BY THEIR WORKS YE SHALL KNOW THEM

A good deed quietly done is worth six accomplished only to be bragged about.

For almost two years a Plattsburgh gentleman who has chosen to keep his identity secret has paid the monthly rental on the telephone at the American Legion club rooms, as well as the original installation charges. Thus in his quiet way he has contributed materially to the organization and earned the wholehearted thanks of its members.

Under instructions to the telephone company not to divulge his identity he has had mailed each month to Legion officials the receipt for service. Although it is impossible to lay credit for this gratuitous act at the door of any individual, Legion officials feel they are pretty sure of the party, and extend public thanks to their unknown benefactor for his interest in the progress of the organization.

The toastmaster at last evening's dinner was Assistant Attorney General Charles Reed. The speakers were Rev. John Calvert, Plattsburgh; Charles Mathewson, Walthill; Harry Ellis, Holdrege; E. R. McCormick, Ralph Powell, Omaha, and Ced Potter and Ralph Weaverling, Lincoln.

At that time, the next year's place of holding the meet will be decided upon and officers elected for the ensuing year. All Lincoln people interested are expected to attend the smoker.

ONLY DISORDERS OCCUR

The only disorder that has marked the railroad strike here as far as can be learned is the practice in the last few days of painting the residences of employees of the Burlington shops, who are not out on the strike, with a liberal application of yellow paint and the sign "Scab," that has been decorating the residences in a number of cases. The first of these reports was on Saturday night when the homes of Paul Wohlforth and Ted Farmer were painted and on Sunday the home of George Dodge on south 6th street was decorated up and Monday night the residences of Joseph Warren and William Warren, on Main street, were also visited by the nocturnal painters. These jobs were carried out usually late in the evening but in one case it is stated that the party doing the work was identified by one of the property owners. What action will be taken in the matter has not been announced.

ASK WILL HAYS TO DELIVER ADDRESS

Republicans Desire Spellbinder at State Convention—Davis Not Expected to Resign.

Candidates for state office who are interested in the doings of the republican state convention are trying to get Will Hays, formerly chairman of the national republican committee, to stop off in Lincoln on his way from Colorado to make a speech to the Nebraska gathering. Thus far no spellbinder has been secured for the big meeting. Chairman McCloud of the state committee is said to have invited Ex-Congressman C. F. Reavis to orate before the convention.

The state committee has not announced the name of the man or woman chosen to preside over the convention. Many interests clash when it comes to selecting the man who will in all probability be made permanent chairman and who will turn down the lapel of his coat in order to be able to name the persons he has chosen to serve on the committee on resolutions and platform. For some time Attorney General Davis has been groomed by his friends for chairman of the state committee. Governor McKelvie is said to favor some one else, for instance E. C. Houston of Tekamah for chairman of the committee and conductor of the campaign.

The name of A. J. Weaver for chairman of the convention has been proposed.

It is announced that the attorney general's office that Mr. Davis will not resign the attorney generalship if he is given charge of the republican campaign. Formerly it was customary for state officials to conduct political campaign while holding office. Once this precedent set by both political parties was broken when Judge W. B. Rose, now of the supreme court, was chosen secretary of the republican state committee. He was then assistant attorney general. That position he resigned, another was appointed in his place. After the campaign closed he resumed his place as assistant attorney general.

LADY SLICKERS GET INTO HANDS OF LAW

Attempt of Two Dashing Young Women to Lift Sicken Hose at Thierolf Store Checked.

From Tuesday's Daily.

This morning about 11 o'clock, two well dressed and attractive appearing young women came into the clothing store of Philip Thierolf and asked to look at some of the fine silk shirts that were on display. Mr. Thierolf accordingly proceeded to show the various lines of the dainty and attractive garb for the gentlemen and while one of the ladies was engaged in looking them over the other one proceeded to the ladies' hosiery counter and handled over a number of pairs of hose, and while doing so was observed by D. A. Rosencrans to leave one pair lying on the showcase and this pair she later picked up and deftly tucked away in the folds of her dress. The ladies then asked Mr. Thierolf about the price of hosiery and seemed disappointed that the prices were not high enough.

In the meantime Mr. Rosencrans had quietly notified Chief of Police Barclay of the matter and the chief stroled into the store and started a conversation while keeping his eye on the ladies and when, after showing their disappointment at not finding just the high priced hosiery, the ladies started out of the store, Mr. Rosencrans asked them if they were going to pay for the hose that they had tucked away or not. They appeared indignant and offended until the chief announced that he would like to look at the hose and while the argument was being conducted by one of the ladies, the other hurried toward the rear of the store and on her way threw the pair of silk hose under one of the clothing display tables.

The ladies stated that they had come here with a gentleman friend in a car from Omaha, but the efforts of the police to locate the friend in the case proved a matter of difficulty, altho the car in which they had made their trip here was found.

The ladies in the case were turned over to Sheriff Quinton and a complaint filed by County Attorney Cole in county court against one lady that had the hosiery in her possession. The lady gave the name of Margaret Butter in the office of the county attorney and her home as Omaha. Judge Beeson after hearing the evidence in the case assessed a fine of $5 and costs and also charged the lady double the value of the hosiery and in absence of the necessary funds she was remanded to the county bastille to rest while her young lady companion made efforts to get in touch with friends in South Omaha to raise the funds necessary to secure liberty for Miss Butter.

The male companion of the ladies evidently thought discretion the better part of valor, and made his escape as no trace of him has been found by the authorities. The car in which the parties made the trip here, a Ford coupe, was brought down to the jail and will be kept until the parties make settlement for their fracture of the law.

This afternoon John McNurlin departed for Omaha where he was accompanied by W. H. Seybert, and while there Mr. McNurlin will consult Dr. Gifford, the eye specialist, in regard to his right eye that has been giving him a great deal of trouble the last three weeks. Some three years ago the sight of the right eye was lost by Mr. McNurlin and since that time he has had more or less trouble with the eye, but it was not until the last few weeks that it has been so serious and the condition become such as to require some immediate action to save the sight of the remaining eye.
