

Hands Up!

It looks like a "hold-up" to be confronted with the new prices of woollens for Fall. The American Woolen Co. opened their lines for Fall 1923 on January 22, and the average advance is 20 per cent. We don't like it and we can't help it, but facts must be faced. The wise thing to do is to buy any clothing you NEED

NOW. We can give you a good suit now at $35; some not so good at $20 and $25. The only way to beat the advance is to buy before it comes.

APPOINTMENTS SUBMITTED TO THE SENATE BY BRYAN

Governor Sends in Names of Appointees to Senate For Confirmation Yesterday.

Lincoln, Jan. 30.—Governor Bryan today submitted to the senate for confirmation the following appointments:
Mrs. Carrie A. Birss, 3308 Lincoln boulevard, Omaha, to the state board of control, for six years at a salary of $4,000 a year, to succeed Miss Katherine F. Worley of Omaha, republican member, whose term expires July 1, 1923.
Miss E. Ruth Pyrtle of Lincoln, defeated candidate for state superintendent, to the state normal board to succeed E. H. Gerhart of Newman Grove, for six years.

Former Congressman Dan V. Stephens of Fremont, democrat, to the state normal board to succeed Miss Etta Young of Omaha.

Mrs. Birss had the endorsement of Mayor James G. Dahlman and Dr. Jennie Callias of Omaha, and others, the governor stated. In the last two weeks, the race for the appointment narrowed down to Mrs. Birss and Mrs. Hester Bronson Copper, an Omaha newspaper woman.
Mrs. Birss is the widow of the late P. J. Birss, Omaha business man. She has been active in democratic affairs for several years, and headed the Democratic Woman's club last fall. She was for three years leader of the Omaha Woman's club, and was chairman of the civic committee. She also has been active in Red Cross and church work.
The senate may take as much time as it desires to confirm the appointments.

REDUCTION OF COST OF AUTO LICENSES UP

MEASURE NOW PENDING WOULD CUT LICENSE COST ON CARS HALF PRESENT PRICE.

One of the measures that has been proposed in the state legislature which is of much interest to the taxpayers and the various counties over the state is that of House Roll No. 171, which proposes the reduction of the auto license fee one-half of what the present rate is and the measure is one that has been urged by Governor Bryan.

The proponents of the bill figure that the lessening of the expense of the road work would permit the lightening of the license fee to the auto and truck owners of the state to one-half of the present charge of $90 per license.

On the other hand the opponents of the measure who number among them the state organizations of the county commissioners and clerks are very much opposed to the change as a greater drain on the counties and the necessity of either abandoning much of the road work or creating deficits that must be raised by other forms of taxation.

Here in Cass county in the last year the sum secured from the sale of auto licenses was something over $35,000 and of this amount three per cent was sent to Lincoln to be used by the state, seventy-five per cent of the remainder was spent on the construction and maintaining of state aid highways and the remaining twenty-five per cent was turned into the county dragging fund to be used on the county roads, and with this assistance the cost of the road maintaining was hardly sufficient to maintain the roads in as good shape as they were for the year.

The county commissioners association has figured that the farmers of the state will pay for the remaining sixty per cent comes from the town and city resident to help keep up the roads in good shape.
With the figures shown there was a large amount raised over the state in this form of license tax and in maintaining the roads and this has proved a great benefit to the auto owners as it has made travel more comfortable and the roads in shape at all seasons of the year as the state and federal aid roads have been kept up in the best of shape and the mileage of the roads increased each year to cover the various counties in time with a network of the best roads that the funds will permit.

While the car owner are the chief parties interested in the matter, both as the persons who pay the fees as well as those who use the roads the most, the other taxpayers have an interest in the fact that if it were not for this fund there would have to be other means of raising the amount needed, certainly no one would care to see the roads in the condition of the years past.

MOTOR BUS ON RAIL LINES IS NEWEST PROPOSAL

Measure Prepared by Representative O'Malley Would Enlarge and Regulate Bus Traffic.

A new departure in the motor bus business is proposed in the bill that Representative O'Malley of Greeley county has introduced in the legislature. The bill would enlarge the sphere of usefulness of the bus and grant the railroads the privilege of placing busses equipped with flanged wheels on their lines for inter-town travel which could be handled with fewer men than is required in train service.

The bill also gives the state railway commission the power to regulate the use of the bus lines and to determine the necessity of need for the service between towns.

This power is conferred by what is known as the necessity and convenience clause. Its effect is to make the bus line men show to the satisfaction of the commission that his line is necessary for the convenience of the public. Its jurisdiction is that if motor busses are to be allowed to divide passenger traffic with the railroads, the latter will have the legal right to curtail the present service, since they cannot be compelled to give service perpetually at a loss, and service of the railroads is also being seriously cut into by passenger revenues before the busses became numerous.

Under Mr. O'Malley's bill the commission will be empowered to provide rules of various sort, such as speed and service of the busses, as well as assessed in the bill, a special road tax to be paid to the counties in which they operate to compensate for their tearing up the road because of their weight and size. They are also required to carry liability insurance.

DISCUSSION OF THE POLICE POWER OF THE STATES

District Judge James T. Begley Addresses Young Men's Bible Class on Government.

In the address of Judge James T. Begley at the class rooms of the Young Men's Bible Class of the Methodist church last evening, the members enjoyed one of the best addresses of the winter season and one that was full of valuable insights into how many of the rights of the states has developed in the years that our government has been in existence.

The police power of the states, as the judge explained in his opening, was not the actual force represented by the policemen on the street but was the rights of the individual and of the state that has from time to time been brought out in the courts as defining the individual and state rights against that of the federal government and assisting the functions in which the state should act in the protection of its people.

The defining of the police power of the state was first made by John Marshall as chief justice of the supreme court in the early part of the nineteenth century and had since from time to time been defined in different cases that had come to the attention of the courts.

Many of these examples were cited in that of the right to provide for drainage of lands, state election laws and qualifications for voters, laws regulating the hours of labor, and many of the other special legislative acts that the courts had repeatedly held were a part of the rights of the states and of the individual citizens of the states as against the federal government.

The discussion of the police power led to an informal discussion by the judge in response to the questions of the deeply interested audience and in this the court took the opportunity to urge a greater study of the bible and the application of the old time methods of the conduct of the life of the individual relative to the home altar around which the families were reared and where the great men of the nation had received their inspiration.

He had attended the grand lodge meeting of the Sons of Herman, at St. Paul, and at that conference matters of great importance to the membership, including the discussion of a policy for the further conduct of the insurance department, were talked over.

Mr. Mattes still has a great regard for Nebraska and it need not be surprising to his many friends in Otoe county if he returns to the state to make his home. He is now living at Evergreen, Col., about 25 miles from Denver.—Nebraska City Press.

NOTED ATHLETE PRAISES TANLAC

Expert Physical Instructor in Chicago Says it is Just the Thing to Build One Up.

"Tanlac has scored a 'knockout' over all my troubles, gave me back my former vigorous health and strength and made me feel fine from head to foot," declared George Finerman, 1835 South Turner street, Chicago, who well knows physical instructor and one of Chicago's clearest amateur boxers.

"When I began taking Tanlac, I was feeling run-down and my customary strength and energy were slipping away from me. My appetite was below normal, my stomach was occasionally upset with indigestion, and at times I felt sluggish and depressed and couldn't get sufficient sleep.
"Well, Tanlac gave these troubles a terrific blow, and now I am eating, sleeping and feeling better than ever. I have more energy, can do better and faster foot-work and the most strenuous exercise never tires me now. I am glad to recommend Tanlac to anyone—in or out of athletic circles—for it certainly strengthens and builds a man up. It's great!"
