride, sang two duets, "As the Dawn" and "Beloved."

The bridegroom, Charles A. Spacht, of Fairmont, was in charge and the bride's maid, Norma Burt Baumgart and Maxine Clout, of this city, niece of the bride, were ribbon bearers and led the wedding procession down the aisle. Following them were twenty-one flower girls dressed in white and carrying green baskets of sweet peas. The girls are members of the bride's Sunday school class.

The bridesmaids were Goldye and Gladys Kaffenberger, who wore green tulle, trimmed with silver lace, and large picture hats. They carried baskets of sweet peas. Another sister of the bride, Miss Mina K. Kaffenberger, was maid of honor. She wore ruffled sunset pink tulle and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

The ring-bearers, George Stutzman, of Fairmont, and Thais Parr, of Lincoln, followed the maid of honor, with the two rings for the double ring ceremony in red roses.

The bride entered with her father, George A. Kaffenberger. She wore a gown of white satin trimmed with imported silk lace, and carried a shower bouquet. At the altar they met the bridegroom and his party. Dr. Walter Aitken of St. Paul's Methodist church performed the ceremony. Merritt Chaffee of Omaha was best man, and Clifford Myers and Julian Applegate also attended the bridegroom. The usher at the church were Acacia brothers of Mr. Spacht.

Sweet peas and asparagus fern were used in the decorations in the church. The altar was banked in green with white pillars at either side.

A reception was held at the Kaffenberger home in Lincoln, immediately following the wedding. In the reception line with the bride and groom were the bride's parents, the maid of honor and the best man. Mrs. Kaffenberger wore tan georgette trimmed in velvet lace. Refreshments were served in the yard which was lighted with Japanese lanterns. Mrs. Clyde Boyles was in charge and members of the Letalewa camp fire organization served.

The bride is a graduate of the Iowa state teachers' college at Cedar Falls, Iowa. Mr. Spacht, who formerly lived in Alliance, is the son of Mrs. D. K. Spacht, of Portland. He is a graduate of the Peru state normal and the University of Nebraska, and is a member of Acacia and Alpha Kappa Psi. He was mathematics instructor in the Plattsmouth high school several years ago and is well known to many Plattsmouth people. At present he is principal of the Fairmont high school, where he and his bride will make their home after the middle of August.

Those from this city to attend the wedding were Mrs. C. T. Peacock, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Becker and daughters, Verla and Leone, Mr. P. T. Becker and son, John H., Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Clout and daughter, Maxine, Mr. Minnie Kaffenberger, and Mr. and Mrs. John B. Kaffenberger.

DEFEATED IN PRIMARY

Sheriff Ed Fischer of Otoe county, who has been the occupant of that office for the past fourteen years, met defeat at the republican primary Tuesday when he was defeated by Carl Ryder. Mr. Fischer has been very successful in his work up to the past year when he was subject to more or less criticism and especially at the time of the packing house strike. Mr. Fischer when interviewed by the Press yesterday gave the following statement relative to running by petition:

"I wouldn't think of doing that," he said yesterday afternoon. "I was defeated in the republican primary, and that ends it. I am not an insurgent."

The sheriff said, too, that he would have some interesting statements to make before long.

"I hope people won't get it into their heads that I shall 'lay down' on law enforcement," he said. "I shall go right ahead doing my duty, no matter what folks say or do, and law-breakers had better keep their weaker eyes peeled."

One Dollar Saved Represents Ten Dollars Earned.

The average man does not save to exceed ten per cent of his earnings. He must spend nine dollars in living expenses for every dollar saved. That being the case he cannot be too careful about unnecessary expenses. Very often a few cents properly invested, like buying seeds for his garden, will save several dollars outlay later on. It is the same in buying Chamberlain's Cough and Diarrhoea Remedy. It costs but a few cents, and a bottle of it in the house often saves a doctor's bill of several dollars. Weyrich & Hadraba.
