ESAU'S TWO WIVES

And Esau was forty years old when he took to wife Judith the daughter of Beerl the Hittite, and Bashemith the daughter of Elon the Hittite; which were a grief of mind unto Isaac and to Rebekah.—Genesis xxvii, 34 and 35.

The best bet is the one that is never made.

Japan announces it is evacuating Vladivostok. What, again?

We wonder if Europe really wants to get on her own feet or Uncle Sam's?

Only a few more days and school will open. When do we have the first school play?

Poland will borrow Harvard's giant telescope. She may be looking for the German money.

A mark, a ruble or a kroner sturdy values still surround the dollar and the sterling pound.

This is the time of the year when it seems lots easier for restaurants to serve their drinking water cold.

The healing processes of peace have gone so far that it is no longer considered good form to talk about cooties.

The chief difference between the Turkish atrocities and the Hittite massacre is that some times the Turks are punished.

One cannot help sympathizing with a president who has two big strikes and one republican congress on his hands at once.

The love story that breaks off before it reaches the altar is usually the most interesting to the neighbors much as they enjoy a wedding.

The doctor says that the people do not drink enough water, and there seems to be no way to make them drink it, except to prohibit it.

Those counterfeiters in Kansas seem to be going to a good deal of trouble to make had money in a state where good money is so plentiful.

Well, we don't suppose there's much danger from the communist party in America so long as they have to hold their conventions out in the woods.

Margot Asquith still maintains that Americans have too much money, a condition that will be done away with if the English lecturers have their way.

An older married man gives this advice to the younger ones: "Many a man has gotten rich through forgetting to bring home what his wife told him to bring."

The inventor of the safety pin left an estate valued at $4,000,000. He deserved it all, and more—bachelors, from birth on, simply can't get any comfort out of the other sort.

Wealthy Americans are leasing small islands where they can store liquor and guzzle to their heart's content. This information from Sir Harry Cordeaux, governor general of the Bahamas.

Congress is confident it can pass a bonus bill over the president's veto, but it is not so confident it can get it by the November election when the country finds it contains no provision for paying it.

All German farmers are ordered by the Reichstag to turn over the government a fourth of this year's grain crops. The grain will be sold to the poor at a third of market price. Germany is wise enough to look after its own unfortunates. In America, charity begins away from home.

Young James Marchesani, arrested for throwing stones at a house in West Hoboken, N. J., must serve an hour a day in jail for 90 days. This installment plan system of prison sentence might be applied in numerous cases. Agony is more effective when prolonged in small doses over a long time than when administered in one short dose. It might do wonders with auto speeders.

American export trade is 59 per cent larger than before the war. So reports the Department of Commerce. Money is used as the measure, however. Actual tonnage of shipments has not changed much. When most of us think we are watching the course of foreign trade, we are really watching the course of prices.

It costs 55 per cent more to live now than in 1914, says the foremost price expert, the National Industry Conference board. If you have a record of what you made in 1914, compare it with what you are making now. If the gain is less than 55 per cent, you have lost financially. All on the law of averages, of course. Natural increase of earning power as a result of experience, also good or bad luck, may disturb the workings of the law of averages—in individual cases.

A CLEVER TRICK

Every once in a while the housewives of Plattsmouth are summoned to their front doors to meet a plausible, smooth-tongued salesman who desires to exhibit "non-rip" and "file-proof" hosiery.

It is astonishing to see this young man rip a nail file along the weave of a silk stocking without tearing the silk of extra fine quality.

But there's nothing to it, ladies. You could do the same trick yourself on any pair of stockings you may have in your house, no matter how cheap and flimsy.

For it is a trick—only that and nothing more, and the young man who is offering you "file-proof" hosiery invariably charges you more than you would pay for the same quality of hosiery in one of the local stores.

Just stick the file point between the silk threads and nothing will break. A little practice, and you can perform the trick quite as cleverly as the salesman.

The real test of silk stockings is the freshness, quality and fineness of the silk. Nothing else will suffice.

CANCELLATION OF DEBTS

Some Wall street bankers, notoriously generous with other people's money, second the motion about Uncle Sam cancelling the loans he made to Europe. See behind the scenes.

In addition to these government loans, Europe owes private American somewhere between three and six billion dollars. Part of this sum, known as "the unfunded credit balance," represents the sale of exported goods that haven't been paid for. Obviously, the transaction has been financed through banks.

If Wall street is so keen about cancelling debts, it could practice what it preaches by digging into its pockets and cancelling the unfunded trade balance. That's a horse of a different color, Rollo!

The fire began to burn the stick, the stick began to beat the dog, etc. That's how a chain cancellation of European debts would work out. England would forgive France, we'd forgive England—and be left holding the hot potato, and no one to forgive us.

Such a cancellation, England reasons, would induce France to pare down her demands for German indemnity. In the last analysis, the effect would be to make America pay part of the German indemnity. And there's something we are not ready to do. It is all right to forgive Germany, if you feel that way about it, but helping her pay the indemnity is a different question.
