Suit sleeves look as if the dress-maker didn't have enough goods.

Dempsey may fight Joe Beckett in London, if enough British care to see a joke.

The last rose of summer is not here yet; but our Palm Beach suit looks like it.

The nice thing about cheap European money is a man in debt doesn't owe so much.

When you see a man climbing the ladder to success, you can bet a woman is holding it.

In Boston, a speeder hit a seven-story building. They say he claims he blew his horn.

Our birth rate is declining. Prosperity and posterity both are arriving rather slowly.

Lord Robert Cecil says he hopes to lecture in America. It sounds more like a threat.

"Missing Since Monday"—headline. You can't blame her, since Monday is wash day.

Epidemic of baby stealing reported in Paris. Strange part is the babies are under 16.

The woman who loves every hair on her husband's head hates every hair on his shoulder.

The line of least resistance leads downward and the line of most persistence leads upward.

Since men are flying around like birds, we may have scarecrows instead of lightning rods.

Health hint: If you get sleepy during church do not try to use a "pillar" of the church.

Now there is a surplus in the U. S. treasury. But don't tell the European nations about it.

Since worry makes one bald, what a pity a man can't worry with his face instead of his head.

"America," says a statesman, "made the world what it is today." Always blaming America.

Hunt the bright side. If we knew what the weather was going to be, how could strangers talk?

This may be an awful country; but a Swiss firm is using Austrian money for wrapping soap.

Why don't some women have to pay income tax on three-fourths of what their husbands make?

We have been expecting to see in the paper where some coal wagon driver absconded with a ton.

The King of Siam has only one wife while his father had 300; but then, that may be the reason.

"We have too many single men," says a minister. An old maid tells us there are even more than that.

An actress has a hard life. About the time she gets used to her husband it is time to get another one.

Another strange thing is how a great many men favor short skirts "because they are more sanitary"—except for members of his own family.

It would always be possible to avoid war, except that, as shown in the case of Great Britain and Turkey, the other fellow always is so unreasonable.

The ex-kaizer's family is said to be opposing his marriage because the lady is not of royal birth. But the strange part is that the lady's family, which is not of royal birth, is not making any fuss because the kaizer is.

Among the most delicious events scheduled for September are the trials of 54 brokers in New York, where 85 brokerage firms have failed in the last six months. District Attorney Bantom, discussing the indictments, says that assets of the dear departed total less than two cents for each $1 of liabilities. How did they happen to overlook the two cents?

The total commercial canteloupe crop for 1922 is estimated by the department of agriculture at 44,500 cars or 37 per cent greater than the crop of 1921. The estimate is based on 350 crates to a car with an average yield of 150 crates an acre.

Henry Ford says he will fire any employe with liquor on his breath, on his hip, or in his cellar at home. Ford bans booze because it recently has been causing many accidents in his Detroit plant. This seems like old times. John Barleycorn was doomed first as a Safety First measure. The sentence was approved by Supreme Judge Industrial Efficiency. That's the real reason no liquor can be sold openly.

Senator Borah, attacking the proposed $5,000,000 loan to Liberia, claims $1,000,000 of it would go to some New York bankers to pay Librarian obligations taken over by them at 10 cents on the dollar. The quickest way to get to the truth of any big movement or national proposal is to find the answer to this question: "Who gets the profits out of it?" A selfish motive, somewhere, behind nearly everything where money is involved.

SCIENTIFIC CRIME

The latest tools of criminals were displayed in New York at the international conference of police.

Detectives seem most interested in apparatus used by "rope workers." With the skill of "human flies," this breed of crooks get on a roof and climb down as many as 14 stories to commit robbery, using only their muscles and clothesline.

Burglars now have a fad of carrying their tools in violins and banjo cases.

Electricity is being used widely by yeggmen. Hooking to a light socket, they go through a safe door with electric drills. In blowing a safe, they even use an electric fuse-exploder.

Detective Boylan says the yeggmen never have been able to perfect the use of acetylene torches for burning through steel vaults.

All around, the "scientific" tools of crime are disappointing to the curious. In the main they are crude, about the same as a decade ago, with nothing startling as in "master mind" detective fiction.

Each professional criminal, the convicted police say, has a characteristic style of work peculiar to himself.

For instance, if a window is broken noiselessly by plastering flypaper on it to prevent the crash of falling glass, the police know instantly that the crook is one of a score or so who specialize in this method.

Further elimination is easy, for certain crooks work only on Saturday nights, at certain hours or during storms.

Cocaine is the chief tool of the New York crook, says Detective Frank Quigly. He explains:

"Anybody that goes crooked begins taking it to steady his nerves. If a man shows a yellow streak, his pals make him take a big whiff of cocaine before they will go out on a job with him. I don't believe a lofty burglary or any other dangerous crime has been pulled off in New York for years except after they have doped themselves to keep their nerves."

Crime and the drug traffic go hand in hand. To attack crime at its roots and paralyze its growth, stop drug traffic. That is the way, and police know it, but it's easier said than done. The job, however, is not impossible.
