Young People Marry

We are pleased to chronicle the wedding of 1922 of the young people of Murray Miss Marie Puls, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Puls, of this city, and who is one of the most pleasing of young ladies and popular with all the people of this town and community, and Mr. Forest E. Ray, who lives in this city as well and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Rayner. The young people were quietly married at Plattsmouth during the week and returned to reside with their many friends here. But the surprise was not so much of a surprise as the coming event was known by many of their friends. The Journal joins with their many friends in wishing them a long happy and useful life. That they might know that their young friends wished them well was evidenced by the hilarious serenades which they gave the newly weds. They will make their home here.

Get your winter's supply of potatoes now! Genuine Red River Early Ohio's, Minnesota grown, per bushel 90c at H. M. Soennichsen & Co.

Were Married in Omaha

Last Tuesday at Omaha occurred the wedding of two of the popular young people of this vicinity, when Mr. Ivan Deles Denier and Miss Catherine Browne were united in marriage just prior to their departure for Enid, Oklahoma, where they will visit for a short time before returning to take up the work on the farm here in Murray. These two young people, both very popular and excellent young people surprised their friends when they went to Omaha and were there married, departing for a trip before embarking on the sea of married life. They will far and away be at home to their friends after they are duly settled at their home.

The groom is the son of Mrs. James Deles Denier and a young man whom all who know honor and count him their friend. The bride, Miss Catherine Browne, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Browne and a young lady of many accomplishments, and a very popular young lady in Murray society and elsewhere. The Journal joins with their many friends in wishing them a long, happy and useful life.

Pure Bred Boars Increase Profits

Farmers engaged in the breeding and raising of hogs are in the business, principally for the profit that is to be made by marketing grains and pork produced on the farm through the medium of hogs. As the saying is, "The end of every hog is the pork barrel."

In order to make the feeding of hogs profitable, the farmer must have a hog that has constitutional vigor, that reproduces rapidly and in great numbers, that feeds economically and matures early and that will breed uniformly in type, conformation and color. In addition to this, an ideal market hog must have smoothness and quality, show evenness from end to end and take on the finish that appeals to the eye of the critical buyer. The profitable market hog has a capacity for the assimilation of grains, rough feeds and pastures, turning them into high priced pork. He is a hog that under any and all conditions on the average farm, will make good.

While the qualifications above mentioned may obtain to some extent in grade hogs or hogs of mixed breeding, still they would be more general and more definitely established in pure bred displaced scrub boars. The pure bred boar has been bred for generations for uniformity, early maturity and easy feeding qualities. Being prepotent, he will transmit these good characteristics to his pigs, thus increasing the general efficiency of the market stock. Going to market earlier with finish and quality inherited from the boar, these pigs will bring the top price. This returns the farmer more money for his time and labor and for the grains and hogs produced on the farm—Joe Haaga, assistant secretary, National Duroc Jersey Record association.

Have You Noticed the Roads?

For the past few months I have been in charge of the road work of this district, and with many difficult pieces of hard work to look after, we have completed all which have thus far come to our lot.

I would like to call to the attention of the voters, the work which has been done and let them be the judge as to its merits.

Should the work meet with the approval of the voters, I would like their support for the position of road overseer. If elected I shall endeavor to do the best possible work in the interest of the public.

I expect to continue to make my home here, though it seems to have been reported that I contemplate moving away.

The melancholy days have come. The saddest of the season— When dealers boost the price of coal Without apparent reason.

When fuel is so hard to get, And dollars scarce to roll— When you sit bundled to the neck And curse the price of coal.

But here's a tip I'll hand to you, My patient trusting friend, 'Twill cut your fuel bill in two And thus your fortune end.

Go to Mack's, straight down the line, Then just around the corner— And buy a water bottle fine, For there is nothing warmer.

With this great treasure on the place For spring there is no hurry, You go around with smiling face And let the coal man worry.
