NO PLAN TO MOVE DOANE COLLEGE

Trustees Brand Report of Removal to Beatrice without Foundation - Are Soliciting Funds.

From Friday's Daily. The proposition to move Doane college from Crete to Beatrice is one of several offers either for a new or for consolidation with other similar institutions of the state...

E. J. Halner, one of the trustees, denies that any such action is being considered. "Nothing of the kind is pending officially," he says.

A campaign to raise $500,000 for the college was begun last winter. Over $100,000 has already been subscribed in Lincoln and more is expected to be secured for the fund...

Five members of the board of trustees, including Chairman W. A. Sellack, who is out of the city, reside in Lincoln.

State Land Commissioner Dan Swanson has asked the state engineer to make a new measurement of the east wing of the old capitol to ascertain whether the walls are in danger of falling.

Mr. Swanson says he does not believe the walls have tottered any since the former measurements were taken by the state engineer...

The legislative halls are both in a precarious condition and will have to be occupied by another legislature. When the excavation for the new capitol was made within a few feet of the defective east wing...

Washington, Aug. 3.—The republican organization in the senate will lose a vote during the next congress through the death of President Harding, a vote which many of the party leaders thought might be necessary to save the control of that party over matters of legislation.

Now that the office of vice president is no longer filled, it will be necessary for the senate to select from its own membership a presiding officer, who as a senator would cast his vote on roll calls...

Mr. Holman told interviewers that the president's hands raised as he asked Mrs. Harding to continue reading. Instantly his expression changed. He was dead.

LOOK FOR SLUMP IN MARRIAGE MARKET

Closed Season is Now on With New Law Effective Which Requires Ten Days' Notice.

The marriage license market will have a decided slump in the state of Nebraska is the general prediction, following the going into effect of the new law today. It is estimated that if the law is followed closely that there is going to be a matrimonial drought for the period from the 2nd to the 13th of August as it requires a ten day notice to secure a license to secure a license and this will carry the wait to the bride and groom over the 13th.

The applicants under the new law must not only wait the ten days for the license but also must make a sworn statement to the officer issuing the license that they are of "sound contracting mind and unmarried, neither divorced within the past six months, neither adjudged an imbecile or a feeble minded person nor adjudged afflicted with epilepsy or hereditary insanity."

However, there are bright spots in the law and anyone who has already secured a license prior to August 3rd may be wedded at any time and also the county judges may use their discretion as to the matter of publicity of the list of applicants by posting in the court house and in most of the bulletin boards will not be extensively used as the applications are generally always published in the papers.

Many of those who have been contemplating matrimony have labored under the impression that the Nebraska law required a physical examination but such is not the case, only the sworn statements of the applicants being necessary.

MAKES A REAL CATCH

From Saturday's Daily. One of the largest catches on the Missouri river at this place is reported to have been made a few days ago by Edward Dushus at the mouth of the Platte river and which consisted of a seventy-pound silver cat fish, which is the finest specimen of its kind that has been found in the river in many years.

The fish was not landed without difficulty and for some twenty minutes the fisherman battled with the king of the silver cats before he was finally hauled into the boat and brought to shore. A fish of this size is certainly worthy of comment and Mr. Dushus feels very well pleased over the catch that was his good luck.

The fish is being held by Mr. Dushus for the state fisheries, a representative of which is expected here in the next few days to take the fish to South Bend.
