John Calvin Anderson Arrives

John Calvin Anderson on his arrival was considerably surprised at the antics of his father and let out a war whoop which could be heard for over a hundred feet as one was listening for it and the fond father, A. C. Anderson who works with the A. F. Sturm lumber company was looking for the greeting and that is the reason why he manifested so much joy over the occasion of the arrival of the son. The old mother is getting along nicely as is the son but just what will be done with the father time only can determine. We probably would have said more about it if John had been twins but what we have failed to say you may ask Andy and he will tell you.

INDICATIONS POINT TO GOOD CORN CROP

Wheat Yields Disappointing and Spring Grain Slightly Below Expectations, Says Report

From Tuesday's Daily. Corn prospects are good, wheat yields disappointing and spring grain slightly below expectation in places, according to a report issued by the Division of Crop and Live Stock Estimates. Black stem rust is quite general throughout western and northern Nebraska.

With a very few exceptions, the corn prospects are good throughout the state. Most of the crop has tasseled and with sufficient rain during the next three weeks the crop will be large. While some of the fields are quite weedy and a certain percentage of the crop quite lately, the average condition is satisfactory.

The winter wheat crop which has been so uncertain since it was planted finally ended in a disappointment with low yields and much badly shrunken grain. Two weeks before harvest the crop appeared very good and had sufficient straw for twice the yield that is being obtained.

While black stem rust has done serious damage throughout the western half and northern Nebraska, this is not the only factor. There is a trace of black stem rust in the southeastern quarter, but still the yields are low due to shrunken grain and partly filled heads. One of the causes advanced was the sudden change from cool, wet weather to dry weather and high temperatures. Due to the long period of wet weather was naturally shallow rooted. The rains packed the ground and after ceasing dried out rapidly and there was not sufficient moisture to meet the demands of the heavy straw and foliage and naturally the wheat did not fill properly.

The spring grain crops were reduced somewhat also. Spring wheat in western Nebraska which was so promising was severely injured by black stem rust. Oats are good in southern Nebraska but the crop is not normal in northeastern Nebraska.

Old Time Resident Here

From Tuesday's Daily. This morning, John W. Reasoner of Ashland was here visiting with his old time friends around the court house and renewing acquaintances of the long ago. Mr. Reasoner while calling on his old friend, James M. Robertson, clerk of the district court, was in a mood to recall the old days in this locality and among other incidents related the following: Mr. Reasoner's visit he had made to this part of Nebraska back in 1875, being a member of an excursion party from his home town of Monmouth, Illinois, and the nearby country and which was looking over the land in eastern Nebraska. The party made a short stop at Plattsmouth where they were transferred by boat across the river and just north of this city on the bottom lands the excursion was stopped for a rest and the Illinois boys played a baseball game with the team from Burlington in the afternoon. Mr. Reasoner participated. In the year 1880 Mr. Reasoner permanently located here on a farm near South Bend and remained there until a few years ago when he removed to Ashland. He has been very active in the republican politics of the county during a few years when he was a follower of the Populist banner, but since he has returned to the fold of his former belief.

Train is Delayed

From Monday's Daily. The afternoon passenger train over the Burlington between this city and Omaha was delayed for forty-five minutes today when the electric switching plant that connects the line with that of the Missouri Pacific refused to work properly and as a result the passenger train due in this city at 1:12 was forced to remain at LaPlatte until well into the afternoon.

Depart on Vacation

From Monday's Daily. Yesterday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Carlson departed for the west where they expect to spend two weeks on a vacation and outing and which will be much enjoyed as Mr. Carlson was unable to take one last year owing to the conditions in the railroad work here. They go first to Denver and from there to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado to view that wonder place and from there on to the Pacific coast for a short visit with friends in that section of the country.

Will Leave for California

From Monday's Daily. Tomorrow morning on No. 1 over the Burlington, Morgan Waybright of Los Angeles, who has been visiting here for a few weeks at the home of Judge and Mrs. Allen J. Beeson, will depart for his home on the west coast and on his journey will be accompanied by Miss Virginia Beeson, who is to spend the winter there and will attend either the University of Southern California or the branch of the University of California, which is maintained at Los Angeles. The many friends of Mr. Waybright have enjoyed very much his visit back in the old home and are wishing him and Miss Beeson a safe and pleasant journey to the west.

THE OLD COVERED WAGON

From Tuesday's Daily. Yesterday afternoon there passed through this city one of the old covered wagons that had belonged to a past day when this was the popular means of travel across the plains of the great west from the Missouri river to the mountains of Colorado. The old wagon was gray and old and had evidently been in service a long time. Driving the wagon was an old veteran whose grizzled beard lay on his bosom and with his wagon drawn by a team of not too very fleshy horses it was certainly a picture of the past in the mountain country of Montana.

The driver and his old time vehicle were headed westward to the Colorado region, he informed some of the residents who were curiously inspecting his layout.

Doing Very Nicely

From Wednesday's Daily. The many friends of Mr. Abram Ruple in this city will be pleased to learn that Mr. Ruple's business operation very nicely yesterday at the Immanuel hospital in Omaha and at last reports from there was resting easy and doing just as well as could possibly be expected under the circumstances of the case.
