This is a Matter of Much Concern Edward Kelly has the good fortune last week to secure a car and shipped a car of wheat to Omaha.

The matter of getting cars to ship grain is one which has puzzled the shipper and has been one which has been a source of much inconvenience to those who have grain to go.

Especially is this the case of wheat which has had a tendency to accumulate weevil. The question of sufficient cars for the transportation of the farm products is one which should receive such action that there would be sufficient cars for the transportation of the commodities necessary for the supplying of the wants of the people.

Reports of Homes Smeared with Yellow Paint and One Incident of Attempted Fire.

From Friday's Daily. The petty intimidations that have been practiced on men working in the Burlington shops and especially those who have returned to work during the strike seems to continue.

At the home of Fred Geis in the south part of the city a few mornings ago a bunch of partially charred papers was found stuck in the corner of the frame parlor.

At the Harris residence there was an alarm and Mr. Harris investigated the matter, but missed hitting the culprits when he fired on them.

The Journal has long contended that it was not the rank and file of the labor union men that carried on this kind of work and that those who were in the leadership are the ones who are responsible.

Those who are opposed to the striking men and their interests find in these acts of violence an inspiration for their opposition as showing a spirit of disorder that is contrary to good Americanism.

The time has come when these things must be stopped as the community has for the past ninety days been in a state of unsettledness that has arisen from the conditions brot on by the strike.

STATE URGES CAREFUL SELECTION OF SEED CORN

Reports Show that Farmers Adopt Methods Urged by U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Altho corn is probably sufficiently matured in most parts of the state to be out of the danger of frost, still seed corn selection in the field is well worth while for other reasons, just as in the old saying that "two leaves are exactly alike," so it is with ears of corn and corn plants.

Agricultural Extension Results Reports received by the United States Department of Agriculture indicate that 2,215,000 farmers, or an average of about 1,100 per county, adopted methods introduced by the county extension agent.

HALLOWE'EN IS TIME OF MYSTIC IMPORT Many of Our Modern Decorations and Games Come from Centuries of Superstition. The one season of the year that is a reminder of the mysteries and superstition of the past ages is that of Hallowe'en with its strange combination of the observance of the early Christian holiday and the pagan superstitions and which to the present day is made an important part of the observance of this occasion on October 30th. To celebrate the passing of Hallowe'en and the season preceding the present day residents of the United States have called all of the mystic emblems and devices to aid in making the occasion one of marked interest. The black cats, witches and goblins have become very popular in the decorations for Hallowe'en and in the late years masks and caps in keeping with the strange weird ceremonies have come into use. To assist the host or hostess in the decorations for the Hallowe'en party the Journal has arranged for a large and very handsome stock of the newest designs in caps, masks, paper streamers in orange and black, fancy crepe paper in the designs of the season and special favor holders for the Hallowe'en luncheon as well as the ornamental napkins bearing the proper designs. There can also be found here the pumpkin lanterns and the cut-out witches and black cats that are so popular in the decorations of the season. Remember when you are arranging for the Hallowe'en party to call and look over the stock here to secure the best and the latest that the market affords in the fancy designs in the paper lines.
