

IDEAL WEATHER BRINGS MANY VISITORS TO PLATTSMOUTH FOR GOVERNOR'S DAY REVIEW

CEREMONIES INCLUDE PRESENTATION OF AMERICAN LEGION TROPHY CUP AND REGIMENTAL FIELD MEET.

From Friday's Daily

THE WINNING COMPANY

Co. K, the crack Union Pacific company, of Omaha, and largest infantry outfit in the regiment was awarded the American Legion's trophy cup which was presented to Commander Bert Grubbs by Aubrey Duxbury, past commander of the Legion just before the review this afternoon.

The city of Plattsmouth was today host to the chief executives of the state. Gen. Samuel R. McKelvie, governor of Nebraska, on the occasion of his official visit to review and inspect the 124th infantry and attached units of the Nebraska national guard at Camp P. H. Barry.

Weather Ideal

The day was one ideal for the purposes of the work on the range and a marked change from yesterday when the temperature reached 102, and the members of the guard were able to enter into the work of the school of fire with pep and enthusiasm and were warmly congratulated by Governor McKelvie on the showings made.

Companies Assigned to Range

The first battalion, Major Earl M. Chino commanding, and comprising companies A, Auburn; B, Fair City; C, Beatrice; D, Fairmont, and Battalion Hqs., Nebraska City, were selected to do the firing work on the range from 7:30 to 10 o'clock, and which was witnessed by the governor, while machine gun company M, of Seward did the small arms shooting for the benefit of the governor and the officers.

The work on the Browning machine gun was carried by Co. H, of Grand Island, the crack machine gun unit of the second battalion.

The howitzer company of Mitchell were also at the range and gave a very fine exhibition of firing, using the 37-mm. and Stokes' trench mortar in their firing.

The second and third battalions carried out the regular infantry drill schedules at the camp grounds and presented a fine appearance in their work, and which was noted by the

Guest at Officers' Mess
The governor returned to Camp Barry following the work at the range and was a guest of the officers of the camp at the officers' mess on the camp grounds and enjoyed the opportunity of discussing intimately the needs of the national guard.

Review This Afternoon
The review held at the parade grounds north of the camp was delayed somewhat by the troops arriving on the scene and a gathering of some 3,000 persons were on hand to witness the passing of the troops and to greet the governor of the state, Governor McKelvie, General Paul, Major H. C. Stine, assistant adjutant general, were in the reviewing party before whom the troops passed in review.

The American Legion delegation in uniform were formed at the left of the reviewing stand and as Captain Virgel Haggart, adjutant of the regiment, announced the winner of the Legion cup—Co. K of Omaha.

Captain Bert C. Grubbs, commander of the company, was presented with the silver loving cup by Attorney A. H. Duxbury, the company being formed in the place of honor on the field immediately in front of Col. Thomas and staff. As the cup was presented the event was snapped by the photographer of the Platte News and will be preserved for the benefit of the future generations.

Immediately after the cup presentation Governor McKelvie and General Paul, Col. Thomas and Major Stine made an inspection of the troops and the regiment was formed for the march past the reviewing stand.

The parade of the regiment was led by Col. Thomas and received much applause as it swept past the reviewing stand in snappy lines and with the troops paying the honors to the state executive and the officers of the staff.

Regimental Field Day
The athletic program at the base ball park was taken up immediately after the parade and the attendance was very large as all of the business houses, banks, court house and public buildings observed the half holiday proclaimed by Mayor Johnson.

Later the teachers in the town and city schools will meet to take up their line of work and discussion of the plans of the county superintendent.

NATIONAL GUARD TROOPS PARADE THROUGH CITY
Citizens Have Opportunity of Viewing Various Companies—Make a Snappy Appearance.

From Friday's Daily.
Last evening at 7 o'clock the citizens of Plattsmouth were given the opportunity of witnessing the first parade of the 124th infantry and attached organizations held since the troops have been in camp here, over the streets of the city, the route of the parade covering some twenty-five blocks over the business and residential section of the city and being lined on both sides of the street with a goodly number of interested spectators.

The parade was headed by General Paul, Lt. Col. W. A. McDaniel, U. S. A., senior instructor at the camp, and Maj. Bartholomew, camp surgeon, in their car and followed by Col. Amos Thomas and staff, marching at the head of the column of troops.

The regimental band of York headed the troops and was followed by the regiment formed in columns of squads and marching in battalion formation, the officers all being in line with their companies.

The appearance of the troops was very fine and showed the excellent effects of the twelve days' training as many of the organizations have large numbers of new recruits who are learning their first lessons in the work of the soldier.

It was with snappy and true soldierly appearance that the men marched over the hot streets and executed the movements with all the poise of a bunch of seasoned veterans.

The medical units and the trucks and sidecars of the transportation department of the quartermaster corps brought up the rear of the regiment and it was a real object lesson to the onlookers of what a real effective fighting force the state has in the young men of the national guard.

Cause of Appendicitis
When the bowels are constipated, the lower bowels or large intestine become packed with refuse matter that is made up largely of germs. These germs enter the vermiform appendix and set up inflammation, which is commonly known as appendicitis. Take Chamberlain's Tablets when needed and keep your bowels regular and you have little to fear from appendicitis. Weyrich & Hadraba.

COMPLAINT MAY LEAD TO RULES FOR MOTOR BUS
C. W. Donovan Tells Commission He Was Forced to Give up His Place in Bus in this City

Complaint of being compelled to leave the Omaha-Nebraska City bus at Plattsmouth, after he had paid full fare of $1.00 for the trip, and being crowded into a small Ford car with seven others on a hot day to complete the trip to Nebraska City is made to the state railroad commission by C. W. Donovan of Omaha, aged 63.

On August 20, Mr. Donovan's letter says, he took the bus at Omaha and rode in it to Plattsmouth. The bus was pretty well crowded with soldiers going to Plattsmouth for the encampment but he makes no complaint about that. When they got off he left him the only passenger bound through to Nebraska City. Others were starting at Plattsmouth for Nebraska City, however.

When Donovan was told to get out of the bus and change to the Ford, he says Frank H. Higgins, the owner, became abusive. Donovan finally made the change, and during the rest of the journey he rode wedged into a small place with one suitcase on his lap and another on his feet. The weather was intensely hot.

In reply to Donovan's query whether his rights as a citizen were injured, Secretary Curtis of the railway commission says they were, but as the commission has promulgated no rules governing bus travel there is no way to secure relief in this particular instance, unless thru an action in court. If the commission should continue to receive such complaints, it will issue a general order against overcrowding in motor vehicles used for interurban travel.

CONCORD HILL FARM
One of the most productive farms in the county, nearly the entire tract laying nearly level, with just enough slope to insure the proper drainage, is the farm of August Keil near Culm or what was formerly called Concord station. The farm was once owned by the Beavers and over a half a century ago there was a stone school house built on the place which served as a place of instruction for some thirty to thirty-five years, since which time it has been used for a barn for the farm.

Many people from many places come every year and take pictures of the building for their collection of interesting places. This place had indeed an interesting past, many of the grownups who are along in years received their first instruction in this stone building.

The building which was erected in the later sixties of the last century and was only reshingled a few years since and is in a fair state of preservation. The farm originally contained 127 acres and a small portion was sold to J. P. Falter and some forty acres went to Louis Hill, this leaving with the farm at the present time 143 1/2 acres.

ALL GOOD LOSERS
From Friday's Daily.

Last night as the rivalry for the American Legion's trophy cup neared its end, there was no evidence of any airs of superiority among the different companies and everyone was anxiously awaiting the verdict of Lieut. Col. McDaniel, hopeful, yet certain that if they were losers, the men in their organization could take it good naturedly and congratulate the winners. Among the several leading companies was this spirit especially noticeable, and it is certain that had there been a half dozen cups to award they could have been meritoriously placed.

The spirit of being a good loser is a very commendable one and makes for greater interest in the contests that are held.

Mr. Roucka, it is claimed, was working in his yard cutting some hay when one of the neighbors who resides in that locality and who is now working at the Burlington shops, came along and was greeted by the word, "Scab," it is claimed, and the party who was called the name, started out after Mr. Roucka who secured a pitchfork for his defense. The story will be poured into the listening ear of Judge Woodrough this afternoon.
